YANKS UNLEASH ALL OUT DRIVE ON CASABLANCA

LONDON, Nov. 10 (AP).—The resistance of Casablanca, chief city and Atlantic port of French Morocco, was fast crumbling tonight under an all out naval, air, and armored assault by United States forces.

Moreover, with the conquest of Oran, Algeria's second largest city, American expeditionary armies had wiped out effective resistance along more than 500 miles of Africa's western Mediterranean coast.

Hence it appeared that in a matter of hours the American armies would be in effective control of all French North Africa except for eastern Algeria and Tunisia.

Strike Toward Rommel's Rear.

Deep in the desert from the conquered city of Algiers, American columns were reported striking southeast on a straight line toward axis Tripoli, intending to by-pass the main eastern Algerian and Tunisian coastal defenses to get at the rear of Marshal Rommel's beaten Libyan armies.

A German report said the bey of Tunis had granted President Roosevelt's request for the passage of American troops to Italian Libya. American troops evidently were well on their way to Libya, altho the Berlin report of the bey's acquiescence was treated with some reserve in London lest it be merely an attempt to justify the movement of axis troops into Tunisia.

Powerful Reënforcements.

Vichy reports told of powerful allied reënforcements pouring into and thru Gibraltar on their way to the Mediterranean and African war theaters.

The reports of action in the various war zones as told by allied communiques and dispatches and reports gleaned from Vichy, Berlin, Rome, and neutral radio broadcasts follow:

MOROCCO

Casablanca was under attack by American Rear Adm. H. K. Hewitt's heavy warships and dive bombers and from American armored columns which had infiltrated the city's eastern suburbs with tanks.

The allied command announced that the American naval and air force had "overcome to a large degree the resistance of French naval units along the coast in the Casablanca area." Mainstay of this resistance, the 35,000 ton battleship Jean Bart, was a flaming hulk off the port, and supporting Vichy light forces were wiped out.

The harbor of Casablanca, it was reported, is effectively blockaded.

Rabat Isolated and Evacuated.

Evidently the city of Casablanca itself was just barely holding out. Vichy acknowledged that "superior armored units" were heavily attacking the city.

Allied headquarters reported the full occupation of Fedala and Mehdia, north of Casablanca, and Safi, to the south.

Rabat, the normal seat of French power in Morocco, on the coast north of Fedala and Mehdia, evidently was isolated and evacuated by the Vichy commander, Gen. Auguste Nogues, who moved his headquarters inland.

Tangier reports said American troops still were landing in the southern Moroccan ports of Mogador and Agadir. Tanks and parachutists were reported among the forces.

ALGERIA AND TUNISIA

From Algiers, by the shortest route to Libya, an American force was reported in Vichy accounts to be driving on Bou Saada, 120 miles southeast of Algiers, and about 400 miles from the Tripolitan border of western Libya. Vichy also reported fighting at Blida, 25 miles inland from Algiers.

Vichy reported that Yves Chatel, governor general of Algeria, had moved his headquarters to Constantine, in the east, and reassumed administration of Algeria from there. Chatel's normal seat was in Algiers, but he was in Vichy last Sunday night when Algiers capitulated.

In London it was believed the Americans planned to reach Libya by

Hitler Orders Troops to Take the Free Zone

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Nov. 11 (Wednesday) (AP).—The Paris radio today said the French government would be removed from Vichy to Versailles, near Paris.

LONDON, Nov. 11 (Wednesday)—(AP).—German troops were reported ordered into unoccupied France by Adolf Hitler today "to repel an American and British landing" operation which the Fuehrer declared "we have known for 24 hours" was intended as a sequel to the AEF occupational coup across the Mediterranean in North Africa.

A letter from Hitler to Marshal Henri Petain, French chief of state, said:

"I have given this (order) with one single aim and that is to repel an American and British landing.

"I have given the order to the troops to look after the interests of Fracne," the letter went on.

"Protecting" Possessions.

"The German government desires as far as possible in collaboration with the French army to protect the African possessions of European powers.

[Another dispatch said Hitler had ordered occupation of the French Island of Corsica, 300 miles north of the African coast.]

"The German soldier as much as the French soldier would prefer to work peacefully side by side with his wife and in his home.

"Signed, ADOLF HITLER."

The letter was read by a spokesman of the German army.

Britain Accused.

The announcement began:

"Frenchmen, officers and men of the French army:

"On Sept. 3, 1939, the British government without cause or reason declared war upon Germany.

"Those responsible for this war unfortunately succeeded at that time in instigating the French government to join the declaration of war.

"For Germany, this constituted an unbearable provocation. The German government had never made any claims on her which might have caused her offense.

"The German people who then had to face this aggression while sacrificing the blood of its sons never felt any hatred for France.

"Nevertheless, this war started in this fashion and involved a great many families of the two countries in grief and sorrow.

Asserts British Fled.

"After the crumbling of the Anglo-French front which, after the flight of the British to Dunkirk, developed into a catastrophe, France asked Germany for an armistice.

"Under the armistice Germany asked nothing which might be incompatible with the honor of the French army.

"Precautions, however, had to be taken—in order to prevent the fight from being started again in the interests of the British warmongers by means of paid agents.

"Germany had no intention whatsoever of humiliating

Went Without Sleep for 3 Days.

BY WES GALLAGHER.

[U. S. Correspondent with the AEF in North Africa.]

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Nov. 10 (AP).—American assault teams, grimy with battle and three days without sleep, smashed into Oran today, occupying the great French naval base at 1 p. m. [7 a. m., Chicago war time], freeing the entire western end of the Mediterranean from the danger of axis aggression.

In a field jacket at his headquarters, Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. [Ike] Eisenhower, commander in chief of the expedition in North Africa, announced the fall of Oran to combined land, sea and air assault after an American tank column broke into the city at 7:30 a. m. and began an all out assault.

Operate from Airfield.

The 12th United States air force under Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle, operating from four captured airfields, aided in the capture of Oran. La Senia, the last field to be taken, was captured by an armored force after two days of fighting.

The airmen gave air cover to a British naval force under Commodore T. H. Troubridge, a direct descendant of one of Nelson's captains, who hammered the port from the sea side.

Assault tanks soon infiltrated into the outskirts of the town. These tanks, supporting the combat forces of Maj. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall, started their simultaneous attack from the east and west. One launched its drive from near Cape Nero el Kibir on the west and reached the city limits, three miles from the starting point, in two hours.

From Seven Miles to East.

Seven miles east of Oran another élite combat team started driving directly on the city and sent an offshoot directly to the west. This side column pushed aside a French flanking force and engaged in a sharp fight when the French began a heavy counterattack at La Macta. Fighting was reported eastward to Orleansville, halfway to Algiers.

After the tank column broke into the city, the French asked for an armistice and Brig. Gen. Oliver crossed the lines and arranged the capitulation.

The isolated French posts in the interior are now cut off and probably eventually must surrender after this amazing 60 hour campaign.

The naval forces destroyed all light French naval forces which attempted to interfere with the landings.

American soldiers proved their hardihood by smashing forward with the final punch necessary to end the battle and open the big port to allied convoys.

CHICAGO SALUTES HERO DEAD TODAY

Parade Will Precede Loop Armistice Ceremony.

President Will Speak

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10. [Special].—Gen. John J. Pershing, 82 years old, who led the American expeditionary forces to victory in France in 1918, will go with President Roosevelt to Arlington National cemetery tomorrow for Armistice day ceremonies. The President, who will lay a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and speak briefly to the nation by radio, announced at his press conference that Gen. Pershing, who is in Walter Reed hospital here, would be able to go with him.

Traffic at State and Madison streets will halt at 11 a. m. today and thousands will face east with heads bared in respect to those who gave their lives for their country in the World war. A detachment of marines will fire the traditional Armistice day salute during the minute's pause.

Memorial Service.

The observance will be preceded by a memorial service at the intersection beginning at 10:35 a. m. The 740th military police battalion band from Camp Skokie, directed by Capt. Wayne King, will play the national anthem and 100 recruits will be formally inducted into the United States Maritime service.

Participating units will march to the ceremony from the Goodman theater. The parade, starting at 10:10 a. m., will move south on Michigan avenue to Adams street, west to State street and north to Madison street.

Gen. Aurand to Speak.

Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, commanding general of the 6th service command; Lieut. Col. Chester L. Fordney, in charge of the central recruiting division of the marine corps, and Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district, will be the principal speakers before several hundred guests at an Armistice day luncheon sponsored by the Union League club, at 12:15 p. m.

At 8 p. m. Paul G. Armstrong, state selective service director, will address the Cook County Council of the American Legion in Medinah Temple, Wabash avenue and Ohio street. The public is invited.

Guadalcanal's Worst Day: Rain of Bombs and Shells

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GUADALCANAL, Solomon Islands, Oct. 25 [Delayed].—Today marked the most persistent series of air blows in any single day of the bitter struggle for Guadalcanal, to say nothing of machine gunning and shelling by warships and shore batteries. A fruitless attempt to knock out our air power cost the Japanese 17 Zeros, 8 bombers, and a reconnaissance plane.

We were awakened shortly after 1 a. m. by the sound of heavy gunfire from the southeastern front. Most of the camp was soon out of bed and peering toward the front a couple of miles distant.

Butter, Eggs, and Zeros!

We had breakfast with butter and real fried eggs—and Zeros. They escorted a Mitsubushi Dairai [apparently a bomber-reconnaissance type plane], presumably on a photographic mission. The Japs circled at will high above the field. Finally the bomber swooped low over the field, raking it with machine gun fire.

It was a magnificently contemptuous gesture, but his final one. From our dugout, which promptly filled as the guns crackled, we heard a sudden cheer from the hillside grandstand, and climbed out to see a column of smoke behind the trees. We were told the bomber was downed. Pvt. Girolomo Grande, Shrewsbury, Mass., the press jeep driver, and Sergt. Ned Burman, a marine combat reporter, and a fellow from Chicago rattled off to make sure.

We had no trouble finding the wreckage. Eager souvenir hunters were still searching thru the blazing débris. One found a fine saber and another a .32 caliber Colt revolver. All we could tell about the plane was that it was a two engine job.

Jap Ships Shell Shore.

Suddenly some one started running and every one ran. Machine guns blasted us from a Jap plane low along the beach. Those near holes dived in and others fell flat until the firing ceased.

We started home. Just across a bridge over the superswollen Lunga river bullets zipped overhead. The jeep stopped quickly and we leaped out and burrowed deep in tall grass.

Back at camp we were chased into a steaming dugout by a brief flurry of shelling from three Jap warships which boldly sailed into the channel between Savo and Florida Islands, tried to silence our shore batteries, and fired on two small ships in the harbor. The shelling ceased as another fight of Zeros flew over, and having what Second Lieut. Joseph Mitchell of the Bronx, N. Y., calls "an heroic moment," we came out of the dugout and watched from the top of a hill.

Dogfights started all over the sky, and soon three planes were falling aflame and two pilots were parachuting. The planes burned quickly and we agreed that they were probably Zeros.

Sixteen Bombers Come Over.

Bombers came next, 16 of them, dropping bombs at random when our fighters hit them. One was seen to fall to the east, and seven others were brought down out of sight of the watchers. Half an hour later "Pistol Pete" [a Jap land battery] sent shells whining overhead toward the airport.

Then a brief calm, soon broken by a flock of Zeros and dive bombers. The planes plunged and twisted. A Zero got above two unsuspecting Airacobras and made a slashing pass at them, but they evaded him. Then a Zero tangled with a Grumman and two more Grummans—aptly called Wildcats—raced across the sky to help as anti-aircraft opened up. The Zero flipped onto its back and into a straight dive from which it never recovered.

A Show for $60 a Month.

Despite heavy attack all the divers escaped.

"I hope they don't mistake this for a gun emplacement and lay one here," one hill dweller said nervously.

"Let's put up a sign: 'This is not a gun emplacement,'" cracked another.

A third man gestured skyward: "Where on the outside could you get this for $60 a month?" he demanded.

That marked the end of the aerial activity, but our bombers still went out to harry a Jap task force including a heavy and a light cruiser and four destroyers which turned back after heading for Guadalcanal.

Where Yanks Have Invaded North Africa

In all issues of tomorrow's Tribune will be presented a newly revised color map of the western Mediterranean and contiguous land areas, showing in detail the region of North Africa [Morocco and Algeria] involved in the invasion by American forces under the command of Gen. Eisenhower. This will be the second of a series of color maps covering the new war front. The third will appear next Tuesday.

House Passes 18-19 Draft; Rejects Curb

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

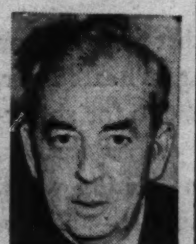
Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—With a mighty roar the house today completed its approval of the drafting of young men 18 and 19 years old. During a hectic session it adopted a conference report on the legislation after rejecting a provision that the young soldiers be given "adequate training" before being sent into battle overseas.



Rep. Rankin.

The legislation lowering the minimum draft age from 20 to 18 years was adopted as desired by administration and military leaders—without strings attached. The conference report is expected to be considered by the senate on Thursday and President Roosevelt's signature to the legislation probably will be affixed before the week-end.

Army of 9,700,000.

Mr. Roosevelt estimated at his press conference today that armed forces of the United States will total about 9,700,000 men by Jan. 1, 1944, including an army of 7,500,000, a navy of about 1,500,000, and approximately 700,000 in the marines, coast guard, and other protective services. This would mean increases during the next year of about 3 million men in the army, 500,000 in the navy, and about 400,000 in the other services.

The President said he hoped this armed strength by 1944 would be sufficient to win the war. There are an estimated 2½ million youth of 18 and 19 years, of which it is estimated 1 or 1½ million will be available for induction, meaning most of the remaining requirements must be taken from older and married men. Draft officials are reaching the bottom of the bin on existing supplies of single men and about 200,000 married men will have to be inducted in December, it is estimated.

Rankin Beaten Again.

Rep. John E. Rankin [D., Miss.], fiery orator from the deep south, again lost out in his attempts to place some restriction on the sending of young soldiers abroad until they have received thoro training. Defeated yesterday in his effort to get house approval on a senate amendment that the 18 and 19 year old draftees must receive 12 months' training in the United States before going into combat, he tried a modified restriction today.

The house and senate conferees had agreed unanimously to strike out the year's training requirement as contained in the senate version of the bill. Thus, this restriction was not before the house today.

But, trying another tack, Rankin presented a motion to return the legislation to conference with instructions from the house to provide that none of the 18 and 19 year old draftees would be sent into foreign combat service without "adequate training."

Just Few Weak "Noes."

The motion was defeated on a standing vote, 189 to 40. The Mississippian didn't obtain sufficient support to force a roll call on his motion. A moment later the house shouted

DELAY GAS CURB; ISSUE BOOKS IN CITY TOMORROW

333 Schools to Open for 2 Day Listing.

BY LLOYD NORMAN.

Gasoline users were granted a nine day reprieve from nation-wide rationing yesterday. The Office of Price Administration delayed the start of the program to Dec. 1, but registration for the basic "A" ration books will proceed on schedule tomorrow and Friday in Chicago, and thru Saturday in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Registration in Illinois territory outside Cook county, however, will be postponed until Nov. 18, 19, and 20 except in a dozen small downstate communities where boards already have received supplies, according to Carter Jenkins, state OPA director.

The effective date of the gasoline rationing program was postponed from Nov. 22 to Dec. 1 to permit the distribution of the necessary forms and coupon books to all parts of the nation. Printing and transportation of the materials have lagged.

Permit Delays in Registration.

The OPA permitted rationing officials in all communities where the forms and books had not been received to delay registration of motorists from Nov. 12-14 to Nov. 18-20. In Chicago and vicinity there are enough ration books on hand to permit registration to go forward.

Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan area OPA director, said last night that distribution to schoolhouses of 460,000 "A" gasoline ration books had begun and that additional shipments are expected today. An estimated 750,000 private passenger car owners are to be registered in the area.

In Chicago, the coupon books and other registration materials will be obtained from offices of district superintendents by the principals of the 333 elementary schools where registration will be conducted tomorrow and Friday. In the suburban communities, school officials will obtain their supplies from local rationing boards.

Gives Extra Supply.

Because no coupons will be torn from the "A" books to cover the gasoline consumed in the nine days from Nov. 22 to Dec. 1, motorists actually will get a "bonus" of 4.8 gallons for they will be able to buy all the 32 gallons originally intended to last thru the first period of two months, despite the lopping off of nine days.

Holders of supplemental rations—B and C books—will not receive the bonus on their extra rations. These books will be adjusted to the Dec. 1 starting date.

Gallonage rations to be issued commercial vehicles by the Office of Defense Transportation likewise will be adjusted to the Dec. 1 effective date by a 20 per cent reduction in the first rationing period originally scheduled from Nov. 22 to Dec. 31 but cut to 31 days.

Urges Sale of Extra Tires.

Altho the rationing date has been postponed, Mulcahy urged motorists to sell immediately to the government all passenger car size tires in excess of the five allowed for each car. He said that no "A" ration book will be issued to any applicant who lists more than five tires for each car he owns.

Mulcahy said that motorists who have not sold their extra tires before they register will be required later to submit an affidavit or other proof that they have disposed of the tires to the government.

Motorists living in the loop and out of town visitors will be able to register in the offices of the board of election commissioners, room 308 in the city hall. Twenty registrars supplied by the board will be on duty tomorrow and Friday, Mulcahy said.

Chicagoans will be able to determine the proper school at which to register by telephoning Dearborn 3050 during the registration period.

Application blanks for the basic gasoline ration are available at the Tribune public service offices at 1 South Dearborn street and the Tribune Tower, at local rationing boards, motor clubs, and many war plants.

FUEL OIL SUPPLY TO EAST STATES TO BE CUT AGAIN

Effect on Home Heating Not Decided.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—The War Production board, it was learned authoritatively tonight, has decided on a further drastic curtailment of fuel oil for the eastern states this winter.

Altho oil already is being rationed in the 17 state area on the basis of holding interior temperatures to 65 degrees in most cases, the board found that present transportation facilities could not deliver enough oil to fill the allowances.

Whether this basic 65 degree plan will be altered, however, has not been determined, officials said. The board came to the curtailment decision easily, but debated two hours without settling on the method.

May Not Affect Homes.

Instead of forcing colder houses, an official who declined use of his name, suggested that the reduction might be made by specific curtailments of other uses. This source made it plain, however, that no decision has been reached on the method of curtailment.

Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the board, finally was given personal authority by the other members to pick a plan. Both Leon Henderson, price administrator who has charge of rationing, and Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, who is petroleum coördinator, offered suggestions.

One possibility that arose was that gasoline rations might be trimmed further in the east to make more room on the available transportation facilities for the movement eastward of fuel oil. However, officials indicated that the major part of the saving probably would have to be made in the deliveries of fuel oil itself.

Depend on Tank Cars.

Nearly all the fuel oil and gasoline now coming to the 17 eastern states is moved by railroad tank cars—use of which was inaugurated when Nazi U-boats started sinking tank ships which formerly supplied the east.

Operating at their full capacity, the railroad cars could not bring in enough petroleum to satisfy the east without rationing.

Earlier Ickes called upon the east to reduce gasoline and fuel oil consumption to an "irreducible minimum" in order to provide transportation for mounting military demands.

"Pleasure driving must be given up and only the minimum of heat maintained," Ickes said.

Ickes added that there might be "privation and suffering" this winter, "but wars are not won without privation and suffering. Every one of us in the eastern states should realize that a waste of oil is a disloyal act and the waste of priceless munitions needed on the field of battle."

ATTY. GENERAL OF PUERTO RICO OUSTED BY F. D. R.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—President Roosevelt has removed George A. Malcolm as attorney general of Puerto Rico and a member of congress declared today the action stemmed from clashes with the policies of Gov. Rexford Guy Tugwell.

Neither the justice department, nor the President would discuss the reasons. The department said merely that the office is filled by the chief executive and can be vacated by him without explanation.

At his press conference, Mr. Roosevelt told a questioner that he had better ask the attorney general if he wanted details. The attorney general made no comment. A department attaché said, meanwhile, that Malcolm had been requested to resign but refused. The post then was vacated.

Malcolm's home town is Concord, Mich. Attributing the order to discord over the policies of Gov. Tugwell, Rep. Fred L. Crawford [R., Mich.] declared that withdrawal of Malcolm would mean the loss of the greatest career man in the insular departments of government. Rep. Earl C. Michener [R., Mich.], also criticized the action.

BATISTA OF CUBA WILL BE VISITOR AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—President Fulgencio Batista of Cuba will arrive in Washington Dec. 8, the state department announced tonight, to confer with President Roosevelt and later to visit various American cities.

Gen. Batista is making the trip on the invitation of President Roosevelt and while here will be a guest of the government. He will spend one night at the White House, after which he will take up his temporary residence at Blair house.

He is expected to remain in Washington for several days before beginning his tour of the country.

Haiti Breaks Relations with Vichy Government

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Nov. 10 (AP).—The Haitian foreign office announced tonight that it had severed diplomatic relations with France because of the latter's break with the United States.

ODT PASSES OVER LOCAL RULE IN BUS MILEAGE CUT

Chicago Faces Curtailed Service Dec. 1.

Sweeping control over local transit systems was exercised by the Office of Defense Transportation for the first time yesterday when it ordered sharp reductions in bus transportation in Chicago and five other large cities.

Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, who issued the unprecedented order in Washington, D. C., said its purpose was to save rubber and equipment by diverting more passenger traffic from rubber tires to steel wheels. The curtailment orders were issued without the approval of local transit authorities, such as the Illinois Commerce commission in the case of Chicago.

Longer Walks in Store.

As a result of the order Chicagoans who have used buses operated by the Chicago Motor Coach company and the Chicago Surface Lines will find on Dec. 1 and thereafter that they will have to walk from one to four blocks to a street car or elevated line because the usual bus route had been abandoned or rescheduled.

Altho the ODT did not order the curtailment or elimination of any specific bus routes in Chicago, it suggested that the Chicago Surface Lines could obtain a saving by eliminating three bus routes which could be served by nearby "L" or street car lines. The routes are the 4½ mile Kimball avenue line, the 6.18 mile Kimball-Homan route, and the 3.27 mile Ogden avenue feeder operating from Monroe street to Lincoln park.

Urge Slack Time Reduction.

The ODT also suggested the Chicago Motor Coach company eliminate short feeder lines and slash service between rush hours by approximately 20 per cent.

The ODT suggestions were based on studies prepared under the direction of Guy R. Richardson, chief of the ODT local transport division and formerly operating chief of the Chicago Surface Lines. Richardson knows the Chicago transit systems intimately.

Transit company executives were not prepared last night to indicate what changes in their bus service would be made to comply with the ODT order which cut Chicago bus mileage 15 per cent effective Dec. 1.

In Chicago, New York, Richmond, and Cincinnati, the ODT imposed a flat 15 per cent cut below bus mileage operated in the corresponding month of 1940 or 1941, whichever was greater. Transit officials and local regulatory bodies in these cities are permitted to comply with the order by adjusting bus schedules any way they desire with least inconvenience to passengers.

List Routes in 2 Cities.

The orders affecting the bus systems in Baltimore and Philadelphia specify the routes which must be curtailed or eliminated by Dec. 28. Eastman indicated that the eliminated routes are now being operated as a convenience, not as a necessity, and can be served by parallel rail systems.

Eastman estimated the curtailment of bus service in the six cities will save almost 100 million bus tire miles a year, including 25,350,000 tire miles in Chicago, or the equivalent of operation of 400 buses in a year. [A bus tire mile is the number of miles operated by a bus in a given period multiplied by the number of tires. Most Chicago buses have six tires.]

The Chicago Motor Coach company is required by the ODT order to cut its operations in December and thereafter to 85 per cent of the 15,690,060 bus miles operated in 1941. The 15 per cent slash is actually more serious because bus mileage is approximately 7 per cent ahead of 1941 levels and passenger traffic has climbed more than 10 per cent.

The ODT estimated the motor coach company will save an estimated 14,100,000 tire miles a year or 2,350,000 bus miles a year.

The Chicago Surface Lines was directed to slash operations of 229 gasoline motor buses and 152 electric trolley buses to 85 per cent of the mileage in the corresponding month of the 12 month period ended Oct. 31, 1942. This step would save approximately 11,250,000 tire miles or 1,875,000 bus miles.

New Service to War Plant.

The surface lines rubber borne mileage in the fiscal period ended Jan. 31, 1942, totaled 11,615,000 bus miles. No figure was reported for the year ended Oct. 31, but the indicated mileage for the period was 12,500,000 bus miles.

The street car company has expanded its bus service recently and extended facilities to the new Dodge plant on the southwest side on three routes. Officials said less than 15 per cent of the company's 720 million passengers carried in a year are transported in rubber tire vehicles.

Transit officials said the ODT orders will affect less than 10 per cent of the 950 million passengers carried annually by the city's three major transit systems. They indicated rush hour congestion on street cars and elevated lines will increase and will be evident in the Christmas shopping season as well as on outlying routes serving war plants already operating or in construction.

See Taxi Orders Next.

Severe curtailment orders are expected soon against taxicabs and other commercial vehicles. Cabs in Chicago have been limiting their operations to corresponding 1941 levels under an order by Michael F. Mulcahy, OPA director for the Chicago metropolitan area. Further sharp reduction in operations is indicated by the severity of the bus order. Mulcahy also had directed the motor coach company to curtail operations when he learned that its bus mileage had risen more than 6 per cent in the first eight months this year. The ODT's curtailment order supersedes Mulcahy's limitation.

COURT MARTIAL SET FOR FLYER IN STUNT CRASH

Santa Ana, Cal., Nov. 10 (AP).—A general court martial of 18 officers has been appointed to try Second Lieut. William N. Wilson, 25 years old, on manslaughter charges involving the crash of an airliner Oct. 23, killing 12.

Maj. Gen. Ralph P. Cousins, who appointed the officers, said the trial would be held here but has not yet set the date.

An army bomber flown by Wilson, who was attached to the army air transport's ferrying command at Long Beach, collided with the airliner near Palm Springs. He admitted to a congressional committee, investigating the accident that he had promised L. H. Repport, co-pilot of the airliner, to be flying nearby when the passenger ship passed Palm Springs.

The bomber landed with little damage.

ARMY MAY SEND MEN TO COLLEGE ON DUTY STATUS

Will Pay Expenses for Special Courses.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—A war department plan for sending thousands of uniformed soldiers to college, with an active duty status, to meet army and possibly civilian requirements for specialists and other college trained men was announced on the house floor today by Rep. John J. Sparkman [D., Ala.], military committee member.

The men would be under military control, the army would prescribe their courses and pay the costs of their schooling, Sparkman said. This program is expected to be initiated about Feb. 1, 1943. Principal courses would include medical training, engineering, and science.

No estimate was given by the army of the number of men to be affected, but one educator privately "guessed" at 100,000.

"Men will be selected for training under this program," the Alabaman said the war department had informed him, "on the basis of previous education, results of scholastic aptitude and achievement tests, and under tests of leadership and aptitude for military service as demonstrated during a period of service in the army.

"Selection will be made from the army at large and it will be accomplished by means of a system similar to that now in effect for the selection of candidates for the officer candidate schools."

Any soldier may compete, Sparkman said, without regard to his financial status, with preference given to soldiers in the younger age group "because of their more recent school experience and of the longer potential value to the army."

Courses in the contemplated program, Sparkman said, would vary in length from 9 to 27 months and in the case of medical students probably would extend for a longer period.

The Alabaman inserted a memorandum from the war department which indicated the army might also direct the training of some men for civilian jobs.

Americans Hold 500 Miles Along Mediterranean.

outflanking the northern Vichy defenses in Algeria and Tunisia, avoiding the full assault of axis aircraft based either in Tunisia or on Italian soil.

There were roundabout and unconfirmed reports that Italian troops had arrived in Bizerte, Tunisian naval base, and that Italian planes were utilizing Tunisian bases.

Fleet Units to Italy?

There was another rumor, broadcast from the Spanish controled radio station at Tangier, that a French fleet squadron had left Toulon for Italy or Bizerte. Toulon is the southern French naval base.

Vichy said American reconnaissance planes flew over Toulon, apparently trying to ascertain how much of the French fleet based there has left port. The French said the planes veered off when anti-aircraft artillery fire became intense.

Air raid alarms sounded tonight in Algiers and Tunis, according to dispatches from the French news agency Havas broadcast by the Berlin radio. Anti-aircraft artillery went into action at the Algerian capital, the reports said.

Reuters [British] news agency recorded a Tunis radio broadcast which said that a black-out was being enforced in that Tunisian capital, and a Vichy broadcast reporting that air communications, as well as cable and radio finks, had been severed between North Africa and Vichy.

GIBRALTAR

Vichy broadcasts said powerful allied naval reënforcements continued to reach Gibraltar. The report, under a La Linea, Spain, date line, said the British aircraft carrier Furious and six destroyers had entered the fortress' harbor after having escorted a British convoy of 22 merchantmen, including two tankers, in from the Atlantic.

It said the 35,000 ton British battleship Nelson, a cruiser, several destroyers, and two transports also were anchored at Gibraltar.

Air activity over the British stronghold was said to be even greater than on Monday, with many fighters constantly on patrol.

Fourteen American bombers had acted as aerial escort for the convoy landed at Gibraltar, the broadcast said, while 30 others bearing the United States star left during the morning—20 toward the Mediterranean and 10 toward the Atlantic. Four other twin engine United States planes also were said to have headed east from Gibraltar.

AXIS REPORTS AND CLAIMS

The German high command announced the entrance of its U-boats into the North African campaign. To cap their claims, the Germans said three allied ships, including a cruiser and a transport, had been sunk by U-boat torpedoes or bombs from axis aircraft, and that 14 other allied vessels had been hit.

This was entirely unconfirmed; indeed, an allied headquarters spokesman flatly denied previous Vichy reports of the sinking of four allied warships and six transports, and said German-Italian aerial intervention so far had been slight.

The German radio further reported that a submarine torpedoed a British battleship of the 35,000 ton Queen Elizabeth class. It was not claimed that the vessel was destroyed, but the German announcement said a heavy explosion on the vessel was observed. There was no indication of where this action took place.

CHICAGOLAND FETES HONOR MARINE CORPS ON 167TH ANNIVERSARY

Chicagoland paid tribute to "the fightingest men on earth" yesterday observing the 167th anniversary of the United States marine corps, founded by an act of congress in 1775. Marines had their day at three separate celebrations while their buddies carried the war to the axis on the world's battlefronts.

In Hotel Sherman, Ernest L. Byfield, managing director, entertained four marine heroes of Pearl Harbor and Guadalcanal at dinner. They were Robert E. Betz and George E. Betz, cousins, and Charles and Edward Lutze, twin brothers.

At another celebration there, the Chicago detachment of the Marine Corps league entertained about 30 marines. Speakers included Capt. John V. Sandberg, publicity director of the central marine recruiting bureau; Col. Frank Schneller, national junior vice commander of the order of the Purple Heart; Dr. August Pecaro, commander of Marine post of the American Legion, and Harry Richards, past commander, and Joseph D. Probst, commander of Ray Workman chapter of the order of the Purple Heart.

British Ease Requirements for American Movie Firms

LONDON, Nov. 11 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The government today took another step toward free trade between Britain and the United States in moving pictures, reducing to one the number of films each American company must make annually in England in exchange for sending their American made films here. The companies can spend the remainder of their annual required expenditure here of about $600,000 apiece by buying foreign rights on British films.

Britain Pares Work Week of Youths in 2 Industries

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin tonight placed restrictions on the working hours of young persons employed in the building and civil engineering industries. Youths under 16 years of age are limited to 48 working hours a week, and those between 16 and 17 to 54 hours weekly. Youths under 18 years of age must not be employed more than five hours at a stretch without at least a half hour interval for eating.

DARLAN OUSTED BY PETAIN; MAY BECOME AN ALLY

French Chief Takes Over Control of All Forces.

VICHY, France, Nov. 10 [from French broadcasts]—(AP).—Marshal Henri Petain told Frenchmen in a broadcast tonight he had become commander in chief "in the absence of Adm. [Jean François] Darlan, who is kept in North Africa." The chief of state added:

"I thought I had lived thru the darkest days of my life. Today's situation recalls the bad memories of 1940.

"I ask you to face events calmly.

"I salute with sorrow the soldiers, sailors, and airmen and all those who fought for the honor and defense of the fatherland.

"Frenchmen at home and in the empire: Retain confidence in your marshal, who is thinking of nothing but France."

Hint Darlan May Join Allies.

LONDON, Nov. 11 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Reports persisted in London today that Adm. Jean Darlan, now officially disclosed to be in American custody at Algiers, may be negotiating to swing France back into the war on the allied side. These reports followed Marshal Petain's succession of Darlan as commander of all French defense forces.

"Vichy is in a state of panic," said the Daily Herald.

The Berlin radio said much needs to be explained about the circumstances under which Darlan agreed to an armistice at Algiers.

The Daily Mail said "an important announcement" would be made simultaneously in London and Washington today.

No authoritative source would confirm whether an announcement was in the offing. But it was noted that, while it was announced Darlan was captured by American forces, a statement called him a "guest" of the American commander.

Much significance was attached here to the wrathful comment from German sources.

"There is something fishy about the Darlan affair," said the German official news agency.

Nazis Suspect Double-cross.

Germany's suspicion that it has been double-crossed was reflected in a Berlin broadcast which said Darlan recently had sent a plenipotentiary to London with a communication for Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the "Fighting French." This Berlin broadcast also asserted that Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, who has turned up in Africa to rally colonial Frenchmen to the allied cause, traveled from Gibraltar on a British warship. The Germans demanded to know how Giraud could have left France if the way had not been made easy for him by Darlan.

NAVY ACQUIRING FASTER AND MORE DEADLY PLANES

New Types Are Hailed as 'World's Finest.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—The United States navy is rapidly acquiring fighting aircraft which that arm claims are the finest in the world. The American aviation industry is turning out faster and more deadly aircraft of all types for service at sea.

Early this winter the new planes will be on duty at various fronts. Navy communiques are expected to be full of references to such picturesque names as Helldiver, Thunderbolt, and Corsair, as well as those which have already figured in news—Wildcat, Dauntless, Devastator, and Avenger.

The navy has adopted the British practice of referring to planes by their picturesque names rather than their number except in technical official reports. This practice serves to dramatize the performance of the fighting craft.

Corsair in Production.

One of the most important of the newly developed planes is the F4U Vought-Sikorsky Corsair, which in the opinion of Vice Adm. John E. Towers, commander of Pacific aircraft, is the finest fighter in the skies. This craft is now coming off production lines and will soon be on board all aircraft carriers.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

THE CORSAIR.

The Corsair is a heavy, high altitude, long range fighter, which embodies all the lessons and developments of modern warfare. It is powered with a single 2,000 horse power Pratt & Whitney radial engine which enables it to do better than 400 miles an hour.

Navy airmen say this plane, tho carrier based, will equal the best of the land based fighters in speed and maneuverability. They say it will surpass anything the enemy has in aircraft or be able to put into the air, particularly the Japanese Zero planes which have performed well during the war.

Navy Praises Grumman.

Navy men say that the standard navy fighter, the F4F-4 Grumman Wildcat, is better than any other carrier based aircraft, including the British Hurricane. The British have recently placed this fighter on aircraft. It is not considered the equal of the British land based Spitfire fighter.

[Acme Photo.]

THE WILDCAT.

The Wildcat is powered by a single, radial, twin-row Pratt & Whitney engine of more than 1,200 horse power. This is faster than the F4F-3, previous model, which had a speed in excess of 350 miles an hour and a range of more than 1,000 miles.

In the Solomons the Wildcat planes operated with great success against Jap fighters and bombers. The planes had a low rate of climb and maneuverability which was offset by heavy armor and armament. While this plane is considered better than any used by the enemy or allies, it is being replaced by the superior Corsair.

New Type Dive Bomber.

The navy's standard dive bomber is the SBD-3. Douglas Dauntless, which is technically known as a scout bomber. It has one radial engine developing more than 1,000 horse power, a top speed above 260 miles and a cruising range of 1,000 miles. It carries a single 1,000 pound bomb to two 500 pound bombs.

The new type dive bomber, which is to replace the SBD-3, is the SB2A, Brewster Buccaneer, which is powered with a single Wright 1,700 horse power engine. It is similar to the RAF Bermuda dive bomber. The plane has a speed of more than 300 miles an hour and a greater range than the Dauntless.

The standard navy torpedo plane is the TBD-1, Douglas Devastator, which is powered by a radial, twin row Pratt & Whitney engine of more than 1,200 horse power. Top speed is about 225 miles an hour and range is well over 1,000 miles. The plane carries a 21 inch 2,000 pound torpedo.

First Action at Midway.

The TBF-1 Grumman Avenger, which first saw action at the battle of Midway from a land base, is credited with a speed of more than 270 miles an hour, a range of 1,400 miles, and also carries one 2,000 pound torpedo. This is considered one of the deadliest of the navy's new planes.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

THE AVENGER.

The navy has four types of patrol bombers. The PBY-5A Consolidated Catalina, has been widely criticized as slow and defended by the navy as sturdy. It is powered by two Pratt & Whitney twin row engines of 1,200 horse power each. It has a top speed of about 200 miles an hour and a range of about 4,000 miles.

The PBM-3, Martin Mariner, which serves the same general purpose, is powered by two Wright radial engines of 1,350 horse power each and has a range of 5,000 miles. It is faster than the PBYs.

British Like Hudson.

The PBO, Lockheed-Hudson Hudson, is powered by two Pratt & Whitney engines of 1,200 horse power each. It has a top speed of 300 miles. The British like the craft for coastal command work.

The PB2Y, Consolidated Coronado, is a four engined flying boat for long range patrols. It is powered by four Pratt & Whitney radial engines of 1,200 horse power each. It has a gross weight of 60,000 pounds or three times that of the Hudsons and half against as much as the Mariners.

The navy observation planes are the OS2U Vought Kingfisher and the SP3C Curtiss Seagull. These are single engine, low power observation planes fitted with removable floats for landing alongside ship after being catapulted from shipboard. These planes are primarily for observation in naval surface battles and are used largely by task forces.

BANDIT'S MEN STEAL CANNON IN CITY PARK, USE IT TO FREE CHIEF

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Nov. 10 (AP).—Lupe Padilla, famed bandit chieftain, scheduled to be executed at dawn today, is a free man—thanks to his followers and the cannon from the city park at San Marcos, Jalisco.

His followers filtered into town in the early morning hours, stole the ornamental cannon, and wheeled it to the jail. Using powder and a cannon ball they had brought along, they fired point blank at Padilla's cell.

Two of the gang held a saddled horse ready for the surprised chief, who stumbled thru the gaping hole. Then all galloped off into the mountains.

Padilla, famous for his daring raids, was captured a few days ago by federal troops and quickly sentenced to death. Now the troops are right back where they started.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Under new defense regulations invoked tonight by the ministry of health, persons suspected of spreading venereal diseases may be forced to undergo treatment. Failure to comply with the order by a local medical officer to submit to treatment or refusal to follow the directions given by a medical specialist will be punishable by a maximum penalty of three months in jail and a fine of £100 [about $400].

WRITER REVEALS LAG IN ADOPTION OF AIR FORTRESS

America had only 35 Flying Fortresses when the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor, because production of the huge planes had been stifled by the administration, William Bradford Huie, aviation writer, told 500 members of the Rotary club in Hotel Sherman yesterday.

A southerner, Huie frankly described himself as a "typewriter strategist" and a partisan of the army air force. He was co-author of "The Fight for Air Power," which is being published over his name but was written with Brig. Gen. Hugh J. Knerr. Secretary of War Stimson recently ordered Knerr to cease his critical comment.

Huie's talk went back to the birth of the Flying Fortress in 1935. The first ship crashed after a run of 50 feet in its test flight, making at once difficult the fight to develop heavy four motor aircraft.

When finally the navy agreed to Flying Fortress bombing tests on the battleship Utah, it was done in the foggiest month.

A detailed report which would have justified appropriations by congress was turned in, but after three months President Roosevelt said it would not be given either to congress or the public.

"So we had 19 Flying Fortresses when Hitler invaded Poland, and 35 when the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor," Huie said. "Civilian mechanics still worked to install gun turrets while the ships were en route.

RACE TO CUT OFF FLEEING NAZIS ON COAST OF AFRICA

British Tanks Continue Pursuit of Enemy.

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 10 (AP).—Britain' grimly pursuing 8th army pounded on after the tattered remnants of the axis Africa corps inside the Libyan border today. The allies threatened to wipe out the last of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces even before the Americans could close in on them from the west.

British tanks racing to cut off the wildly fleeing Nazis were expected to skirt Halfaya [Hellfire] pass in an effort to pin the survivors against the coast. It was thought probable the pursuing tanks were roaring along in the vicinity of Tobruk, whence the British were ousted ignominously in Rommel's push last June.

Group of Nazis Caught.

One body of Nazis, caught perhaps by road blocks as their comrades plunged across into Libya, was being engaged along the coastal road inside Egypt, between Sidi Barrani and the border outpost of Sollum. It was regarded as certain that this enemy group would be quickly liquidated.

The allied air force operating from new advance fields has been giving the enemy no peace as he flees along the coast road. One huge enemy convoy on the road between Sollum and Capuzzo was bombed to such an extent that the road was blocked for hours.

Axis fortified areas and positions deep in Libya were being subjected to relentless bombings.

One half famished officer of the Africa corps groaned when taken prisoner: "Your planes were too much for us. Now the war is over for us—you win."

Round Up Italians.

Far behind in the Egyptian desert one of the starkest tragedies of the conflict was unfolding as British searching parties rounded up the thousands of hapless Italians. They were abandoned without sufficient food and water by their German allies when Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery's troops first smashed thru at El Alamein.

Many were dead, having perished under the blazing African sun. Other pitiful groups who survived the fate of their comrades were bitter at their desertion by the Germans and said that thousands of other abandoned Italians were wandering in the desert, with little hope of being found alive. All prisoners taken recently have suffered badly from exposure.

Fight Rear Guard Action.

BERLIN, Nov. 10 [from German broadcasts] (AP).—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's axis troops in North Africa have retired farther west, holding up the advancing British forces "by violent rear guard actions," the German high command announced today.

Berlin military quarters said that Rommel's main tank forces, heretofore scattered over a wide area, now have been concentrated and are becoming "a serious threat to further British advances."

Trying to Form Lines: Italy.

ROME, Nov. 10 [from Italian broadcasts] (AP).—The Italian high command today said:

"In Egypt enemy pressure against Italian and German units, which are attempting to form a new front, is being held.

"In air combat five British planes were shot down by German fighters."

King Honors Montgomery for Triumph in Egypt

LONDON, Nov. 11 [Wednesday]—(AP).—King George VI. today promoted Lieut. Gen. Bernard Law Montgomery to the rank of general "for service in the field" as commander of the British 8th army in its triumph over Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in Egypt. The king also approved the promotion of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Montgomery's chief, to the Knight of the Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath. Montgomery was made a Knight Commander of the Order of the Bath.

British Plan to Give Malta $40,000,000 to Rebuild

EISENHOWER'S MOTHER HOPES HE'LL BE GOOD

Abilene, Kas., Nov. 10 (AP).—"I hope Dwight will be a good boy and come home soon," said the 82 year old mother of Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. [Ike] Eisenhower as she peered from behind the newspaper carrying the latest account of her son's North African exploits.

She lives with a woman companion in a modest cottage, studying newspaper and magazine stories of her boy. All 5,658 residents of the general's old home town are running a decided temperature, too.

"Abilene has not considered changing its name, or making Main street Eisenhower avenue—but it may happen yet," acknowledges Editor C. M. Harger of the Daily Reflector. Hundreds of portraits of the general adorn Abilene home and store windows. An Eisenhower day was celebrated recently, with flags bedecking the business district. The Rotary club made him an honorary member.

Preferred to Second Front in Europe.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—President Roosevelt today gave the American people thru his press conference a detailed report on the how and the why of the American campaign in North Africa, which he characterized as a small second front operation launched in lieu of a major second front in Europe.

The President revealed that in discussions of a second front which began soon after Pearl Harbor and lasted until last August, offensives in various places, including a tremendous drive against the Belgian and French coasts in 1943, had been discussed. But physical limitations on production, training of men and transportation had resulted in a decision to strike in Africa, he said.

It was during Prime Minister Churchill's visit to America in June that the decision was finally reached.

In the latter part of July the points of attack were fixed and in the last of August the date was set. Mr. Roosevelt detailed at length the intricate long range planning that went into the African campaign, emphasizing that a second front cannot be launched in a matter of weeks.

Can't "Buy" Second Front.

Mr. Roosevelt said he and Mr. Churchill could not walk down the street and go into a department store and buy a second front.

He remarked that he and Churchill had to smile and take it on the chin while ignorant outsiders were demanding military operations about which they knew little, after the decision had been made to open a second front.

In detailing the background of the campaign Mr. Roosevelt said he began planning the second front that way two weeks after Pearl Harbor—at that time he invited Churchill and joint staffs to prepare a joint plan.

Discussed Channel Drive.

The discussion considered the possibility of a large scale frontal attack across the English channel, he said. The agreement was general that such a campaign could not be carried out with a reasonable chance of success in 1942. The same question came up in June on Churchill's second visit. By the end of June there was general agreement on Africa.

By late July certain fundamentals such as the number of men necessary and the places of attack had been determined, he said. And by the end of August the approximate date was determined. Asked why the date had been set for after the election, Mr. Roosevelt said it had been fixed without regard to the election. He then confided to reporters that James F. Byrnes, director of the anti-inflation drive, expressed regret that Mr. Roosevelt had not moved election day ahead a week as he had moved Thanksgiving day back.

Russia Was Consulted.

While the plans were being cleared up, he said, people were beginning to talk about the opening of a second front unaware of the fact that one had actually been determined upon.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked whether he had discussed the second front plan with former Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov during the latter's visit here early in the summer. He replied that reporters could assume that our principal fighting ally was taken into consultation before anything was begun. He said further that Churchill was aware of the decision before he flew to Moscow to consult with Josef Stalin.

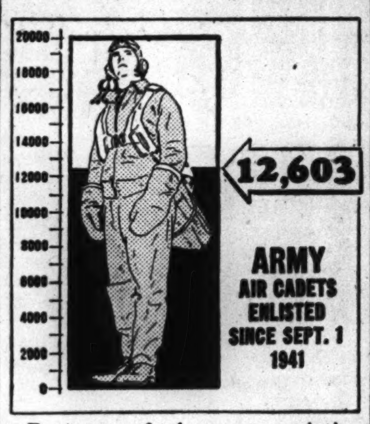
Warns Against Optimism.

Mr. Roosevelt cautioned against too much optimism over the African campaign. He recalled that several months ago he had warned the nation against "peaks of overconfidence" and "valleys of despair." The same holds good today, he said; the public should not feel too good or too bad over war developments.

Mr. Roosevelt said he did not want to throw cold water over the success of the African campaign, because it is going splendidly so far.

The President revealed that his message to the emperor of Morocco, the bey of Tunisia, and the governor of Algeria, asking them to coöperate in the invasion of North Africa, were written almost a month ago. The appeals broadcast to the French people last Sunday also were prepared at that time and phonograph recordings of them were made so secretly that not even his secretary knew about them.

More Recruiting



Progress of the army aviation cadet recruiting campaign.

Prevented from joining the marine corps six months ago by the unexpected death of his father, Roger Perreault Jr., 19 years old, 8830 Wabash avenue, yesterday was enlisted as a naval aviation cadet and plans upon completion of his pilot training to transfer to the marine air corps. Perreault had planned to join the marines with his friend, Harry Sweeney. Yesterday Sweeney telephoned his parents, with whom Perreault has been living, that he was leaving for action in the Pacific.

Forty-one more youths were accepted for pilot training yesterday by the army aviation cadet examining board. Since Sept. 1, 1941, the board has accepted 12,603 cadets in Chicago. Among those who passed their physical tests yesterday was Ernest Marsden, 20, of 6324 South Wolcott street, a native of Renfrew, Scotland, who hopes to see service beside a cousin who is a member of the RAF.

SUB SINKS U. S. MERCHANT SHIP; TOTAL IS 520

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—The navy announced today that a medium size United States merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine about the middle of October in the Atlantic off the northern coast of South America. Survivors have landed at a United States east coast port.

The ship is the 520th sunk by enemy submarines since Dec. 7. In these sinkings 3,493 persons are known to have been killed, 1,958 are missing, and 15,868 have been rescued.

Dallas City, Ill., Nov. 10 (AP).—Osborn Daily and Walter Ballinger, both of Pontoosuc, were killed today when their truck was struck by a Santa Fe train near the stock yards here.

STUDENT NURSES LEARN CARE OF MENTAL CASES

Training of student nurses in psychiatry and neurology has been started at the Illinois Neuropsychiatric institute, 912 South Wood street, to meet a threat of increased mental cases, Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, executive officer of the institute and state alienist, said yesterday.

The three months course includes practical study of juvenile psychiatry, afforded by the children's ward of the Institute for Juvenile Research, where children are hospitalized while receiving psychiatric care, Dr. Hoffman said.

"Broken homes as a result of the war are creating emotional conflicts, nervous anxiety, and depression," he said. "Besides, there is a need for good nurses at home because of the depletion for war services."

ROBS SLEEPING CELLMATE.

John Gogos, 39 years old, a laborer, of 3960 West 95th street, was fined $100 and costs in Stockyards court yesterday on a disorderly conduct charge for taking $4 from the pockets of a sleeping cellmate. The fine is to be worked out.

FIGHT FOR 3 DAYS WITHOUT SLEEP TO CAPTURE ORAN

American Assault Teams Grimy and Tired.

tense hours, Gen. Eisenhower closed his eyes and said: "It was no child's play at Oran and I am mighty proud of our boys who have not had any sleep since Friday night."

Then leaning forward with a serious expression on his face, he added, "But I don't want to make this appear as a great military victory. The French are our friends and we want to keep them as our friends. We only fought because we had to.

"Our job now is to reorganize and get after the enemy common to both of us," said Eisenhower.

At captured Algiers, the axis has been attacking allied naval forces, but the damage was described by headquarters as light. Carrier based planes and RAF fighter squadrons stationed on captured airdromes have exacted a heavy toll ot these axis raiders.

With the capture of Algiers and Oran, the allies now hold the two best ports in the western Mediterranean and can provide fighter cover from shore bases for their convoys.

U. S. FLYERS HIT FRENCH

BY JOHN A. PARRIS.

[U. S. correspondent with the AEF in Africa. Distributed by the Associated Press.]

WITH THE 12TH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS IN ALGERIA, Nov. 10.—American pilots flying British Spitfires and supporting American ground forces cleaning up pockets of French resistance have in the past 48 hours destroyed at least 15 tanks and 25 troop lorries.

The pilots strafed French gun positions for the second successive day after the capture of this airdrome Sunday when an armored force seized 800 prisoners, none of whom offered any resistance.

The pilots had not slept for 48 hours. They are young men from Florida, Alabama, Iowa, Ohio, New Hampshire, and Texas and their job has been to prevent French armored columns from reaching this airdrome.

Doolittle Reaches Base.

Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle reached here Monday and assumed command at the 12th air force headquarters.

His presence greatly cheered our pilots. They forgot their lack of sleep and kept on hammering at the opposing armored columns which were pushing northward from the direction of Sidi Bel Abbes, which is headquarters in this region for the French Foreign Legion.

The American pilots also put out of action a number of artillery batteries which had been shelling this airdrome.

Planes dropped leaflets from Gen. Henri Honore Giraud [the French general who has joined with the allied forces and who will be in charge of civil and military direction of the country] urging the French to cease fighting.

"Save your bullets for the boche," they read.

Makes Crash Landing.

Maj. D. B. Avery, 25 years old, of Salt Lake City, Monday afternoon spotted an armored column moving north for Sidi Bel Abbes toward this airdrome and went down close to investigate. A couple of lucky shots struck his gas tank and he was forced to make a crash landing. He landed uninjured 100 yards from a hostile column, but he escaped and was picked up by one of our motor columns.

Lieut. Col. F. M. Dean of St. Petersburg, Fla., destroyed five tanks in one enemy column which was pushing northward from Sidi Del Abbes.

As I write this dispatch at 6:40 a. m. Tuesday our Spitfires are taking off to scout the area for the remaining armored units and also to attack with their machine guns French ground batteries and ground forces near a second airdrome.

This second airdrome also is held by our troops but is under attack by French artillery and armored units. The rolling fire of heavy guns is plainly audible from hills some distance away.

I rode to Gen. Doolittle's headquarters with an armored column. We had been warned to expect trouble en route. At one place along the way French artillery unsuccessfully shelled the road we were traveling.

We halted at several villages where Maj. Don Coster, a Montreal advertising executive, who lists his home town as New York City, and who was an ambulance driver in France before the Germans captured Paris, talked in French with a number of civilians.

All the civilians said they were delighted "that you Americans have arrived."

All day long Monday three American squadrons kept up continual ground strafing attacks.

The first French planes to be shot down were credited to Lieut. Carl W. Payne, 21, of Columbus, O.; Lieut. Charles Kenworthy, 23, of Shenandoah, Ia., and Maj. Harrison R. Thyng, 24, of Barnstead, N. H.

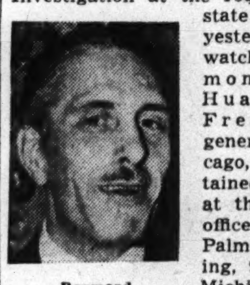
French Consulates Guarded in Chicago and Eastern Cities

FBI on Duty Here

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at the request of the state department yesterday stood watch over Raymond Imbault Huart, Vichy French consul general in Chicago, and maintained a guard at the consulate office in the Palmolive building, 919 North Michigan avenue. Two agents guarded the office and one was on duty at Imbault-Huart's apartment in the Belmont hotel, 3127 Sheridan road.



Raymond Imbault-Huart.

[In Washington, D. C., some state department officials said a similar situation existed for all French consuls and consular agents. However, other officials said merely that they had been requested to curb their movements.]

Officials in charge of the FBI office said they were unable to comment on the action since it is a state department matter.

The state department acted after Vichy French severed relations with the United States. While the FBI refused to clarify Imbault-Huart's status, it was apparent he is being held incommunicado. No visitors were being allowed to enter the apartment.

Act in Baltimore

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 10 (AP).—Joseph A. Girard, consular agent for the Vichy French government since 1940 and representative of the French tobacco monopoly, was held incommunicado today by Baltimore police and Federal Bureau of Investigation guards. Consulate telephones were cut.

Joseph A. Girard.

Swiss Represent Vichy.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—Switzerland has taken over the representation of Vichy French interests in the United States, it was disclosed at the state department today.

Officials said former Ambassador Gaston Henry-Haye and officials elsewhere were not held incommunicado.

Post Guard in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 10 (AP).—Two policemen stood guard outside the French consulate here today with instructions from the FBI to allow no one to enter.

Police at Boston Consulate.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 10 (AP).—Police guards have been patroling outside the Boston home and office of the Vichy French consul since last night, police said today. Telephones were disconnected. François Briere, French consul, resigned yesterday, expressing approval of the invasion of French Africa.

MRS. ROOSEVELT VISITS YANKS IN NORTH IRELAND

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Nov. 10 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived by plane in Belfast today, and immediately began a tour of military establishments and hospitals in Northern Ireland, where a large portion of the American Expeditionary forces have been stationed.

She went directly from the plane to the air service depot, and then to the General hospital, where she chatted with some of the patients.

Mrs. Roosevelt went from ward to ward, wearing a white robe over the black dress she wore on the trip. She wore a long sealskin coat on the flight from England.

In one ward she saw Pvt. Thomas Monahan, who asked her to try to send a message to Tommy Qualters, former bodyguard of President Roosevelt, now in the army. Both Monahan and Qualters are from Boston.

LE HAVRE DOCKS BLASTED BY RAF 2D DAY IN A ROW

LONDON, Nov. 10 (AP).—British and allied flyers today kept up their round-the-clock assaults on Nazi occupied territory. For the second successive day, royal air force bombers plastered the docks at Le Havre, France. About 200 Spitfires and American fighter planes protected the bombers and also machine gunned German targets between Cherbourg and Le Havre. The attack on Le Havre followed a strong overnight assault on Hamburg and other targets in northwest Germany.

It was disclosed today that American-manned Liberator bombers have joined the RAF coastal command in a day and night offensive against axis submarines in the Bay of Biscay. One Liberator, manned by a Lieut. Kunz of Iowa, fought off an attack by three Messerschmitts recently, damaging all of them.

GOOD WAR NEWS PUTS BRIGHT FACE ON BRITISH PUBLIC

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Britain has been electrified by the continued deluge of good news. Today it poured in from all sides. It blared forth from the radio, was proclaimed in big newspaper headlines, echoed in speeches in parliament, or wherever people gathered. It was reflected in smiling faces thruout the country.

The immediate effect has been to raise Prime Minister Winston Churchill to a new peak of popularity, which was evidenced by the large crowds lining the streets and cheering him en route to parliament and Mansion House and the large crowds standing outside the places where he spoke. The prime minister radiated good cheer and his personal feeling was reflected in the new, confident tone of his speeches.

Churchill Waxes Eloquent.

With more than the customary eloquence, the prime minister described the effect of the victory in what he christened "the Battle of Egypt" in these words:

"A bright gleam has caught the helmets of our soldiers and warmed and cheered all our hearts."

In parliament, during the question time, he confined himself to reporting the complete victory in Madagascar and the attainment of considerable war booty there. He promised to give the house a full war review at an "early date."

Churchill was more explicit when addressing a luncheon at Mansion House marking the induqtion of the new lord mayor, Sir Samuel Joseph. There he said "the Egypt victory is remarkable and definite" and "Rommel's army has been routed and largely destroyed as a fighting force."

Calls Roosevelt the Author.

Regarding what he termed a great military and political victory of the American forces, with powerful British naval and air support, in French Africa, Churchill said:

"The President of the United States was the author of this mighty undertaking. In all of it I have been his active and ardent lieutenant."

Churchill reaffirmed that Britain wants no territorial or commercial advantages from the war and that Britain wishes to change the sovereignty of no state. He reiterated his faith that France will rise again, "free and strong, with her empire gathered around her, and with Alsace-Lorraine restored."

More than the developments in Egypt, the American progress in northwest Africa was responsible for the enthusiasm affecting everybody. Especial delight was taken in the remarkable gearing of the political and propaganda services to the military operations.

Keep French Informed.

This, it is believed, broke down the resistance before it could be organized. Thruout the day the British Broadcasting corporation kept broadcasting to France, both occupied and unoccupied, recounting the progress of the American forces and reassuring the French people that their hour of liberation, altho it has not yet struck, is near at hand, and giving instructions to all Frenchmen in the unoccupied zone to foregather to celebrate the Armistice day tomorrow in specified squares in Marseilles, Toulon, Lyons, and numerous other places.

Those who have been worried regarding dangers to the new and vital supply line across the Atlantic to the American forces now on the battlefield were reassured by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, in parliament today. He announced that the total number of enemy submarines sunk has been increased by 40 since Oct. 20 and now has reached the impressive figure of 570.

E. H. SCOTT

Perhaps this seems like a peculiar time, as Scott Radios get scarcer, to reduce prices... but I haven't any choice!

Government contracts are severely curtailing our civilian business, but you can still get a Scott, and you can still save appreciably if you come to our studio this week.

I never intended to cut prices on a Scott, or advertise one as a bargain! But we are more pressed than I ever anticipated by urgent orders that make civilian radios seem, frankly, unimportant in this strenuous day. We'd like to get every remaining Scott into owners' hands, and devote our entire floor space and personnel to government require-

With War Bonds to buy, maybe you've been reluctant to invest in a fine radio. I hope you'll invest in both. I don't see how a Scott can ever be a "better buy." Indeed there will soon be none at all until the happier days of peace.

So come and hear the instrument which has charmed the great musicians of our day: Toscanini, Bruno Walter, Rodzinski, Heifetz, Horowitz, Iturbi, Menuhin, Deems Taylor and a host of others. Hearing the Scott and its "living performance", you will know that it must be yours, especially at this timely price.

WAR ON RUSSIAN FRONT DWINDLES TO LIGHT CLASHES

Hint Nazis Regroup Forces for Major Blow.

MOSCOW, Nov. 11 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Military operations along the 79 Russian front dwindled almost to skirmish level today. Foreign observers speculated that the Germans may be regrouping for a new major blow at the Red lines now holding firmly from the Baltic to the Black sea.

The heaviest engagement yesterday was fought along the Black sea coast northeast of Tuapse. There the invaders struck with relatively light forces and were hurled back, the Russians said.

In Stalingrad, which entered its 79th day of siege, there was sharp fighting. However, in comparison with the masses of troops the Germans were throwing against the Volga stronghold a few weeks ago, today's clashes involved little more than heavy patrols and the initiative lay with the defenders.

Reds Withhold Comment.

Official soviet circles withheld comment on the progressive reduction of action thru the past few days. Nevertheless, foreign military observers held that it would not be consistent with Nazi military tactics to let their still strong Russian front forces sit idly by while the soviet strengthens its lines.

Premier Josef Stalin in his Nov. 6 speech said that the Germans thru the summer held the bulk of their forces in the Stalingrad-Orel area with the eventual aim of striking north toward Moscow. It was not apparent today whether the Nazis were shifting their strength back toward the central front for a new drive on the soviet capital, or whether they might be diverting some of their hardened legions to the west to meet the new allied threat to their rear as a result of America's offensive in the Mediterranean.

Rake German Lines.

The hardy Stalingrad garrison took advantage of the lull to extend mine field defenses and rake German lines with artillery and sniper fire.

The high command claimed Russian ships in the Baltic sank a 10,000 ton enemy transport. German losses claimed at other points included 22 German planes shot down in three days at Leningrad, 150 of the enemy killed in yesterday's raids at Stalingrad, six tanks knocked out south of Nalchik in the Caucasus, and 200 Germans killed in a successful soviet attack on a fortified height near Tuapse.

Claims Capture of Hills.

BERLIN, Nov. 10 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The capture of several heights in the western Caucasus between Novorossisk and Tuapse was reported today by the high command which said Russian counterattacks were repelled.

Of the Stalingrad front the communique said only: "In Stalingrad there was activity by shock troops."

CHURCHILL SEES ACTION SOON IN REPRISAL TALKS

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Altho Prime Minister Churchill declined to make a statement, in the house of commons, regarding negotiations now going on with enemy powers concerning the chaining of prisoners, he expressed hope today that he might have news on this subject within a week.

Sir James Grigg, secretary of state for war, told commons today that a "relatively short list of war prisoners taken at Singapore" and Hongkong had been received from Tokio thru the International Red Cross.

Conditions at the prisoner camps in Hongkong were reported improved considerably. There is still great overcrowding, however, the war secretary said, and a shortage of beds and bedding. At the end of July, the general health situation seemed to be regarded as satisfactory, he added, and food conditions have improved somewhat, altho still unsatisfactory.

BRITAIN CURBS TURKEY DINNERS IN RESTAURANTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The serving of turkey in restaurants on any day between Dec. 20 and 31, excepting Christmas, was banned tonight by the ministry of food.

Other food news today: British output of eggs now is 50 per cent lower than it was at this time last year. To encourage the sale of fried potatoes, the 23,500 fish fryers of this country are to receive their full prewar supplies of cooking fats, altho they were warned there will be no additional supplies of fish.

Soft drink manufacturers will be forced to use saccharin to make up for a 50 per cent cut in sugar. Milk supplies are being reallocated to retailers on the basis of a recently completed consumption census in an effort to delay the reduction of the consumer ration from two and one-half pints to two pints a week.

Grew Warns of Japan's Might; Marshall, King Tell Strategy

Nippon's Need: Time

New York, Nov. 10 (AP).—Joseph C. Grew, former United States ambassador to Japan, declared tonight that Japan is potentially the strongest power in the world.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the academy of political science Grew said Japan has won preliminary struggles in the war because she is "immensely strong—physically strong, technically strong, militarily strong, and, most of all, psychologically strong.

"Japan can be beaten, but only by physical and moral strength equal to or greater than her own, and that strength can be supplied only by the all-out effort of all Americans," he said.

Time Alone Needed, He Says.

Grew, who spent 10 years in Japan as a representative of the United States, said he was "charged with my own knowledge of a dangerous truth to put that truth before you—that the Japanese need only one thing: Time."

"To lose a day is as bad as losing a ship," Grew said. "We cannot wait. We cannot be leisurely. We cannot afford debate, or disunity, or indecision. Japan is getting stronger every hour, and this new Japan is not merely our equal; the new Japan is potentially our military superior. If we fight there, soon, and hard, we shall not have to fight here, later on, and with heavy handicap."

Grew said the Japanese are counting on America not being prepared to make great sacrifices.

Americans Considered Soft.

"They have put great store in what they think to be our softness," he said. "They look upon us as constitutional weaklings, demanding our daily comforts and unwilling to make the sacrifices demanded for victory. The Japanese attach great importance to what they thought was our disunity over the war issue, and they count on us to delay before we develop a fighting spirit."

Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder, compared ship building statistics in this war and the last one.

"There is no parallel record of production from the standpoint of quality, quantity, variety, and speed in this war," he said.

African Drive Hailed

New York, Nov. 10 [Special].—Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet, tonight discussed the workings of the American system of command and America's coöperation with Britain in addresses before the Academy of Political Science.

King defended the division of command in the Pacific on the ground that Australia and enemy approaches to it, including the Dutch East Indies and the Philippines, constitute a single strategic entity in which land communications are of primary importance, while the central and northern Pacific constitute an area in which the American fleet was of predominant importance.

United Command Marshall's Aim.

Marshall said the achievement of unity of command had been his first aim when the British chiefs of staff arrived in Washington three weeks after the United States had entered the war, despite the pressure as the Japanese swept south.

He said Americans have had a striking demonstration of the practical application of unity of command in the invasion of North Africa. He said British army and navy officers of long and distinguished service have been serving under Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower with perfect loyalty, even tho some were his senior in rank and years.

"I go into detail because this should not be a secret," Gen. Marshall said. "This will be most depressing news to our enemies. It is the declaration of their doom."

Politics First, Says King.

King, who spoke extemporaneously, said the military leaders of a democracy do not have a free hand in the conduct of the war and added it was impossible for them to have one because of political considerations involved. He declared that no officer of any standing in United States service has any doubt "that the political takes place ahead of the military."

As an example, he said, there are 30 united nations, of which 8 are represented in the Pacific war council.

"The conduct of the war is decided almost entirely by the President and Prime Minister Churchill, certainly on the political side," he said. "It is the duty of the combined chiefs of staff to implement their policies."

Three Theaters Described.

King said that for this purpose the management of the war is divided into three theaters: The Pacific east of Singapore, in which the United States has the principal responsibility and control; the area from Singapore to Gibraltar, in which the British have the principal control, and the Atlantic, which, he said, is a combined theater, with the United States chiefly responsible in the western part and Great Britain chiefly responsible in the east.

The joint chiefs of staff is the body which is responsible for allocating the American war effort, he explained. This is exclusively an American body, he said, while the combined chiefs of staff is an organization of British and American officers.

The army air force has devised a system for production of oxygen masks that may be worn by combat pilots at high altitudes, where the atmosphere is too thin for men to live long without a supply of 100 per cent oxygen, without danger of leaks in important degree.

Three thousand air cadets were the models for the project. Their heads were measured scientifically, and their facial contours recorded. Then G. W. Borkland of the General Plastics corporation, 515 South Laflin street, makers of plastic masks, sculptured an original set of seven heads representing basic, composite types.

The army recruited the sculptors of the Field Museum staff to produce sets of the models in large numbers from the master heads. These are being sent to many manufacturers here and abroad. Use of the models will make possible a considerable saving in rubber, heretofore the most commonly used material, and the substitution of plastics to form masks that are in part flexible and in part rigid.

NEW DENMARK REGIME PLEDGES AID TO GERMANY

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 10.—Denmark's intention to help Adolf Hitler build his "new Europe" was clearly shown in a declaration issued today after the first meeting of the new Scavenius government.

After having promised to continue the internal policies of the former government, the declaration said that externally the government considers its most important task is to strengthen good relations between Denmark and Germany.

The government further promises to insure the maintenance of order in Denmark and adds that it will not tolerate "sabotage or other crimes against the occupational troops." Hundreds of Communists, Jews, and other "suspects" have been arrested in Denmark the last few days.

ALASKA AS JAP COLONY CALLED WAR SOLUTION

Japanese colonization of Alaska might have prevented the present war in the Pacific and may be the best solution to Japan's "living space" problem after this war, in the opinion of Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted explorer. He spoke last night before the Geographic Society of Chicago in Orchestra hall.

"There is only one area on the face of the earth that can reduce the threat of Japan," Wilkins said. "Alaska has not been considered an important cog in Pacific affairs, but that is not true. Alaska can fulfill all the requirements of the Japanese nation."

Wilkins said more intelligent Japanese are convinced that war is not the solution of their need for expanding markets. This class, he said, does not want to invade Australia, but to trade peacefully.

RUSSIA TO GET $13,000,000 U.S. ELECTRIC PLANT

Lend-Lease to Foot Bill for Power Project.

New York, Nov. 10 [Special].—The United States will build and turn over to Russia a new and complete power plant costing between 13 and 14 million dollars, it was disclosed today. The deal will be handled thru the lend-lease program.

This is the third similar large scale project announced recently. Plans for dismantling and shipping to Russia a 5 million dollar tire plant of the Ford Motor company were made known by company officials 10 days ago, and it was announced last Sept. 28 that the government plans to purchase a gasoline refinery and send it to Russia under the lend-lease program.

It is understood the power plant will be erected in one of northern Russia's Ural regions and will be in operation in less than two years.

Designing Under Way.

Work in designing the plant has started under the direction of Ebasco Services, Inc., the utility service organization of the Electric Bond and Share company system.

The plant, which will be operated by steam, will have a generating capacity of 100,000 kilowatts and will augment Russia's power supply considerably, it was said.

The plant will be constructed and assembled in this country. It will be set up in four units of 25,000 kilowatts each and each unit will be shipped to Russia as it is completed.

Tire Plant Advanced Type.

The tire plant to be sent to Russia, constructed by Ford on the River Rouge at Detroit in 1938, has been termed the most advanced factory of its type in the world.

William M. Jeffers, national rubber director, said the equipment is expected to produce more than a million tires a year in Russia from synthetic rubber.

The deal under which the tire plant will be sent to Russia was said to be in fulfillment of long standing lend-lease promised to the soviets. Officials said the transaction had nothing to do with efforts of the United States to obtain from Russia secrets of synthetic rubber manufacture.

Details Held Military Secret.

Plans to send the gasoline refinery to Russia were announced by Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, and details of the plan were termed a military secret.

It was understood this was the second refinery that the United States was purchasing for Russia to supplement her production of high octane gasoline for use in war planes, but Morgenthau said the plant identified in the announcement was the first to be acquired under the lend-lease program.

ARMISTICE DAY'S SCRAP CAN MAKE AXIS WANT TRUCE

So Pile the Metal High on Your Curb Today.

From dawn until night in Chicago today there will be heard the clangor of metal going to war.

From attics, basements, closets, drawers, garages, from every corner of every room, Chicago is asked to drag old, worn out, or useless metal articles to the city's curbstones. Fourteen hundred trucks will move thru the streets and collect the scrap which will be sorted, graded, cleaned, and shipped to Chicago area steel mills.

Here's How to Help Drive.

William L. McFetridge, Chicago metropolitan area salvage director, and Nathaniel Leverone, Illinois salvage director for the War Production board, listed the following rules for the all day scrap harvest:

1. Bring out your metal scrap early. If possible, carry it to your block salvage depot; otherwise leave it at the curb.
2. Don't turn in old paper, rubber, or tin cans for this drive. Restrict the scrap to metals.
3. Remove foreign material from the metal, such as leather, fabric, or wood.
4. If your scrap is not collected by this afternoon, telephone Randolph 8000 and Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity, will direct a truck to your block.

It's Armistice Day War.

The Armistice day scrap harvest will climax the intensive drive which began Oct. 1 to fill the steel mill's scrap storage yards with enough metal to keep their furnaces operating at peak capacity thru the winter. Today's donations will include:

Chicago Historical society—Four cannons weighing 10 tons, including a British siege gun and a German howitzer of the World war, a gun from the Spanish flagship Infanta Maria Theresa, destroyed in the battle of Santigao in the Spanish-American war, and an eight inch smooth bore naval gun of the Civil war.

Manz corporation, 4001 Ravenswood avenue, V. R. Lynch, president—33 ton printing press.

Scrap to Aid Service Men.

Keeley Brewing company, 28th street and Cottage Grove avenue, Frank C. Verbest, president—60 tons of scrap. Proceeds go to Chicago service men's center.

Jewish People's institute, 3500 Douglas boulevard—100 athletic trophies won in last 33 years.

Police Commissioner Allman—40 trophies and loving cups won by city police in 36 years of marksmanship and athletic contests.

Soldier Kills Self

Sergt. Gilbert Konradt and Miss Laura Dressler.

Sergt. Gilbert Konradt, 25 years old, a soldier on furlough from Camp Pickett, Va., shot and killed himself with his army pistol yesterday in a room of the Bismarck hotel, where he had registered Monday. He was the son of William Konradt, a florist at 3113 Irving Park road.

Near the body police found an open Bible and farewell notes addressed to the soldier's father and to Miss Laura Dressler of 3310 North Troy street. The letter was marked: "To my darling." Miss Dressler, a blonde, 22 years old, is employed as a bookkeeper. She said she and Konradt had been keeping company "off and on" for several years and that he had telephoned her in the morning to say he was leaving. She said she thought he meant he was going overseas and had wished him luck.

William Konradt said his son had been home over the week-end and had seemed in good spirits. He said he did not know Miss Dressler.

Wife Wins Divorce, Herd of Cattle, and Alimony

Mrs. Bertha E. Rhodes, 40 years old, 1312 South Fork avenue, Maywood, yesterday won a divorce decree, $10 a week alimony, and 51 head of feeder cattle and a prize bull, now on a range at Hulett, Wyo. Her petition, heard by Judge Ulysses S. Schwartz in Superior court, charged her husband, James, 33, of 1505 South Fork avenue, Maywood, a farmer, with cruelty. They were married in June, 1938.

YANKS WILL HALT JAP LANDINGS, SAYS HOLCOMB

Marine Chief Tells Hard Life on Guadalcanal.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—The Japanese will have an increasingly difficult time from now on in reinforcing their troops on Guadalcanal Island, Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, marine corps commandant, predicted today upon his return from that Pacific battleground.

American army and marine forces defending the Guadalcanal airfield already outnumber the enemy on the island, Holcomb said, but the Japs have been sending in reënforcements totaling about 900 men every other day.

"Trying to stop their reënforcements is like punching a feather bed," the general said, "as they just send in more. But I think things are shaping up so that there will be more interruptions to these reënforcements in the future."

He did not say how the "interruptions" would be brought about, but he was clearly confident that the position of United States forces on the strategic island would steadily improve.

Marines Are Tired.

Holcomb gave one of the best descriptions of conditions in day to day American life on the island yet to come from an official source. His story was one of grand fortitude on the part of soldiers and marines, most of whom have known hardly a moment of unworried rest since the Solomons campaign began three months ago.

The marine division on the island has been there since the very first, Holcomb disclosed, and "the men are tired—there isn't any doubt about that."

Some break down and have to be removed from the island, he explained, but the division as a whole fights valiantly on.

Even under such circumstances, Holcomb reported, the marines have developed their own humorous slant. To them the Jap who sends over a flight of seaplanes to bomb their positions is "Louis the Louse," the frequent lone submarine that shells them by night is "Oscar the sub," enemy artillery bombarding them from the jungle to the southwest is "Pistol Pete," and "Millimeter Pete" to the airmen, and the cruiser destroyer groups which land 900 men regularly every other night constitute the "Tokio express."

Never Much Quiet.

The marine general, who arrived on Guadalcanal Oct. 21 and left on the 23d, described the "Tokio express" as consisting usually of a cruiser which carried about 300 troops and four destroyers carrying 150 each. He said "our troops have accounted for two of these groups."

Holcomb cited "Pistol Pete" and the bombing operations of "Louis the Louse" as examples of why there was never very much quiet on Guadalcanal. The artillery, he said, "shoots up the air field" during mealtime, twice a day, so that the men are always having to dash away from their meals to take shelter. Similarly the seaplane raids interrupt sleep in the evenings.

Holcomb arrived in Guadalcanal with a party of seven other marine officers on Oct. 21, having been delayed a few days due to the fact that all available planes were carrying in supplies. Meanwhile he had visited the outpost on Palmyra Island and various other outposts.

Visits All Battalions.

He said his purpose in making the trip was to study marine supply, equipment, and training needs at first hand. He visited all battalions actually on the firing line in the three days he was there and also all the air units, he said.

The night his party arrived, Holcomb related, there was the usual harassing bombardment and also the regular attack of "Louie the Louse."

"They interrupted my dinner twice," Holcomb said.

On the day he was there, the Japs also staged their regular daily air raid. That time it was the 79th and was made just about noon. American fighters, as usual, went up to 27,000 feet to receive it.

That particular day was overcast, Holcomb recalled, and the Japs first were reported to have turned back, but later word reached the general that they were coming in again, and finally eight dive bombers did put in a appearance. They attacked a destroyer without results, he said.

Make it Five to One.

"Our men knocked down five of them and one spun in for some reason we did not know. Two got away.

"That made the score of planes lost in combat over Guadalcanal alone, 62 for us and 290 for the enemy. I told the men that and they protested that it wasn't yet five to one as it should have been, so on the day we left there 20 Zeros came in and none got back. We lost no planes. If you add 20 to 290 you will see it makes 310, which is exactly five to one," Holcomb added with a grin.

Holcomb said that while he did not know the exact number it was his impression that Japanese military prisoners "run into the hundreds."

Report Raid on Fiji Islands.

BERLIN, Nov. 10 [from German broadcasts]—(AP). — A DNB dispatch from Tokio reported today that Japanese bombers inflicted "great destruction" in a raid Sunday on American military installations at Suva, capital of the Fiji Islands, and started fires in the harbor area at Townsville, on the northeast Australian coast.

Heavy Fighting at Oivi; Battle in Guinea Nears Decisive Stage

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Nov. 11 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The battle for Oivi, 55 miles from the northeastern New Guinea coast, between Japanese and allied ground forces now is approaching the decisive stage, the high command annouced today.

Heavy fighting is in progress at Oivi, where the Japs elected to make a stand after having retreated since Sept. 29 from the point of their farthest advance across the Owen Stanley mountains upon Port Moresby.

Heavy Allied Blows.

Since Nov. 3 the allied forces have been close to Oivi and, encountering stiff resistance on a scale they had not faced since the Japs began backtracking, called upon their planes and tried encircling and infiltration tactics to crack the Japanese defenses.

While the ground attack moved toward a climax, heavy aerial blows were dealt between Oivi and the Jap's northeastern New Guinea coastal base on Buna, near which American troops, aerially transported, already are fighting.

Guns Blown Apart.

"Our air force made three coördinated heavy attacks on enemy installations in the rear of the areas," said the communique. "Allied fighters executed a strafing sweep over the Popodetta-Sangara trails [Buna area] followed in turn by formations of medium bombers and attack planes, making both bombing and strafing runs over the Soputa area [between Buna and Oivi].

"The damage was serious. Ammunition dumps were destroyed. Heavy anti-aircraft guns were blown from their emplacements. All guns in the vicinity were silenced and severe casualties were inflicted on ground troops."

Adm. Zengo Yoshida Heads Jap Fleet in China Seas

TOKIO, Nov. 10 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—The navy ministry announced today the appointment of Adm. Zengo Yoshida, 57 years old, former navy minister and member of the Supreme War council, as commander in chief of the Japanese fleet in China waters. He succeeds Adm. Mineichi Koga.

NAVY MAKES CITY CENTER OF VAST AIR SCHOOL SETUP

Rear Adm. Read Directs Technical Training.

Administration of the technical training program under which the navy has 100,000 men learning to keep its airplanes flying now is centered in Chicago, Rear Adm. Cushing Read announced yesterday.

Rear Adm. Cushing Read.

In a conference in the Board of Trade building offices of the Naval Air Technical Training command, of which he is chief, Adm. Read said the command will supervise all navy technical schools throut the country. The navy maintains seven major and 35 smaller training projects, besides numerous instructional projects for maintenance men, ground crews, and technicians at trade schools and in factories producing navy flying equipment.

"Less Glamorous Task."

"It was found that all the details of the training command could not be handled in Washington," Adm. Read said. "Chicago was chosen as the most suitable city for the headquarters in the decision to decentralize. We have in the city about 15,000 young men who are preparing themselves for the less glamorous but equally important task of keeping aloft our navy planes, including those now based at Glenview, of which some are engaged in flight operations from the deck of the U. S. S. Wolverine.

"Heroes from the war fronts are returning to the Navy pier school and the training center at 87th street and Anthony avenue to become better prepared to keep planes, bombs, and guns in fighting trim. Others will instruct younger men in the work of keeping air supremacy under battle conditions."

Flys the Atlantic.

Adm. Read was graduated from the United States Naval academy in 1903. He qualified as a naval aviator in 1916 in the early days of the navy's air arm. After serving aboard ships of various types, he was appointed commanding officer of the naval air station at Bay Shore, N. Y. In May, 1919, he was in charge of the NC-4, the only one of three navy planes to complete the first attempt to fly the Atlantic.

For this feat Adm. Read holds the distinguished service medal.

Capt. Richard F. Whitehead will serve as Adm. Read's chief of staff. He has been aviation aide to the commandant of the 9th naval district at Great Lakes, and has a long record in naval aviation.

Japs Attack in Shantung; Retreat North of Canton

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 10 (AP).—A Japanese army of more than 20,000, with what was described as considerable air support, has launched a major campaign against Chinese forces in southern Shantung province, a communique from the Chinese high command said today. The high command also reported that a Japanese drive, starting from Sunkai, a railway town 15 miles north of Canton, has been blunted, and that the Japanese are retreating.

U. S. PLANES SET FIRE TO RANGOON DOCK BUILDINGS

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 10 (AP).—An allied headquarters communique said today that United States bombers left the docks and warehouses in Rangoon and Syriam burning fiercely after a heavy attack on the two Burma cities yesterday, and also reported that the Japanese losses in October raids on allied airdromes were nearly double the original estimate.

The communique said the destruction of seven Japanese aircraft had been claimed in fighting over northeastern Assam, late last month, six falling to United States fighters.

"Search in the hills and jungles in the surrounding area, however, has now produced the wrecked fuselage of 13 Japanese aircraft, and further information suggests that at least one or two more failed to return."

STORY OF MARINE WHO KILLED 200 JAPS IN ONE NIGHT

Enemy Mowed Down by Machine Gunner.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—Blinded in one eye, wounded in the other and pretty badly battered otherwise, Pvt. Albert A. Schmid of the marines has this solacing thought: His buddies say he killed more than 200 Japanese in one night in the Solomons.

Pvt. Albert A. Schmid.

Schmid, Smitty to his pals out there in the islands, is recovering in naval hospital at San Diego, Cal., where he recalled the almost incredible hours he manned a machine gun against the Japanese.

The navy today released the story of the 22 year old marine from Philadelphia. Here's what he said:

"Attacks had been expected by all of us from the moment we landed on Guadalcanal on Aug. 7. But for two weeks we encountered no real opposition on our beach head.

Japs Attack at 1 a. m.

"The Japs must have made elaborate preparations for what they planned to be our massacre. About 1 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 21 came the first real attack. I was squatting with two buddies in a machine gun nest.

"Our machine gun nest was located on the bank of a river that flowed down to our beach. We were at a point where the stream was about 50 yards wide and easy to wade. The nearest machine gun to us was 150 yards downstream.

"Suddenly a few scattered shots were fired from across the river. Then a huge, dark, bobbing mass that looked like a herd of cattle scurried into the stream. The Japs were starting to cross.

Grabs Machine Gun.

"Johnny Rivers, one of my buddies, swept our machine gun to and fro and the wading Japs started crumpling down in the water. I was loading the gun. Rivers was a 23 year old lad who had turned professional boxer just before he entered the marines.

"Then Johnny got it in the face. I grabbed the machine gun. Lee Diamond, the third man in our hole and our squad leader, laid Johnny aside as best he could and started feeding the gun.

"By that time bullets were flying around us like a swarm of bees. I noticed that the nearest machine gun to us—the one downstream—had been put out of action after firing about 10 shots. Except for some anti-tank fire extending our way at times from farther upstream, the only opposition that could be given the Japs in our sector was from our lone machine gun.

Japs Charge Into Water.

"The Japs kept sending groups of men, from 35 to 50 in number, charging down into the water while bullets whistled all around us.

"I swept my gunfire evenly across group after group of Jap troops. They toppled over each other as our bullets hit them.

"Diamond was loading the gun when they got him in the arm. He fell across my legs. So I alternately loaded and fired trying at every opportunity to pick off a machine gun that the Japs had gotten set up not more than 25 yards away from me in an abandoned amphibian tractor in midstream.

"Some of the Japs must have gone up-river, crossed and back tracked to clamber up coconut trees near our nest. Bullets started zooming down at us as if they were fired from tree tops. Then water started spurting around my lap and chest.

"Diamond had picked up his Reising automatic and was trying to work it with one hand.

"I had just mowed down a particularly big party that come charging at us from across stream when all hell broke loose in our hole. What must have been a hand grenade hit the left stirrup of the machine gun and blasted it into junk.

Hand Grenade Explodes.

"The heavy bolt handle—I was told later—was knocked off. It missed my face and grazed the upper part of my shoulder. My helmet was knocked off. Something struck me in the face. Everything became dark. I put my hand to my face and eyes. I felt blood and raw flesh.

"While we lay there motionless the Japs in the trees fired a steady downpour of bullets that chipped up dirt all around us, ripped thru our sand bags and splattered soil into my wounds.

"Diamond kept saying, 'Keep down, keep down.'

"We lay there for hours.

"It must have been about 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning when two lieutenants helped us out of that hole. The firing had died down.

"The Japs had failed to break thru. Their attack had been a flop. It had cost them heavily.

"The Japs that we repulsed were supposed to be their finest. Many of their dead wore medals.

"One of our marines almost went crazy when he discovered what was in the pocket of one Jap he had shot. He found in that Jap's pocket an American identification tag—we call 'em 'dog tags.'

U.S. PLANE BOMBS SUB TO SURFACE; SHIP SINKS HER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 10.—After being sighted and bombed to the surface by a United States escort plane, a German U-boat was rammed and sunk by the Canadian corvette Oakville in United States waters under a "semitropical" moon, Angus L. MacDonald, minister of naval services, announced today. He said the American plane dropped a flare to direct the corvette, which was on convoy escort, to the enemy submarine.

Commanded by Lieut. Comm. A. King, the corvette closed in, shelled the damaged U-boat, and rammed her three times. The submarine was completely disabled after the third ramming. Then Sub-Lieut. Harold Lawrence and Stoker Petty Officer Arthur Powell leaped aboard the U-boat.

Swim to Safety.

Revolvers in hand, they shot two of the Nazi crew who refused to surrender, knocked a third overboard, and subdued the rest of the sailors. The corvette's two officers attempted to salvage the U-boat. When the submarine began to settle they ordered the Germans to swim for safety and then jumped in the water themselves. A few minutes later the submarine sank.

Lawrence and Powell were rescued by a skiff from the Oakville, which had drawn off. They had been swimming amid a group of Germans. Some of the Nazis were picked up by the Oakville and the rest by a boat from a United States destroyer, which was in the escort.

The United States destroyer had signalled the Oakville after the corvette had twice rammed the U-boat, "Do you need assistance?" The answer was "No." "Congratulations," replied the American captain and covered the corvette's position in the escort. Then the corvette flashed "Close me," and the destroyer approached to lend a hand if necessary.

Flashes, "Good Hunting."

"Please close sub," the corvette signaled. "Please send boat to pick up men. Sub is sunk. Some of our men were aboard."

As the battered and leaking Oakville headed back to port, she sent a final signal to the destroyer: "Good hunting."

Minister MacDonald, who refused to tell the exact time or place of the submarine sinking, said:

"This incident affords a striking example of the close partnership in which the navies of the United States and Canada are working."

LETTER TO JUDGE WINS WRIT FOR HOOSIER ROBBER

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 10 (AP).—An Alcatraz prisoner's personal letter to a judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals resulted today in a writ of habeas corpus in the first case of its kind on record here.

Judge William Denman interested himself in the appeal of Cecil [Tuck] Wright, 35 years old, an East Chicago, Ind., postal robber, granted him two hearings in chambers, and then issued the writ on his own authority. Pending expected appeals the jurist ruled that Wright could be released on $5,000 bail.

Wright was arrested in 1930 after the robbery of a building in which the post office was situated at Strasburg, Ill. He was convicted on a state charge of robbery and served nine years in the Illinois penitentiary, being paroled to federal authorities. He was tried in federal court and convicted of the postal robbery and sentenced to serve 15 years in the federal penitentiary.

Judge Denman ruled that the federal sentence could not begin until the Illinois sentence was completed and that, thus, Wright technically could get no credit for the three and one-half years he has served in Alcatraz and Leavenworth prisons.

The First WAVE Arrives for Duty at Great Lakes

The first member of the WAVES to be assigned to active duty at Great Lakes Naval Training station arrived yesterday. She is Ensign Marion Knight, 25 years old, a former junior high school teacher in Salt Lake City, Utah. Ensign Knight will take up duties in the identification section of the 9th naval district security office, releasing a male ensign for more active service.

WITNESS BRANDS HAUPT'S HOME A 'HITLER OUTPOST'

Says Saboteur's Parents Sang Nazis' Praise.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

From late 1939, when Mrs. Erna Haupt returned from a visit to Germany, until early 1941, the Haupt home was in effect an outpost of Hitler's reich. This was the testimony yesterday of Mrs. Mary Fishman, 1246 Hohlfelder road, Glencoe, in the treason trial of Mrs. Haupt, her husband, Hans Max, and four other Chicagoans.

The witness, wife of Louis Fishman, loop restaurateur, employed the Haupts from 1935 until February of last year, when she discharged them for their pro-Hitler utterances and activities and notified the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

During the last 17 months of their employment, while living in servant quarters at the Fishman home, Mr. and Mrs. Haupt praised Hitler almost daily, Mrs. Fishman testified. After Hitler overran Europe, Hans Haupt asserted that the fall of France and Norway had been brought about by the fifth column and that the same thing would happen here if America should quarrel with Hitler.

Visitor at Bund Camp.

Thruout the summer, fall, and winter of 1940, their son, Herbert Haupt, since executed as a Nazi saboteur, was a regular visitor at a camp of the German-American Bund near Ludington, Mich., and at the Highwood, Ill., farm of William Wernecke, Chicago Bund leader, Mrs. Fishman testified.

In addition he was visited by Herman Neubauer, who later was trained with Herbert in Germany for a mission of wartime sabotage in this country. The two were landed from the same German U-boat in Florida last June 17 and on Aug. 8 were executed at Washington, D. C., with four other members of the submarine gang.

Mrs. Fishman asserted that before trips to the Bund camp or to the Wernecke farm, Herbert and his friends dressed in the German Youth uniform, black breeches with leather puttees, brown Storm Trooper shirts and black ties and caps. They always went armed on these trips, taking rifles from the Haupt apartment over the Fishman garage and stowing them in the back of automobiles, she continued.

Tells of Conversations.

Wernecke often visited the Haupt home, as did Wolfgang Wergin, who left this country with Herbert in June, 1941, and accompanied him to Mexico, Japan, and Germany. Wolfgang, son of Otto Richard and Kate Wergin, also treason defendants, is believed now to be in the German army. Examined by Richard G. Finn, assistant United States district attorney, Mrs. Fishman told of conversations with the Haupts about Germany.

Q.—Were Germany or Hitler mentioned in conversations you had with the Haupts? A.—Hitler was the general topic of conversation. Erna and Hans Haupt both said Hitler was a godsend to Germany.

Q.—Was there a conversation after the present war started in Europe? A.—Hans Haupt said that if America should pick a quarrel with Hitler there would be revolution here. He said the light and phone companies and the armories would be taken over.

Reports to the FBI.

Q.—Did you report these and other conversations to any one? A.—Yes, after my baby was born in February, 1941. I reported them to the FBI.

Stormy scenes twice interrupted cross-examination of the witness by Defense Attorney Paul A. F. Warnholtz. In reply to his early questions, Mrs. Fishman asserted that she is Irish, born of Irish-American parents.

Q.—Where did these conversations take place and who started them? A.—In my kitchen where Hans sometimes helped Erna. They started them.

Q.—You heard talk like this almost a year and a half? Why didn't you report them sooner? A.—Because for several months before February, 1941, I was carrying my baby and was in no condition to break in new help.

Q.—And why didn't you discharge them before this condition arose? A.—My husband at that time defended them. He said then that people born in the old country have a right to love it.

Q.—Didn't you ever speak to the Haupts about their talk and activities? A.—I told them I didn't approve of the people that came to their house. I told Herbert I didn't want Wernecke coming there.

Judge Intervenes.

Here there was a question of the date on which this occurred. Warnholtz shouted his questions and Mrs. Fishman shouted replies, while Finn interpolated objections. Judge William J. Campbell broke in sternly.

"Stop shouting at the witness," he ordered. "Ask your questions in a civil manner." Then he added to Mrs. Fishman: "You make your replies civilly."

At her insistence, Mrs. Fishman continued, her husband went to FBI headquarters in February, 1941, and reported what the Haupts had said and done. At the same time she gave them a months' notice and discharged them. Late last July Mrs. Haupt wrote her a letter from the county jail and this, too, was turned over to the FBI, Mrs. Fishman said.

After more than a fortnight of testimony the government obviously was building toward the climax of its case—the introduction of a 23 page, detailed statement by Hans Haupt, involving himself and the other five defendants in knowledge of Herbert Haupt's mission of sabotage. Previous witnesses have testified Haupt had many private talks with his son after his return from Germany by submarine.

Late in the day the government put on the stand Leo H. Frutken and J. C. Berk, FBI agents, who told of taking two statements from Lucile Froehling, who with her husband, Walter, uncle of Herbert Haupt, are the third couple accused in the treason indictment.

Traitorous Statements.

J. Albert Woll, United States attorney, was hopeful the government can rest its case by tomorrow night. Two other major blasts were loosed at Haupt during the day.

Hans Eric Poppe, 827 Agatite avenue, who once worked for Hans Haupt as a painter, said he severed relations because of Haupt's pro-Hitler and anti-American views. He attributed traitorous statements to Haupt.

The principal witness at the morning session was Willy Max Schroeder, German hero of the World war, who last summer contributed his two Iron Crosses to the national scrap drive. Over a barrage of defense objections, Schroeder testified that Haupt constantly extoled Hitler and the new Germany and spoke disparagingly of the United States. He quoted Haupt as saying he would like to send Herbert back to Germany.

Poppe, thin, dark, and mustached, spoke English perfectly. He was born in Germany 33 years ago, came to this country when he was 14 years old, and was educated in Chicago schools. He became associated with Hans Haupt after learning his trade as a painter.

Severed Association.

Poppe said he worked with Haupt from 1935 thru part of 1939 and severed his association because of Haupt's pro-Hitler and un-American attitude. He testified that in 1939 Haupt sent Herbert to a Nazi [bund] camp for boys in Michigan.

"Hans Haupt said he would not let Herbert join the American army," Poppe asserted. "He said that Herbert could go to Germany and become a big shot. Hans Haupt said he had no use for the United States and had feeling only for Germany.

"On one occasion he told me that if he, himself, ever had to go into the American army he would desert to the German side and give away the American battle positions."

Cited for Bravery.

Schroeder, now an elevator operator in the Knickerbocker hotel, fought thruout the World war in the German army, was wounded in 1914, 1915, and 1918, and twice was decorated for bravery. He was a member of the German war veterans group for a time, but resigned after Hitler invaded Poland.

Schroeder testified that Hans Haupt spoke frequently of Germany and Hitler, his orations occurring generally at lunch and rest periods during the year Haupt was a painter at the Knickerbocker and Schroeder worked for him.

"He always said Hitler was a great man and running Germany good," the witness asserted on direct examination by Finn. "Hans Haupt said he would like to send Herbert back to Germany and learn him a trade. After Mrs. Haupt came back in 1939 from Germany, where she saw the 25th anniversary of the battle of Tannenburg, Hans Haupt said Hitler was a fine man and that he could build up the United States like he had built up Germany."

Speaks Against Gifts to Hitler.

The witness bristled as he told of a clash with Haupt and other German-Americans in the fall of 1939 when contributions were being sought for Hitler's winter wartime relief in Germany.

"It was a meeting of the German veterans and members of the German Day association in 1939," Schroeder said. "I spoke against the winter relief. Haupt said to me: 'You are not a good German when you speak like this.' I said: 'All right.'"

Schroeder disliked Hitler, he said, because: "As Hitler grew up in power there, so did the Nazi bund grow up in power here." Nettled by Haupt's praise of Germany, Schroeder said he asked him repeatedly: "If you like it so much better there, why don't you go over there? Why did you ever come here?"

Charge Pro-German Statements.

Two morning session witnesses attributed pro-German statements to Mr. and Mrs. Wergin. Kurt Sommer of La Grange, head of a glass and machine company, quoted Wergin as saying after Wolfgang's departure in 1941 that he expected Wolfgang to "turn up in the German army." Mrs. Martha Schoenwald of West Haven, Conn., told of a visit to the Wergins here in 1941 and quoted Mrs. Wergin as saying Wolfgang had gone to Germany where "people live so much better than they do here."

On cross-examination Mrs. Schoenwald commented: "I could not understand this. I lived enough in Germany [Koenigsberg, East Prussia] to know how things were. How could Germany be right away so nice, as she said?"

WARTIME CHIEFS PRAISE MARINES ON ANNIVERSARY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—American marines—in front lines on Guadalcanal, in the Aleutians, aboard ships in battle—paused for a moment to observe the 167th anniversary of the "Leathernecks."

It was in 1775 that the marines first fought as a unit of the American armed forces, and the marines had these congratulatory comments at hand:

President Roosevelt—Since 1775 the United States marines have upheld a fine tradition of service to their country. They are doing so today.

Secretary of War Stimson—They have never failed the nation in defense of its ideals and policies.

Gen. George C. Marshall—The marines are again in the forefront of attack, upholding the highest tradition.

Adm. Ernest J. King—I commend you for duty well done.

BATTLE SCARRED, ITCHING TO FIGHT, THAT'S TULLIO!

Eyesight Saved After Bomb Explodes in Face.

BY WARD WALKER.

Sixteen months ago Tullio Bianchi, then 19 years old, left his home at 2428 Polk street and joined the United States marines. Last night he came home.

Corp. Tullio Bianchi.

In the interval he sailed all over the Pacific, fought the kicking butt of a sputtering machine gun, watched Jap planes he had hit disappear in the sea. A bomb blew up in his face; he lay three long months in a naval hospital—blind.

But last night he came home and, altho his face still bears shrapnel scars, his eyes are good again. He could see as well as hear the joy of his family at his arrival—Joe, his father; Mary, his mother; Yolanda and Louise, his sisters, and Ivan and Joe Jr., his brothers.

"Just Kinda Happened."

Tullio went thru the battles of the Marshall and Gilbert Islands and the Coral sea, where he was wounded. "There we were and it just kinda all happened," he explained.

Prodded by his family and a reporter he told a little more—the bare outline, with most of his story hidden between the lines: the anger of the marines when they landed in Pearl Harbor last December and found the shambles left by Jap bombs, the eagerness with which they faced action in the Marshall and Gilbert islands, the fear that grips most men under fire for the first time but that disappears when they fire their first shots.

"Got to Go Back."

He told of the camaraderie, the thrill of victory, and the waves of relief that sweep a ship when it has come out on top; of the ice cream and coffee that are served as "victory rations;" of the satisfaction when a gunner's bullets rip into an enemy and tear his plane apart.

When his 30 day furlough is ended, Corp. Bianchi will report back to San Diego, Cal., for—he hopes—active duty. "Once you've been out there, why you've just got to go back," he said.

In the meantime, Tullio is going to have a good time. There's a certain girl in Pittsburgh—her nickname is "Tish," and a lot of friends to see.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. CAROLYN BLOODGOOD.

A four year court battle ended yesterday as Judge Joseph Sabath granted Carolyn Bloodgood, 30 years old, 4620 Kentucky avenue, a divorce from Vernon E. Bloodgood, 40, of 4213 Van Buren street, in Superior court.

Mrs. Bloodgood, thru her attorneys, Joseph H. and Norman Becker, agreed to take $350 in lieu of all past and future alimony. Earlier she had changed her plea for separate maintenance to one for a divorce.

During the Bloodgoods' marital dispute, Bloodgood, a machinist, was in jail twice and appeared before the governor of Michigan on one occasion on a fugitive warrant.

SEIZE 2 IN $4,000 MONEY MAKING MACHINE FRAUD

Emil Lustig, 51 years old, was arrested yesterday by Lieut. John Griffith of the detective bureau on a warrant charging him with fleecing Paul Stryzewski, 1229 Montana street, out of $4,000 on a money making machine. Also under arrest is Leroy Schimkoech, 43.

Police said that Schimkoech first interested Stryzewski in the machine, which by means of chemicals, was to make crisp, new bills, and that Stryzewski gave him $900 to buy the chemicals.

Later, police said, Lustig showed Stryzewski the machine, and Stryzewski put $3,100 in bills into it. Lustig, police said, disappeared, and so did Stryzewski's $3,100. All Stryzewski found in the machine was ordinary paper.

PRISON DODGERS LIKE BROSNAN, BIOFF HUNTED

Municipal court records were reported yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Myron Lewis to be incomplete in several cases in which jail sentences had been appealed by the offenders. Lewis said it became necessary for him to search the files of the appellate and Supreme courts to determine whether sentences other than those imposed on John P. Brosnan and Willie Bioff were "pigeonholed."

The state's attorney's office began an investigation of the records after discovering that Brosnan's sentence in 1934 had been covered up and he had not gone to jail. Brosnan was a sex offender. He entered jail a week ago to serve the sentence given him eight years ago. His case recalled the treatment accorded Willie Bioff, recently imprisoned by the federal government on a million dollar extortion charge. Bioff was the boss of the motion picture operator's international union.

In 1922 Bioff was convicted of pandering and sentenced to six months in jail. He appealed and the sentence was affirmed, but no one ever thought of taking him into custody until he was exposed in 1939 by a newspaper writer.

Prosecutor Lewis said no one had fixed the blame for either the Brosnan or Bioff miscarriage of justice.

Man in Army Garb Flees When Quizzed on Check

A man wearing the uniform of an army technical sergeant attempted to cash a $25 check yesterday at the Bond Clothing company store at 6339 South Halsted street, but fled when Arthur Willner, credit manager, questioned his identity. Willner said he had been warned to watch for the man and that he tried to hold him until police arrived.

G. O. P. CONSIDERS SCHROEDER FOR PARTY CHAIRMAN

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—Werner Schroeder, Republican national committeeman of Illinois, was favorably mentioned by many party leaders today as a possibility for chairman of the Republican national committee.

Werner Schroeder.

Schroeder appears to be especially favored by Republican leaders in congress. Several national committeemen expressed the unqualified opinion that he can have the national chairmanship if he wants it when the national committee meets in St. Louis on Dec. 7 to select a successor to Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, Republican leader of the house, who is resigning the national chairmanship.

Post a Powerful One.

The new chairman will have a powerful voice in controling the machinery of the Republican national convention and hence in the nomination of a presidential candidate in 1944.

The argument most frequently advanced in support of Schroeder for the national chairmanship is that control of the Republican party must be removed from the eastern financial interests and returned to the middle west, where the party was born and where its greatest strength centered in 1940 and 1942.

Another argument advanced in Schroeder's behalf is that he would be acceptable to all elements and all potential Presidential candidates of the party with the exception of the Willkieites. Wendell L. Willkie, the party's 1940 Presidential nominee, is opposed to Schroeder on the ground that he was a prewar noninterventionist and helped manage the reelection campaign of Sen. Wayland Brooks, who carried Illinois by more than 200,000 votes on Nov. 3.

Willkie Compromise Seen.

Willkie's present first and second choices for the national chairmanship are said to be Kenneth Bradley, national committeeman of Connecticut, and Sinclair Weeks, national committeman of Massachusetts, respectively. For tactical reasons, however, the Willkie forces are expected to throw their support to a compromise candidate from the west, such as Harvey Jewett of South Dakota or Ralph A. Cake of Oregon, according to well informed party leaders.

National party leaders in Washington do not believe, however, that the Willkie forces will have sufficient strength even to compass the election of a compromise candidate.

16 FAIR 'SPARKS' TO BE GRADUATED AS ARMY TUTORS

Ninety radio and electronics experts, including 16 women, first of their sex to receive such advanced training, will graduate at 7 o'clock tonight in exercises held at the University of Chicago's Quadrangle club. All will enter the army signal corps, the women as civilian instructors.

Sixty-four men will receive certificates in advanced radio, electronics, and micro-waves, and 10 men and the 16 women certificates in advanced radio and electronics.

Col. Charles N. Sawyer, commandant of signal schools, Col. William H. McCarty, in charge of operations and training, and Col. Edward Roth Jr., chief of staff of the 6th service command, will represent the army. The university announced that another group of 125 is in training in the advanced technical course; a third group will begin training in December.

POSTAL CLERK, 46, GETS 30 DAYS FOR LOOTING OF MAILS

Judge John P. Barnes in Federal District court yesterday sentenced Frank Wittmann, 46 years old, 8435 South Hermitage avenue, a veteran postal clerk, to 30 days in jail and placed him on two years' probation on his plea of guilty to stealing from the mails. The money—about $30—was addressed to a south side monastery. Wittmann has made restitution. Michael J. Boyle, assistant United States attorney, said Wittmann had been a postal employé from 1921 to the present except for a short period in 1940. Wittmann said during that short period—June to October, 1940—he had been in the tavern business, and had lost his life's savings.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

DEMOCRATS' HOPE TO WIN ILLINOIS HOUSE SEAT DIMS

Nelson Gains in State Representative Race.

Democratic hopes for a victorious recount of the Nov. 3 election returns for state representative in the 13th senatorial district got a dash of cold water yesterday.

With the Chicago election board's proclamation of the official canvass of the election results only two days away, it appeared that the plurality of the winning Republican, Ragnar G. Nelson, might be increased to more than 1,400. With three precincts still unheard from, the unofficial returns showed Nelson leading Adam S. Mioduski, Democrat, by only 74 votes.

Errors Account for Increase.

Nelson said his margin was raised 580 votes by the figures from the missing precincts—the 7th and 59th precincts in the 18th ward, and the 20th precinct of the 9th ward. Errors in the transfer of results from the poll book to the precinct captains' reports accounted for about 800 more in his favor, Nelson said.

At a special hearing of the election commissioners yesterday, Mioduski demanded that the tally sheets from nine disputed precincts be disregarded because they do not include straight ballot counts, and the figures from the precinct officials' statements of votes be used instead in the official canvass.

John F. Tyrrell, attorney for the Republican country central committee, objected on the ground that it is a rule of the board of election commissioners of 16 years' standing that the tally sheets be followed where both tally sheets for the precinct are in agreement.

Expert Ruling Tomorrow.

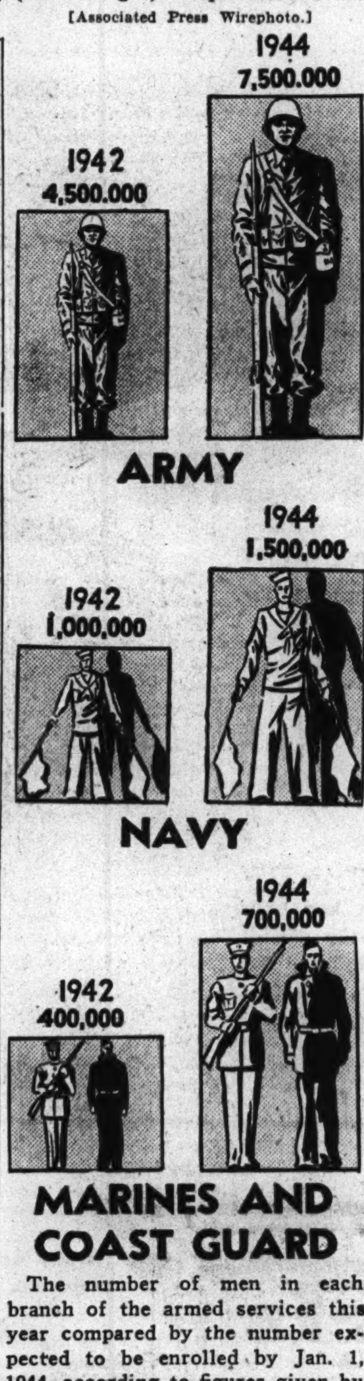
The hearing was adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow, when a ruling is expected.

James C. Moreland, defeated Republican nominee for representative from the 7th congressional district, announced that he had retained Tyrrell as his attorney to contest the reelection of Leonard W. Schuetz, Democrat.

Because the congress is by law the sole judge of the election and qualifications of its own members, such a recount would be under the supervision of a special house subcommittee.

DIES OF FALL INJURIES.

Charles Uhler, 67 years old, 2926 Emerald avenue, died yesterday in St. Bernard's hospital of a skull fracture suffered Monday when he fell as he left funeral services held for a friend at 1759 West 51st street.



The number of men in each branch of the armed services this year compared by the number expected to be enrolled by Jan. 1, 1944, according to figures given by President Roosevelt at this press conference.

HOUSE ROARS YES TO TEEN DRAFT WITH NO STRINGS

'Adequate Training' Plan Firmly Rejected.

approval of the conference report with only a handful of weak "noes" heard in objection.

Senate proponents of the one year training restriction meanwhile called a strategy conference for tomorrow, but informed senators confided that they do not expect efforts to restore this restriction to the bill will be successful.

Changes in Draft Law.

As approved the bill makes the following changes in the draft law:

1. Reduces the minimum draft age from 20 to 18 years.

2. Defers agricultural workers deemed essential to the war effort, including full time farm workers and those in allied lines, such as implement makers, canners, and truckers of farm produce.

3. High school students may complete their academic term before going into service, but this restriction does not extend to college students subject to the draft. However, college students in army and navy reserves, or taking advanced ROTC training, are automatically deferred under current regulations.

Parents' Consent Eliminated.

4. Men reaching their 45th birthday anniversary may not be inducted without their consent. This is not retroactive, however, to apply to men 45 already inducted.

4. The consent of parents or guardians for young men 18 to 20 to join the armed forces is eliminated.

6. Conviction on crimes not punishable by death or more than one year's imprisonment is no longer a bar to service in the armed forces.

The conferees had eliminated language from the bill that would have specified that the 18 and 19 year olds and unmarried men in the older age brackets must be drafted before calling in married men. Managers of the legislation explained that selective service regulations already provide that married men shall be called last.

Quotes Gen. Pershing.

In appealing for adoption of his amendment for "adequate training" Rankin read from the memoirs of Gen. John J. Pershing to the effect that many untrained men were sent abroad in the World war. Adoption of the amendment would not impede the war effort, he contended.

"Why should we object to seeing that they're given adequate training?" he asked. "We must show that we're not a congress of rubber stamps.

"We might take first some of these men sitting down here in government departments doing nothing, and take those men who are dodging the draft under pretense that they are doing war work. Boys 18 and 19 years old are not old enough to join labor unions but we're saying they're old enough to go to war."

Cites Union Organizers.

Earlier he had charged that 50,000 labor union organizers are exempt from the draft.

"I submit," he asserted, "that we should put a stop to having these loafers around war plants and allowing them to throw their responsibility to our teen age boys."

Declaring that Americans are not fighting to create a new form of government in this country, Rankin took a crack at Wendell Willkie for his arguments before the Supreme court in behalf of a communist that political faith could not operate as a bar to citizenship. Rankin charged that Willkie had "desecrated" the names of Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln by such remarks.

Short Upholds Bill.

Rep. Dewey Short [R., Mo.], a member of the military affairs committee, supported the position taken by the conferees in rejecting the restriction on sending young soldiers abroad.

"It is a terrible thing to draft youths 18 and 19 years of age and send them forth into battle to die," said Short. "But war itself is a terrible thing. It's a hard job for members of congress to vote to do this. But we are engaged in a devastating war and we're not going to defeat the Nazis and Japs with 45 year old potbellies."

Short admitted that during the last war untrained men were sent into battle and "slaughtered." But, he said, Secretary of War Stimson and military chieftains have assured members of congress that the young soldiers will be well equipped and trained before going to battle. Flexibility is needed in the formation of new divisions, sandwiching the younger men in with more experienced soldiers, he contended.

"But, why are we taking 18 year olds when Canada and New Zealand don't take them until they are 19; why must we take kids?" inquired Rep. Robert F. Rich [R., Pa.].

"Because we're smarter than they are," retorted Short.

"Let us do nothing to hamstring our military efforts," he continued, to the accompaniment of loud applause. "Who, in the name of God, is going to tell us what is 'adequate training' unless we leave it to the military leaders themselves?"

Rankin replied that this decision was left to the military leaders in the last war and untrained men were sent against the enemy.

THE SWINGING LAMP OF PISA

and how it helped make Bowman Milk your best food at its best

IN THE great cathedral of Pisa, a hanging lamp swung slowly to and fro. Fascinated, young Galileo began to time the swing of the lamp against the beat of his pulse. No matter how wide the swing, he noticed that it was always completed in the same length of time. Thus, in 1581, Galileo discovered the principle of the pendulum, a tremendous step forward in the development of accurate time-keeping instruments.

Efficient timing is a vital factor in bringing you Bowman Milk that is still bright with farm-fresh flavor and always richer, purer, better-tasting than the high official standards for fine milk.

From selected farms to your door or store, everything is done with the speed and precise timing of an army maneuver. Collecting, shipping, pasteurization, bottling, delivering—yes, even the ten tests applied to all Bowman Milk are performed on time-table schedule. That's one of the reasons why Bowman Milk is always your best food at its best.

PLAN IOWA GRAIN ALCOHOL PLANTS IN RUBBER DRIVE

Farmers and Labor Join in Project.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 10.—Representatives of 75,000 organized farmers and 160,000 trade unionists of this tall corn state met here this afternoon to advance a plan to build five grain alcohol plants in northwest and central Iowa at a cost of 4 million dollars. Their announced aim is to crack a near-monopoly in the government's synthetic rubber program enjoyed by a few large petroleum corporations. They are marching on to Washington, D. C., next week.

"The plants," said A. A. Couch, president of the Iowa State Federation of Labor, "will make alcohol for synthetic rubber and protein feed for cattle and hogs. They will aid the nation's food supply while putting tires on its motor vehicles.

Would Ease Demand for Oil.

"The petroleum monopoly, which now has the bulk of the synthetic rubber program, is exhausting a national resource. A senate committee recently exposed the threat of a serious shortage of petroleum within a few years.

"The Gillette committee in congress exposed the oil interests' monopoly in the rubber program. The committee's findings were verified by the Baruch investigators. And now we want to help Rubber Director William Jeffers bust this combine."

Otto Knudsen, secretary of the Iowa Farm Processing Coöperative, a federation of 300 farm co-ops, said the residue from distillation at the five plants would be fed in its liquid form to cattle and hogs. He quoted testimony by Dr. O. R. Sweeney of Iowa State college that 10 bushels of corn fed to live stock does not produce as much beef and pork as would eight bushels plus the residue from making alcohol from two bushels.

The five plants would have a capacity of 18,750,000 gallons of alcohol a year, enough to produce 18,750 tons of synthetic rubber. They would require 7,500,000 bushels of grain for this output. This is approximately 18 per cent of the corn production in 70 counties that would be served by the plants.

Baruch Group Asks Expansion.

The Baruch committee recommended an expansion of 100 million gallons a year in the nation's capacity to produce alcohol. There have been varying reports on whether this recommendation is going to be killed by the War Production board.

The Baruch committee report recommended that new alcohol plants be located in grain areas accessible to navigable streams so that molasses could be barged to the stills if the use of grain proves uneconomic. This Iowa group is opposed to such sites.

"The WPB plan," said Knudsen, "is for new distilleries to dump their residue as thin slop into the rivers. Established distilleries evaporate it and sell it as stock feed. There's a WPB policy against new evaporators, which would require critical metals.

Valuable as Feed.

"This slop contains valuable proteins. The slop from distillation of a bushel of 70 cent corn is worth 28 cents as feed. We would feed it directly to cattle and hogs. It would take the place of cottonseed and linseed feeds which we now ship from the south.

"From 7,500,000 bushels of grain, we would make 18,750,000 gallons of alcohol and $2,100,000 worth of stock feed a year."

The Iowa group is undecided what if any federal money will be requested for the plant construction. The members said they could raise the 4 million dollars from private funds.

CHICAGO TURNS TO SUBSTITUTES FOR ITS COFFEE

Chicago's wholesale coffee dealers reported yesterday that several coffee substitutes had been in use thruout the city for the last month. The owner of one of the city's largest coffee companies announced that employés of his company had been working many overtime hours each week in an endeavor to meet the demands of restaurant supply men.

Retail grocers indicated that the use of coffee substitutes by housewives was slight, but several revealed plans to introduce the substitute within the next few weeks.

Makers of substitutes reported chicory, garbanzos, and barley to be among the popular ingredients. Many of those questioned said that their products could be used with coffee in a 50-50 proportion. They urged, however, that housewives adhere to two-thirds coffee and one-third substitute.

Man Who Threw His Tires Into River Is Fined $500

Fort Dodge, Ia., Nov. 10 (AP).—Edward J. Elliott, 65 years old, head of a Fort Dodge dry cleaning firm, charged with obstructing the war effort by destroying 12 auto and truck tires, did not contest the charge today before Federal Judge John W. Delehant and was fined $500. Attorneys for Elliott informed the court he had been suffering from a nervous condition in recent years, and said this caused him to throw the tires into the Des Moines river.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

E. R. T. writes: "Why don't you give prospective Yanks some good advice on how and what to do to put their affairs in order before entering the armed forces? After we have been in service for a while, we discover that there are many seemingly unimportant details that ought to have been attended to before we became Yanks, and it is extremely difficult to accomplish these things after we are in service."

ANSWER: The war department this week announced the publication of an informational booklet giving advice to the men in service and their dependents. The booklet is entitled "Personal Affairs of Military Personnel and Their Dependents" and is available from the United States government printing office thru the superintendent of documents, Washington, D. C. The price is 10 cents. From the subtitles it is apparent the booklet will give basic instruction to the Yank on how to put his personal affairs in order.

R. A. J. writes: "I am thinking about enlisting in the navy, and I believe I could fulfill the requirements to qualify for a rating as storekeeper. Do you know if this rating is open now?"

ANSWER: This rating is open at present in 3d and 2d classes. Persons who have worked as a stock clerk, freight clerk, warehouse record clerk, or accountant may be able to qualify. The pay ranges from $78 to $96 a month.

L. E. writes: "I am a licensed cheese maker in Wisconsin, and I have been employed by my present employer for four years. My boss owns about 20 other cheese factories, and they keep drafting his men so that there are only a few good men left. On July 30 I was examined and placed in 4-F. On August 3, I was again placed in 1-A and my boss filed for occupational deferment and hasn't been able to get any satisfaction even from headquarters at Madison. Aren't licensed cheese makers entitled to deferment?"

ANSWER: Draft boards are required by regulations to reclassify for examination at least once every six months every registrant who is classified 4-F. If the conditions which brought the original 4-F remain unmodified, or the physical standards have not been changed in the meantime, the registrant probably will again be deferred. Under the conditions you describe, cheese makers are certainly entitled to deferment because they are producing one of the foods extremely important to civilians and to the war effort. These men have developed a high degree of skill which would make their replacement very difficult.

NOTE: A Chicago bank has notified this department that it is holding a large check payable to Mrs. Robert Pollock, formerly of 3901 North Claremont. The money is from a Yank overseas, and we hope she will communicate with us at once.

NICK PAYS $25, BUT MEETS NEW SWINDLE CHARGE

Nick White, 44 years old, returned to jail yesterday after dismissal of confidence game charges because penny matching victims were out of the city and payment of a $25 disorderly conduct fine. He was rearrested as he left Judge Oscar S. Caplan's South State Street court by Sergt. Edward Egan of the confidence detail for obtaining $50 from Phil Davies, a deputy sheriff at Superior, Wis., June 5 in a penny matching game.

Having paid his fine White had no money left to post bond and returned to jail with his partner, Eugene Lily, 54, who had been unable to pay a $25 fine for disorderly conduct.

The men were seized Oct. 16 and named in seven confidence game complaints. They have long records of convictions on such charges.

Admits Blow with Pipe That Resulted in Death

Tony Meysko, 54 years old, who lives in the 1200 block in Greenwood avenue near Maywood, was held in the Willow Springs police station last night after he admitted to county highway police that he had struck Francis Wisniewski, 50, of 1217 Greenwood avenue, on the head with an iron pipe during a brawl Sunday morning. Wisniewski later was found dead with his skull crushed.

GREEN NAMES SIX TO PUSH STATE RUBBER CLAIMS

Confer with W. M. Jeffers Next Week.

Gov. Green yesterday appointed Dean Charles M. Thompson, state rubber coördinator, to head a delegation of six committee members to confer next week in Washington with William M. Jeffers, federal rubber director, on the wisdom of giving Illinois a substantial portion of the new synthetic rubber industry. The action was taken at a meeting of the state rubber advisory committee in the Union League club.

In addition to Thompson, who is dean of the University of Illinois college of commerce, the delegation includes: Ray Edmundson, Springfield, state president of the United Mine Workers of America; Dr. M. M. Leighton, Urbana, chief of the state geological survey; Anderson Pace, Chicago, consulting engineer; Earl C. Smith, Chicago, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, and R. S. Stimson, Springfield, administrative assistant of the Illinois state bureau of transportation.

Facilities Available.

The state rubber advisory committee was formed by Gov. Green when the recent Baruch report on the nation's rubber problem revealed that synthetic rubber production was lagging because of government failure to take full advantage of all available facilities. The Baruch report recommended increased production of Buna-S rubber, which may be manufactured from either grain alcohol or petroleum, both abundantly available in Illinois.

In a series of charts prepared by Dr. Leighton and a staff of research experts, Illinois is represented as having natural resources in excess of any other state to justify it as the logical site for concentration of the synthetic rubber program.

Leads In Resources.

The charts and graphs which are to be combined into a formal prospectus for presentation to Jeffers when he meets with the committee, show that Illinois leads the country in the combination of grain, oil, coal production, transportation, manufacturing facilities and power needed under the synthetic program.

He pointed out that Illinois is third in the value of manufactured products, second in corn production, third in coal, fourth in petroleum products, second only to Texas in railway mileage and that it produces 6.2 per cent of the nation's electrical power. In addition, he said, the state has an adequate labor and water supply and had a surplus corn area totaling 153,000,000 bushels during 1941.

MAIL CHRISTMAS GIFTS BY DEC. 5— OR FACE DELAYS!

Christmas mail destined for on-time delivery within the continental United States must be in the postoffice not later than Dec. 5 Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen warned again.

Mail and Christmas packages for members of the armed forces stationed in any part of the world will be accepted at any time, but with no guarantee that they will reach their destination before Christmas, he explained.

The public is urged to coöperate with the postoffice more than ever this year because the department in Chicago has lost 1,350 of its veteran employés, Kruetgen said.

He also warned that it is against postal regulations to mail combustible presents such as matches and cigaret lighters containing inflammable fluids. Even the flints should be left out of the lighters, he said, to prevent possible fires aboard transport vessels which carry mail and soldiers to overseas military bases.

War Production and Electric Power in the Chicago Area

In today's lightning warfare, instant communication is vital to fighting units on the land, on the sea and in the air.

Radio factories in Chicago and Northern Illinois that produced home radios during peacetime are now working day and night to fill the needs of our armed forces with vital communication equipment.

Because electric power and light are needed in almost every phase of manufacture, radio factories in this area depend upon a constant flow of current. It is our first responsibility to provide and maintain this supply of electric power to these factories and all plants engaged in war production.

REPUBLICAN LEADERSHIP.

Rep. Joseph Martin Jr. wishes to give up the chairmanship of the Republican national committee because of the pressure of his responsibilities as Republican leader of the house. He has been phenomenally successful as the head of the national committee and it will be difficult to replace him, but there is much to be said for his view that the chairmanship is a position of such importance that it requires the undivided attention of the man who holds it.

The choice of the successor will be made early next month. The people of this country expect that their desires, voiced in the overwhelming Republican victory on Nov. 3 will guide the selection of the new chairman.

There can be little doubt that the foreign-minded camorra in the party, headed by Stimson, Knox, and Willkie, will seek to gain control of the party organization. They will do so despite the fact that the election was a wholesale repudiation of all these men stand for.

Knox and Stimson were eager participants in the manipulations for the third term. Willkie was the stooge candidate who continues to play the rôle of stooge. Only at the last moment, when there could be no doubt of the outcome, did he declare himself for Dewey. He tried to defeat Republican candidates for congress who had been conspicuously loyal to the platform on which he ran and which he promptly repudiated. The voters ignored his advice and in so doing declared their utter lack of confidence in him. They don't like him; they don't like his egregiously rich friends and their family and business connections with the European aristocracy. He has become a heavy liability to the party and no more serious blow to Republican prospects can be imagined than to place the direction of the party in the hands of any one who is put forward by the Willkie camorra. That is the sure way to lose the gains scored this month.

The victory at the polls was achieved despite the efforts of these bipartisan intriguers to render the Republican party a futility. They had plenty of money to spend. Men like Senator Brooks had to overcome the handicap of the huge war appropriations, some of which no doubt came back to the Democrats and the Willkieites from the hands of favored contractors. It has been charged that even the lend-lease funds have found their way into American politics.

Nevertheless, the Republicans won and in their victory the people of this country spoke firmly and distinctly. They don't want Willkie or any other part of the political camorra that put him forward. They do want a Republican leadership whose devotion is to this country and its people, first and always.

THE GROWING NEED FOR REAPPORTIONMENT.

Congressman Dawson of the 1st Illinois district goes to Washington by virtue of the support of 34,641 Democratic voters. Congressman Gorski in the 4th district got 60,333 Democratic votes, Congressman Sabath in the 5th, 29,265, and Congressman Gordon, in the 8th, 33,526.

Thus a total of 157,765 votes was sufficient in the recent election to elect four Democratic congressmen. But there are 175,761 Republican voters in the 7th district who will have no voice in Washington, unless Mr. Moreland succeeds in proving some Kelly-Nash ballot box stuffing on behalf of Congressman Schuetz.

The Democrats, of course, can show that Congressman Kelly in the 3d and Mr. Bairstow in the 10th each polled more than 100,000 and still failed of election. The inequities are not all against the Republicans, but most of them are. Most of the rotten boroughs — as such districts were called in England before the reform acts were passed more than a century ago—are consistently Democratic. That party thrives on civic decay in more senses than one.

The failure to reapportion Illinois congressional districts since they were last set up on the basis of the 1900 census has given downstate Illinois a slight advantage over Cook county, but the disparity between the two sections of the state is nothing as compared with that between the different Chicago districts.

The 7th district on the northwest side is the largest in the nation in population, containing more than 1,000,000 persons. The 5th, which bears the responsibility for Congressman Sabath, contains only 103,000. Since a fairly apportioned district, on the basis of the 1940 census, should have a population of some 303,000 persons, THE TRIBUNE has been guilty of distortion in referring to Sabath as half a congressman. He is really only a third of a congressman. We apologize to our readers.

The last session of the legislature was given a fairly good draft of a congressional reapportionment bill, altho it was not improved in committee. Reapportionment measures never are, the purpose of the committee changes being to temper equity with enough practical political advantage to put the bill over. The bill eventually failed by a narrow margin, the core of the opposition being the Kelly-Nash Democrats, who naturally did not want to give up their rotten boroughs.

In the coming legislative session the Republicans will have a slightly larger and considerably more trustworthy majority in both houses, since they need no longer depend upon the bipartisan members of their own party. It is not too early for interested members to begin drafting a new reapportionment bill. It becomes a duty of the Republican majority to sponsor and pass it, to rid the state of the blight on its representation in congress that comes from the rotten boroughs.

CANDIDATES FOR K. P.

The armed forces of the United States are enjoying what is called a good press these days; but it is due to the deeds of the marines on Guadalcanal and the soldiers and flyers in North Africa, not the words of the press agents in uniform.

These upstarts must be as embarrassing to the fighting men as they are annoying to civilians. Their ranks are so filled with draft dodgers and skulkers in uniform that those who took such jobs in the sincere belief that they would be serving their country must now blush with shame at the appellation of public relations officer.

It would represent a great saving in man power, and no loss of information to the public, if all of them were packed off to the Solomons or Morocco. It would be too much to expect the press agents to fight, but they could do kitchen police and relieve better men for combat service.

GEN. GIRAUD'S ROLE.

One of the greatest victories of our African campaign thus far, matching in importance the capture of cities and airports, has been the arrival of Gen. Henri Giraud in the American camp. The importance of that accession cannot be exaggerated, for Gen. Giraud is the potential leader of the French resurgence against the Nazi conqueror and the Vichy betrayer.

Gen. Giraud is a great French hero. He made a daring escape from the castle prison on the Rhine in which he and other high French officers were held by the Germans. So great was the enthusiasm aroused in France by this feat, which duplicated his escape in the last war, that the Vichy authorities did not dare turn him back to the Germans. And, being an escaped prisoner, the general is not bound by any of the articles of the capitulation that was forced on the French government.

Lieut. Gen. Eisenhower's announcement of Gen. Giraud's arrival welcomed him as "an ally in the common cause." From this it can be presumed that Gen. Giraud will proceed immediately to reorganize the French forces in North Africa, leading them in a wholesouled coöperation with the forces that are pledged to rid the soil of France of her enemies.

No better leader could be found for this cause, not even a Gen. de Gaulle. Gen. Giraud is not only a great hero to his people, he is one of the highest ranking officers of the French army. This is of no small importance to a people as devoted to official rank as the French.

Gen. de Gaulle entered the present war as only a colonel. It is difficult for him to command his old seniors, a handicap that Gen. Giraud does not have. Also De Gaulle, while a soldier of the greatest technical accomplishments, lacks the dash of the great commander, a deficiency that has been blamed for the failure of the Free French cause to gain even more recruits than it has. Giraud possesses this magnetism that De Gaulle lacks, a quality of leadership that De Gaulle recognized when he stated that he would be willing to serve under Gen. Giraud.

North Africa, until now under the control of the Vichy government, is a reservoir of some of the finest units of the French army—the foreign legion, the colonial infantry, and the superb native regiments of Algeria and Morocco. It may be expected that within a very short time these units will be organized by Gen. Giraud and equipped by the United States and Great Britain as an effective striking force against the enemies of France.

This, of course, is only a partial measure of the general's value to the cause. His greatest usefulness to us and to his own country is that the people of France, occupied and unoccupied, can now turn to him in hope as two years ago they turned in despair to Petain.

MORE 10 PER CENTERS.

By buying more than 60 million dollars' worth of war bonds during October, Illinois exceeded its treasury quota for the second month in succession and the third month since the state quota system was inaugurated last May. Our quota for October was 57½ million dollars and we exceeded it by 4.6 per cent. For the current month the treasury department is basing our quota on the increased sales attained last month. It is asking us to buy 60 million dollars' worth of bonds thru Nov. 30.

We can do that easier if we accept another suggestion of the department. Beginning next Monday the treasury is starting a six weeks' pay roll savings campaign to increase participation in the purchase of bonds thru regular subscription out of salary. At present 21 million persons buying bonds on the pay roll plan thruout the country are subscribing an average of 8 per cent of gross pay roll. The treasury hopes to bring the number to 30 million by New Year's day and to raise participation to 10 per cent of pay roll.

In the first 10 months of this year Illinois residents have bought $568,386,000 worth of war bonds. In October 2,100,000 Illinois workers were investing 8 per cent of their income in bonds thru pay roll deductions. They are credited with buying more than 44 million dollars of the 60 million dollars' worth of bonds sold during the month. By increasing their participation on an average of 2 per cent by the end of the year, workers already making pay roll subscriptions can bring their monthly purchases to 55 million dollars. If, as the treasury hopes, thousands of new workers will join them in setting aside 10 per cent of their regular earnings for bonds, Illinois can outdo itself in contributing to war financing.

The cheering news from overseas should serve to stimulate enthusiasm. The people are getting the first evidences that their dollars are beginning to fight. Bond buyers can feel that every time they buy another bond they are adding to the safety of the fighting men, helping to shorten the war, and doing their part to keep our country on an even keel now and in the future.

CENSUS FOR 150,000,000 TIRES.

[New York News.]

William M. Jeffers, our rubber czar [or would it be more courteous to call him our rubber commissar?], says the nation's drivers of 27,000,000 noncommercial cars are doing a good job of voluntary curtailment of use of their cars, tho they might well speed up the selling or giving to the government of all tires over five per car.

Why, then, the plan to compel all car owners to register their tires and submit them to inspection every 60 days in the case of holders of B or higher gasoline cards and every four months in the case of A card holders?

Adding 27,000,000 noncommercial cars to 5,000,000 commercials, you get a total of 32,000,000 cars in the United States. By lightning calculation you can figure that there are about 150,000,000 tires on these cars.

To inspect these tires every two months, we figure, will require about 100,000 persons; and think of the paper work involved. This will injure the war effort to that considerable extent. The number of hours all these motorists will spend waiting in line to have their tires inspected will take out another large chunk of time that ought to be going into some kind of productive endeavor, and will rasp a lot of tempers that ought to be kept sweet and serene for the sake of the national morale.

The tire inspection scheme, in short, is a case of burocracy gone wild. It is also a scheme which can be expected at first to creak, then to sag, and then to break down entirely. Rubber conservation is essential; but equally essential is some better plan than this for accomplishing rubber conservation.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

ALL ABOARD FOR ALGIERS.

It's time to revive a song that was prevalent on the first Armistice day and make it, "How we gonna keep 'em down on the farm after they've seen Algiers."

After the imprint of French civilization upon the Algerian hinterland had become firm, the country became a tourist objective. The government encouraged trippers, many of them English and American, with highways that made motoring fairly easy, excellent hotels and rest houses. The pilgrims returned to their native lands full of admiration for the landscape, the cuisine, and the dancing girls of the Ouled Nail.

The first popularization of Algeria as an exotic scene in this country was accomplished by Robert Hichens, the veteran English novelist who is still active. His romantic tale, "The Garden of Allah" [1905], was so widely read that a play had to be made of it. As drama it was fairly thin stuff, but when dressed up with snake charmers, nautch dancers, camels, and sandstorms it became a spectacle that drew large and admiring audiences into the Auditorium and other cavernous halls. The production earned plenty of money for George C. Tyler, its manager, who was himself an enthusiastic Algerian tripper.

"The Garden of Allah" was followed by Victor Herbert's light opera, "Algeria," staged in 1908 in the extinct Chicago Opera house and elsewhere. It had less luck than Mr. Herbert was accustomed to; in fact, it lost money. But its score was among his best. If you have never heard the number, "Twilight in Barakeesh," from "Algeria," you have missed something.

Algerian-born authors have contributed some fine regional writing to modern French literature. Among the high-rankers is Louis Bertrand, with several important novels. The Tharaud brothers, Jerome and Jean, have also provided lively reading for fanciers of local color in Morocco.

ARMISTICE TO COME.

So shall it be again; the midnight word
That swept from home to home, and as it flew
Set our dark lamps alight, when each heart heard
Our prayer for victory was richly true.
That morn held revelry and gay relief
That mounted with the sun, as more and more
We realized there was an end of grief
And peace should all our broken dreams restore.
Lord, in the morn to come, as come it will,
May peace be welcomed humbly, not in pride;
Grant that our victory may so fulfill
Thy will that peace may evermore abide;
And may our thankfulness be known on high
In gratitude as quiet as a sigh.

"To Love and Cherish."

Now that he is off to the war, and every memorable hour spent with him has slipped into the past for all eternity, I see those hours, in fact, all the years, with a clarity like seeing bright green fields thru freshly polished windows.

He was a bright-eyed lad of 11 when I, a pigtailed lass of 10, first saw him. The Calumet river was his Mississippi. The forest preserve was his Sherwood forest. Wolf lake was a vast, mysterious body of water surrounded by marshlands, where strange birds and animals had their hiding places. Lake Michigan was the epitome of all the oceans, and the ships that entered the port of South Chicago sailed around the world! He was his mother's then, to love and to cherish.

When he was 18, at a Halloween party, I brazenly kissed him on the left cheek and told him he was my beau. He was always bashful, so he liked that. Then followed the long years of college and medical school, and because he was made of stern stuff he came thru with flying colors and graduated with honors. The day it was over I married him and he was mine, to love and to cherish.

The early years were the hard years, but his selfless devotion to his fellow men was rewarded with their confidence and faith. Now, after 10 years, his stethoscope lies idle beside a pile of instruments. His white coats are neatly laid away. His familiar step no longer echoes in the hall. Uncle Sam, please! He is yours, to love and to cherish.

PALE ROSES ON A DOOR.

Six pallid roses on a door,
A sprig of palm beside,
Proclaim that one has entered in
Where I had been denied;

And all the lonely vigils kept
Outside that oaken door
Were futile as the tears I wept—
I need go there no more.

I need go there no more, for one
Has found his way inside
And clasped with eager arms my love,
And taken her for bride.

Now I shall walk in other paths
Than I have kept before,
And strive, all vainly, to forget
Pale roses on a door.

I get a bang out of rummaging thru the dictionary. Take for instance the common phrase, "round robin." Lo and behold, I find it stems from two French words, "rond," meaning round, and "ruban," meaning "ribbon," and originated as "a written petition or protest, the signatures to which are made in a circle so as not to indicate who signed first." Not so dumb, eh?

A GOOD START FOR THE BABY.

In the infant's diet, there is no man made formula or mixture which will quite take the place of mother's milk. When weaning becomes a matter of convenience the babe is unjustly sentenced to the bottle. There is very little excuse for this decree, unless the mother is suffering from some debilitating ailment. An attempt should be made to provide nature's fluid.

A common error lies in the assumption that colic means too much food. Every physician has heard the remark, "My milk doesn't agree with the baby. He has so much colic." This symptom, 99 times out of 100, signifies insufficient nourishment. When it presents itself, we may look first of all to supplementing the output of the mammary glands with two or more extra feedings.

As a "producer," every mother should be at ease, with no worries and as few responsibilities as possible. As every dairyman knows, allow stray dogs to bother a herd of Jerseys and they will give quarts instead of gallons. Modern society does not expect the woman of today to emulate her Sioux Indian sister, who followed the trail a few hours after her confinement. Neither is there sound sense in the boasting of Uncle Eb's mother who, on the third day after he was born, got up and did the family washing.

Well fed infants curl up and sleep. They imitate puppies. When a tired, exhausted mother attempts in vain to nurse her offspring, he will add to her distress by screaming, kicking, gnawing at his fist—trying to tell every one that he is hungry. Hot water will do for a while but the effect wears off quickly and he is just as vociferous as ever.

If the mother cannot be kept in good spirits, with enough rest and nutrition, we may as well forget the idea that breast feeding is essential. It is bound to fail and the sooner a suitable substitute can be adopted, the better.

There is no one best mixture. But we will need to guard against sensitivity to certain ingredients and to be particularly cautious about infection. Scrupulous care is necessary to avoid diarrhea, which can confront the little one with a dangerous illness. On the first sign that the youngster is losing appetite and hence weight, with beginning bowel looseness, the family physician should be called.

It goes without saying that the preparation of artificial food involves strict cleanliness. This includes the boiling of bottles and nipples, careful filling of each container, and proper refrigeration followed by rewarming.

Fortunately there are excellent [altho not perfect] substances which may replace human lacteal fluid. Many a stalwart citizen has been reared under this régime. We must not forget, however, that a generation ago the bottle-fed tot was confronted with a struggle for survival. Altho the babe's hold on life is far better today, it will be increased still further if even a portion of the diet can come from his mother.

COFFEE MANIA.

Mrs. L. P. writes: I drink about 10 cups of coffee a day. I was told that too much will cause a person to lose his mind. I am worried.

REPLY.

You are safe because you can't get the makin's. Caffeine, which is the stimulating element in coffee, is a delectable whip—not a food. It should not be applied incessantly. Flogging the nervous system is undesirable.

SPLIT PERSONALITY.

A. B. writes: What does the word "schizoid" mean?

REPLY.

It is used to describe persons who are unsocial, introspective, and who belong to the shut-in group. When the condition is marked, it results in dementia precox. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on schizophrenia.

BLOOD TEST.

A. R. writes: Can tuberculosis be detected by a Wassermann?

GOVERNMENT TIME WASTERS.

Fort Atkinson, Wis., Nov. 4.—Last Saturday you had an editorial entitled "How Not to Win the War," about the army wasting energy getting up a descriptive book on the army war show. There is a plan now in operation that I think is still worse in that it involves more futile work. This is a report to be made by all the schools in the country on their war work. Each school in this city has received a blank book weighing about one-fourth of a pound. This book is sponsored by the war savings staff of the treasury department, the office of education, and its wartime commission.

In this book the principals and teachers are supposed to give a record of all war work done by the school — stamp and bond sales, plays, writings, etc. Think of the time spent in compiling this information and putting it in the book—time that would better be spent in making better citizens of our scholars. These books, I understand, are to be sent to Washington. What will be done with them there? Will a regiment of clerks be hired to go thru these books from thousands of schools and compile statistics? And after compiling them, who will read them, and what good will it do, anyway?

Perhaps the powers that be figure it will raise the morale of the schools, but from what I have seen and heard it disgusts those who have to fill them out. They feel they are wasting time.

BINGO.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—I am one of many family men who think our state's attorney should wake up to a form of gambling that really is a home wrecker. That is this so-called bingo.

The men go out working hard for their money and the women folks are enticed into this game for a big prize. They don't figure the number of dollars they spend trying to get these prizes.

There are several of these games run that I know of—at 55th street and Wentworth avenue on Monday night; at 43d street and Princeton avenue on Thursday night; at 59th street and Princeton avenue on Friday night, and another at 64th street and Cottage Grove avenue on Friday night.

These games are just as bad as gambling on horse races.

SEN. NORRIS FAILS TO COMPREHEND.

Benton, Ill., Nov. 5.—It is somewhat pitiful to hear what Sen. Norris has to say about his defeat at last Tuesday's election. He cannot see where he is to blame. He doesn't seem to realize that after the Republican party had honored him by numerous elections to public office, he joined the New Deal party and repudiated the party that had so honored him in the past. The voters of his state and nation are washed up with the New Dealers and Sen. Norris, as one of them, had to go down to defeat. It is too bad that the poor old fellow cannot see it.

S. M. Ward.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S COMMUNAL NURSERIES.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 5.—Recently I read a newspaper interview with Mrs. Roosevelt which said: "In every factory she visited, Mrs. Roosevelt said, she was asked by managers how more women could be obtained. She told them that women must be freed of household worries by the organization of community centers to care for the children so the mothers can give their time to defense factories."

It's bad enough to have to give up our husbands, let alone separating us from our children to win this war. The home is the most vital part of the nation as it is instituted by God, and to break up the home to win the war is the first step toward our downfall.

Once this home relationship is broken for the duration, the same order can never be reëstablished after the war. I'm a mother who believes God has intrusted my child to my care to bring her up in the fear and admonition of the Lord, and I'm certain that she will not receive Bible training and spiritual nurture at the community centers.

I'm proud to be an American and believe in retaining our freedom. But, I ask, can we retain our freedom if our homes are broken up and we're forced to separate from our children?

A Chicago Mother.

THE NEGRO MOTHER.

Chicago, Nov. 7. — My family and friends were pleased to see the picture of a proud Negro mother sending her sons off to war. To me it had a deeper meaning than the clothes she wore. I saw love, honor, and pride in her face, and a lot of modern mothers could use a little more of those. Since one of your readers seems to resent the dress this brave woman wore, let me say there are many others like me who cherish the memory of mothers and grandmothers who wore long skirts and bandannas. The average modern mother would do well to acquire some of their traits. I might add that if modern mothers saw the same costume in a style show they'd rush to wear it and feel proud. Thanks for the picture.

TRIBUNE CARTOONS HELP BEAT JOSH LEE.

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 5.—I am returning, under separate cover, the four mats of Tribune color cartoons you so kindly forwarded for use by us in getting out a special paper in our campaign to beat Josh Lee for the United States senate.

We succeeded in a big way. With approximately 200 precincts yet unreported, Mr. E. H. Moore of this city now leads Josh Lee by more than 37,000 votes out of a total of about 370,000 cast. In view of the fact that the issue here was confined to the New Deal-anti-New Deal fight, and in view of the further fact that Josh Lee's imbecile effort to bring in the prohibition issue was completely ignored, the election here in Oklahoma affords the truest test of the New Deal-anti-New Deal sentiment of any place in the Union.

Josh Lee overwhelmingly carried every county in the state in the July primary, but carried less than one-half of the counties [those in the southern part of the state] in the general election, and actually received fewer votes than he received in the July primary. No more complete repudiation of the New Deal could be desired or expected.

We feel that in furnishing the mats you made a substantial contribution to our fight, because the mats not only added color to but made our special paper much more effective, and we desire to thank you sincerely for your coöperation and assistance.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

WINTER'S SPORTS SOON WILL TAKE CENTER OF STAGE

Sun Valley Gets Ready for Influx of Skiiers.

BY DOROTHY JOHNSON.

While the ranks of men skiiers necessarily will be thinner this season than last, except for those in ski troop training, life on the runners will go on for feminine civilians who like the sport. East, north, west, and northwest there are ski and other winter sports centers, wherever snow falls abundantly enough to cover slopes and terrains.

One of the most remarkable ski spots is the Sun Valley resort, near Ketchum, Idaho, a spacious and modern hotel, comfortably equipped with lounge rooms and attractive living quarters. Primarily a ski center, with slopes and runs providing opportunities for those in all degrees of skill, Sun Valley in addition has outdoor warm water swimming and sun bathing.

Ski or Swim, or Both.

Sheltered by the Sawtooth range of the Rockies, the valley offers a startling climatic contrast to the snow capped peaks and pristine slopes. The mountain atmosphere makes it possible for one to get a coat of tan while skiing, stripped to the waist, and also to sunbathe in three sided igloos out on the snow. The warm water swimming? It's done in a glass enclosed outdoor pool.

The Sun Valley snowfall begins to accumulate in November, and by December the mountains are a single white expanse, broken only occasionally by spruce and fir. Because of the crisp dryness of the atmosphere the snow is light and fluffy, and with its foundations and the lack of wind it becomes an unparalleled ski surface.

There's a Practice Hill.

To the south of the lodge is a practice, or "nursery," hill, for those donning skis for the first time. A ski chair lift, in which the skier can be hauled to the top at the rate of 400 feet a minute, also is found on this hill.

For expert skiiers, Proctor mountain, elevation 2,500 feet above the valley floor, lies to the east of the lodge and provides what is said to be the greatest variety of runs in America. Here the sportsman will find a ski tow, or dragline, which will pull him 3,000 feet up a narrow valley to the base of the main ski chair lift.

Tobogganing, ckating, and dog sledge rides are other activities offered to Sun Valley visitors. The resort is in the south central part of Idaho, between Pocatello and Boise.

IMPORTANT USE FOR ALCAN ROAD SEEN AFTER WAR

The new Alcan military highway, traversing Alberta, British Columbia and the Yukon into Fairbanks and beyond, as a thorofare to Asia, will have a postwar function of tremendous importance, it is reported in the American Express Travel service's series on American highways and rivers of history.

"The new highway will give easy access to Mount McKinley National park, and open a vast wilderness for recreation and scenic development," Douglas Malcom, of the service, recently stated.

United States army trucks will roll 1,600 miles over the frozen road between Canada and Alaska by Jan. 1, survey authorities believe.

Missouri Governor Hit on Hospital Situation.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 10 (AP).—State hospital heads admitted under questioning by the state house appropriations committee today that thousands of insane patients have been forced to go hungry because of lack of money to buy them food.

Gov. Forrest C. Donnell and his assistant budget director, Margaret Cobb, were criticized in what Rep. W. B. Weakley [D., Pike county], committee chairman, termed attempts "to fix the responsibility for this outrage."

"Here these helpless people have had to do without food that they need while the money to buy it lay in the state treasury," Weakley said.

Raps Delay on Action.

"Yet the governor waits until the last minute to call us down here to act in a hurry to correct a situation that has gone on for months."

The hospital superintendents testified under insistent questioning by Weakley and other committee members that last spring they told Donnell their funds would not last out the year.

"He told us then we would have to make the money last because we could not incur a deficit," said Ira Jones, president of the Eleemosynary board, which administers hospitals housing 10,000 insane and tubercular patients under state care.

"It was not until September—after our figures showed half our patients losing weight—that we were given any encouragement that we would receive financial relief."

Calls Special Session.

Donnell issued a special session call Oct. 26, summoning the legislators to meet Nov. 4.

After the committee hearing the house reconvened and quickly perfected a bill providing $161,000 for state hospitals at Fulton, Nevada, Farmington, and Mount Vernon. Weakley said he would call it up for passage as soon as possible—perhaps tomorrow.

Earlier the house passed and sent to the state senate another bill providing $85,000 for the St. Joseph hospital—whose funds are nearest exhausted of all the institutions.

The senate refused to suspend its rules to speed passage, delaying the measure's reference to committee until tomorrow.

BUS HEAD SAYS O'CONNELL TRIED TO CASH BONDS

James H. Roche, president of the Coach Corporation of Freeport, testified yesterday before Judge Donald S. McKinlay and a Criminal court jury that Lawrence J. O'Connell, while chief supervisor of securities for the Illinois Industrial commission, tried to get him to convert into cash his company's indemnity deposits with the commission.

O'Connell is on trial on a charge of embezzling $5,000 of the company's funds. The funds had been placed with the commission as a guarantee of employé disability compensation. It is alleged that O'Connell used the company's deposits as collateral for personal loans which have not been repaid.

Roche testified that O'Connell visited him in February and March, 1941, and asked that the company's $3,000 in bonds and $2,000 cashier's check, which were non-negotiable, be converted into cash. Roche refused. Later, he said, O'Connell sent him the bonds and check, after which he, Roche, deposited $5,000 in negotiable treasury bonds with the commission. It is these bonds O'Connell allegedly used to make the loans.

JAIL CELL FAILS TO HALT PARKER FREEDOM FIGHT

Altho Frankie Parker, dry era bootleg millionaire, is a prisoner in the county jail, he hasn't yet given up his fight against serving a year's term.

In a surprise maneuver, his lawyer, William Scott Stewart, yesterday filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus before the Illinois Supreme court in Springfield.

Parker surrendered at the jail Monday to serve a term of one year imposed in May, 1939, for conspiracy to forge travelers' checks of the American Express company. Up to then he had carried his case to the Appellate and Supreme courts and to the governor, and had lost all the way. It was indicated, by his surrender, he had given up the fight.

The habeas corpus petition asserts that Parker was imprisoned in a federal prison after his conviction in the state court, and that he accordingly served concurrently the year sentence imposed in those courts while serving a federal sentence of 19 months.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by John R. Keating, 8027 Morgan street.]

THE QUESTION.

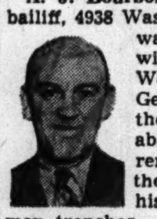
What are your remembrances of Nov. 11, 1918?

WHERE ASKED.

County building.

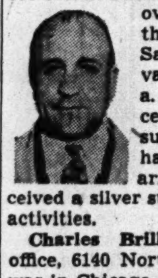
THE ANSWERS.

Victor Frohlich, lawyer, 1900 West Garfield boulevard—I was traveling between Chicago and the east and had no one to celebrate with. However, I remember seeing every one dancing in the streets and kissing each other. There was great hilarity.



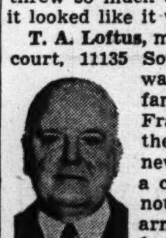
A. J. Bourbonnais, assistant chief bailiff, 4938 Washington boulevard—I was in Metz, France, with the 132d infantry. We all went over to the German lines to talk to them when we learned about the armistice. I remember that one of the American boys found his father in the German trenches.

James Coleman, deputy sheriff, 1429 North Clark street—As long as I live I shall never forget the armistice parade in Chicago. I remember seeing an old fashioned hearse drawn by four black horses come down the street. On top was a coffin labeled, "Here lies the body of the Kaiser."



David Scaro, clerk, Circuit court, 553 North Parkside avenue—We went over the top at 4 a. m. that morning in the Saint Mihiel sector, advancing on Metz. At 9 a. m. we got orders to cease firing. We weren't surprised because we had been expecting the armistice. I recently received a silver star for my World war activities.

Charles Brill, clerk in sheriff's office, 6140 North Rockwell street—I was in Chicago on leave when the armistice was signed. We went downtown to celebrate, but within 15 minutes after the whistles started blowing you couldn't get to the loop. People threw so much confetti it looked like it was snowing.



T. A. Loftus, minute clerk, Superior court, 11135 South Park avenue—I was with the 340th infantry in Reclosé, France, on the way to the front when the news came. We had had a celebration after announcement of the false armistice a few days before, but joy reigned supreme on the 11th.

SEIZE 7 IN 'CAN OPENER' GANG BURGLARY QUIZ

A beer can opener was the burglar tool used by a youthful gang to loot more than a score of automobiles and homes in Chicago, Policemen John Minehan and John Lennon of the North avenue station yesterday reported in the arrest of seven youths.

Search for Edward Sobieski, 21 years old, 939 North Fairfield avenue, listed as an army deserter from Jefferson Barracks, Mo., since July, at the home of Curtis Walls, 18, at 1647 Huron street, resulted in the arrest of Sobieski and Walls. They implicated Marvin Kessler, 17, of 1233 North Hoyne avenue; Edwin Lawinski, 18, of 2036 Haddon avenue; Florian Rlawinski, 17, of 2107 Evergreen avenue; Edward Novak, 17, of 2634 Iowa street, and Michael Turus, 18, of 823 North Damen avenue.

Polices said loot from 12 autos and two homes ranged from purses to vacuum cleaners.

First Six Person Jury Finds for Damage Suit Defendant

The first six person jury in Superior court deliberated only five minutes yesterday before returning a verdict for the defendant in the $10,000 damage suit of Miss Josephine Bieniek, 26 years old, 13518 Burley avenue, against Owen C. Taylor of 13301 Brandon avenue. Miss Bieniek charged that Taylor's automobile struck her Aug. 23, 1940, in Brainard avenue at 136th street. Attorneys had agreed to the six person jury Monday because of the war-induced shortage of available jurors.

Thieves Get Truck—and 960 Pounds of Coffee

Thieves who stole the truck of Chester Cl ewski, 2617 Armitage avenue, while he was making a delivery at 135 Marion street, Oak Park, yesterday, got a precious load of loot—960 pound cans of coffee—he told Oak Park police.

SEARCH 3 HOUSES FOR TOUHY; FIRE 6 PRISON GUARDS

Find No Trace of Escaped Gang in Villa Park.

Seventy-five policemen carrying 10 machine guns searched three untenanted houses near Villa Park at dawn yesterday morning seeking Roger Touhy and six other convicts who escaped from the Stateville prison on Oct. 9. Capt. Daniel Gilbert of State's Attorney Courtney's staff and Acting Chief Harry Yde of the Illinois state police were in command and T. P. Sullivan, state director of public safety, was with them.

There was no indication that any of the convicts had been there. The houses searched were only a short distance from the spot where the escaping convicts abandoned the automobile of Guard Herman A. Kross, which they had seized at the prison wall.

Prison Guards Discharged.

Kross, who lives at Lockport, and two other guards were discharged yesterday by Warden Joseph E. Ragen, who was put in charge of the prison after the escape of the seven. The others dismissed are Roy C. Everton of Plainfield and Joseph L. Montonye of Lovington. Kross was a resident of Lockport.

Warden Ragen said it was obvious the three guards had failed to do their duty. The convicts used Kross' keys and his automobile in getting away.

Three Others Also Fired.

Warden Ragen also fired three other guards yesterday, but did not announce their names. They were held to have been guilty of negligence in failing to detect the sawing of bars in Cellhouse E, from which three convicts planned an escape last Sunday night.

The escape was prevented by the discovery that the steel bars had been removed and wooden imitation bars put in their place. A tuning fork produced only a thud and not a ring when it was used on the substitute bars, thus revealing the substitution.

ANTI-FREEZE STOLEN.

Burglars took $330 worth of merchandise, including 2,300 packages of cigarets and several cans of anti-freeze and motor oil, from the Champion Oil company, 4513 South Western boulevard, Vincent Foley, manager, reported to police yesterday.

SEEKS TO REPAIR TWO HOMES OF DIVORCED WIFE

Horace L. Brand, wealthy coin collector and former publisher of a German language newspaper, petitioned Judge Oscar F. Nelson in Superior court yesterday for permission to enter and repair two homes given to his second wife, Erna, as part of a divorce property settlement. Judge Nelson ordered attorneys for Mrs. Brand to answer the petition and set hearing for Nov. 19.

One of the homes, at 31-37 Cedar street, is so in need of repair, Brand's petition said, that the city building department has instituted court proceedings, chiefly because Mrs. Brand refuses to allow workmen to enter. Mrs. Brand has possession of the entire house except two rooms, open exclusively to Brand, which house his coin collection. The second buliding, a six flat structure at 43-45 Cedar street, has been vacated by its tenants except Mrs. Brand, so there is no income with which to pay taxes, the petition said.

Brand's petition asks for permission to enter the buildings and make repairs and for appointment of a receiver to take over the six flat building for renting purposes.

'Perfect Crime' Killer Gets Life Term in Wife's Death

Ionia, Mich., Nov. 10 [Special].—Ernest Russell, 35 years old, Ionia defense plant inspector, today was sentenced to a life term in Jackson prison following his plea of guilty in the killing of his wife, whose death he had planned as a "perfect crime." Circuit Judge Morris K. Davis passed sentence, urging that it be served at hard labor and in solitary confinement. Russell earlier had confessed the killing of his wife, Margaret, 32.

UNION 'PERMIT' RACKETEER GETS FINE OF $3,000

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 9 (AP).—Henry Vitalius, 61 years old, Albany, pleaded guilty in federal court today to charges of inducing nonunion employés of a government project at Voorheesville to pay $2 per day for the privilege of working, under a "permit card" system estimated to have netted $2,300.

Judge Frederick H. Bryant fined Vitalius, assistant business agent of local 83, International Union of Sheet Metal Workers [AFL], $3,000.

Last month, four Albany members of a local of the International Union of Operating Engineers [AFL], pleaded guilty to similar charges involving hiring of labor at the project and were fined $10,000 each.

what will your new car be like?

"Car of the Future" from MECHANIX ILLUSTRATED Magazine, by Martial & Scull, N. Y.

GREAT CHANGES in automobiles are certain after the war. What will they be?

Will your post-war car be teardrop in shape?... Will it have sealed plastic windows to preserve air-conditioned interior temperature?... Have "shiftless" transmission?... Longer-lasting synthetic rubber tires?... A smaller engine using higher octane gasoline to deliver greatly increased horsepower per pound of weight?

The answer to the first of these questions is still uncertain. But to the two final queries, synthetic tires and engine power, Phillips Petroleum Company can suggest affirmative replies.

Phillips is prepared for the coming great improvements in personal transportation, because long before Pearl Harbor, Phillips scientists in the superbly equipped Phillips Laboratories Building were engaged in never-ending study, research, experiment, exploring the limitless possibilities of petroleum chemistry.

Slowly but surely, there emerged new processes, new products, new benefits. Even before the war, much of this purposeful knowledge was channeled into the national defense effort. Now, all of it has been "enlisted" for the duration.

Phillips vast resources of raw materials and Phillips knowledge have made the company one of the largest suppliers of 100 octane aviation gasoline to the Army Air Corps, the Navy, and the United Nations' air forces; have made the company an important participant in the U. S. synthetic rubber program.

As a user of Phillips 66 Poly Gas and Phillips 66 Motor Oil, you surely share with us the pride that comes of knowing that Phillips is doing its part in the Nation's victory effort.

EVER SIP A $2,000,000 OLD FASHIONED?

● Here's the recipe below! We call it a $2,000,000 "dream of a drink"—because that's what Fleischmann invested in grains, skill and research before we released one golden bottle of this rich, luxurious, straight bourbon whiskey. We make it in limited amounts. We have to—it's so delicious!

FIRST, GET FLEISCHMANN'S BOND THEN DO THIS!

Place ½ level teaspoon of granulated sugar in Old Fashioned glass! Add 2 or 3 dashes of Angostura bitters, and just enough water to dissolve the sugar!

CURIOUS THRONG FUNERAL RITES OF SLAIN WOMAN

Puckett Held in Indiana as Wife Is Buried.

Mrs. Ella Mae Puckett, 67 years old, who was mysteriously shot and killed near Lafayette, Ind., Friday, was buried here by her neighbors yesterday.

The funeral chapel at 1008 East 79th street, where the services were held in the afternoon, was crowded to the doors with chattering women, a smattering of neighbors and friends and many curiosity seekers. The service was delayed more than an hour awaiting the tardy appearance of Mrs. Lyle Fisher of Lafayette, Ind., Mrs. Puckett's sister-in-law, and Mrs. Alice Fisher, her recently acquired niece by marriage.

Husband Held in Indiana.

William R. Puckett, 63 years old, who drove into Lafayette Friday with the body of his wife and contended that she had been shot by a hitchhiker while resisting a holdup, was not present at the funeral. He was being detained by Indiana authorities, awaiting a grand jury investigation set for Thursday by Judge W. L. Parkinson of the Circuit court of Tippecanoe county.

The investigation was requested by Charles B. Kemmer, prosecuting attorney, prior to proceedings in the Justice court, where Puckett is to have a preliminary hearing on a charge of murder next Monday.

A wreath of autumn flowers on the coffin bore a card which read simply "William R. Puckett." A huge wreath of gladioli and chrysanthemums, eight feet tall and five feet wide, was from "Her Neighbors."

Friends Arrange Funeral.

The funeral services, at which the Rev. Charles Williams of St. George's Episcopal church officiated, had been arranged by Mrs. Puckett's next door neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Crook, 7844 Kenwood avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dowd, 7838 Kenwood avenue.

Apparently grief stricken, Mrs. Anna Peterson, 3933 North Park avenue, to whom it is rumored Mrs. Puckett left all her personal property, wept thruout the service. Few cars followed the funeral to Oak Woods cemetery.

CHIEF OF WESLEY HOSPITAL STAFF HEADS ARMY UNIT

Dr. Gilbert H. Marquardt, chief medical officer of the Wesley Memorial hospital, will leave Saturday to head a new army hospital group assigned to the air force. The group, which will include 11 other Chicago physicians and surgeons, will take a six weeks' training course in Miami Beach, Fla., and then will be assigned to an air force base. Dr. Marquardt will be commissioned a major. He is a trustee of Wesley hospital and a director of the American Heart association. His home is at 2231 East 67th street.

NORTH AFRICA DRIVE PROMPTS APPEAL FOR MORE BLOOD DONORS

Opening of the American drive in North Africa creates an even greater need for blood donors and surgical dressing workers, James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, said yesterday. Chicago must supply at least 3,500 blood donors a week and four million surgical dressings a month at the present time and quotas may be increased next year, he said.

2 BANDITS GIVEN 20 YEARS + YEAR TO LIFE TERMS

Two young bandits were sentenced to prison for a flat term of 20 years under the habitual criminal act yesterday, escaping a life sentence because of a previous agreement with the state.

The quick change from a life term to the lesser sentence came in an uproarious hearing before Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro of the Criminal court. For added punishment, however, the court tacked 1 year to life sentences upon the men. At the same time he handed out stiff sentences to two of their accomplices.

Those receiving the flat 20 year and 1 year to life sentences were Samuel Mascio, 22 years old, and Peter Ficcarrotto, 20, members of a gang which had preyed on savings and loan companies. Mascio pleaded guilty to one of five charges. Ficcarrotto pleaded guilty to all. Both were on probation from a burglary charge, making them liable under the habitual criminal act.

He also sentenced Carmen Severino, 18, to five terms of 1 year to life, and Frank Cerra, 23, to two terms of 1 to 20 years. George Vertucci, 19, was given a six months jail sentence and placed on probation for five years, and his cousin, James Vertucci, also 19, was given five years' probation.

STANDARD OIL GIVES $27,500 IN FUND DRIVE

A $27,500 contribution by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana was the largest gift listed yesterday in the large corporate subscriptions division of the Community Fund drive for $3,750,000.

Charles Y. Freeman, general manager of the drive, announced three contributions of $10,000 or more; three of $5,000 or more, and nine of $1,000 or more, in addition to scores of gifts ranging upward from $250.

Pullman company's gift of $13,500 was followed by the General American Transportation corporation and subsidiaries' $12,000. All contributions announced were exclusive of those to be made by the companies' employés.

CIO URGES MORE REGULATIONS ON AMERICAN LIFE

Asks Controls on Prices, Man Power, Rations.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Nov. 10.—Expressing dissatisfaction with many governmental agencies in Washington, officers of the Congress of Industrial Organizations today presented to the huge union's annual convention here recommedations for far more severe regulation of the life of the American people.

Specifically, the officers urged an all-over regulation of man power, an iron bound and fully controled price structure, and an extension of rationing to virtually all commodities. Such controls, they said in the report, were imperative if the allied nations are to win the war, that nothing short of "complete and absolute mobilization of all the country's resources" would fulfill the obligations that the civilian population owe to the men in the armed forces.

OPA, WLB, and WPB.

The Office of Price Administration was criticized for using its great powers piecemeal and ineffectively; the War Labor Board for failing to live up to its purposes, and the War Production Board was assailed anew for breaking pledges and not giving labor an important voice in its operations.

Congress, the report stated, had recently "been weighted with reactionary and defeatist" elements. In view of this fact, the CIO, which has pledged itself to an all-out effort to defeat the axis nations, was urged to be alive to the perils—including anti-unionism—that may come after the war, and to have alert representatives watching their interests thru the emergency.

The report was approved and accepted by the delegates, representing an estimated membership of five million.

"Educational" Drive Urged.

The convention also approved a resolution presented by the resolutions committee urging "governmental agencies to undertake a vigorous educational drive to spread understanding of the nature of this war, based on the fundamental aims outlined by President Roosevelt. The resolution contained criticism of several newspapers, including THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Before the report was taken up the convention heard a speech by Ralph A. Bard, former Chicagoan, who is now assistant secretary of the navy. Bard declared the man power problem was so acute that the available labor would have to produce more per day if victory is to be attained. He advocated the establishment of an incentive system, which he said even the Russians had found wise.

ARMISTICE DAY THEME ON W-G-N IS BILL OF RIGHTS

W-G-N will present a special program, titled "Armistice Day, 1942," from 2 to 2:30 p. m. today. The broadcast will have as its theme the significance of the Bill of Rights. Bret Morrison, familiar to W-G-N listeners for his many appearances in the Theater of the Air productions, will read the Bill of Rights.

Morrison also will read the World war poem, "In Flanders Fields," written in 1915 by Lieut. Col. John McCrae, the Canadian physician who lost his life overseas in 1918. Then Morrison will present C. B. Galbreath's "Answer to Flanders," inspired by the present war.

The Rev. John Evans, religious editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will offer a prayer and meditation in keeping with the spirit of Armistice day.

Music fitting the occasion will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra under the direction of Robert Trendler.

MARDELLA M'DOWELL.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 10 [Special].—Miss Mardella McDowell, 30 years old, of Elkhart pleaded guilty here yesterday to a charge of illegally wearing insignia of the United States army. Assistant United States Attorney James E. Keating said the woman apparently was intrigued by the glamor of military life and had posed as a heroine of Pacific fighting. She is said to have boasted of being a first lieutenant in the army, and to have worn at various times insignia of the WAACs, the army air forces, and other service branches.

PARLEY STUDIES ROLE OF RADIO IN U. S. EDUCATION

The rôle of radio in education during war time occupied the opening session of the sixth annual meeting of the School of Broadcast conference, opening a three day session yesterday in the Morrison hotel. Several hundred leaders in the field of education by radio were on hand from all sections of the country.

The conference receivea a first hand report of what the nation's schools are doing to aid the war effort thru the broadcast of the weekly Victory hour of the Blue network. Part of the hour was originated before the gathering of the educators, the Steinmetz High school chorus singing patriotic songs.

The group was addressed by radio by Laurence Olivier, British movie actor now in military service, who spoke on the kind of spirit required to win a war.

At a luncheon meeting Charles R. Delafield of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation, and Kennth Caple, director of school broadcasts of British Columbia, discussed educational relationships between the United States and Canada. Maj. Harold W. Kent of the radio branch, war department in Washington, is chairman of the conference. Maj. Kent was formerly director of the radio council of the Chicago board of education.

Roosevelt Will Forego Warm Springs Holiday

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—President Roosevelt decided today against making his customary Thanksgiving visit to the Warm Springs, Ga., foundation for infantile paralysis victims. Basil O'Connor, president of the foundation, saw the chief executive today and said afterward that wartime conditions would not permit Mr. Roosevelt to visit Georgia this fall.

BOOKS

Matthew Josephson's Life of Victor Hugo Is Dramatic and Romantic.

2 Stimulating Authors Write Prize Memoirs

"Memories of Happy Days," by Julian Green. [Harpers, $3].
"I Came Out of the Eighteenth Century," by John Andrew Rice. [Harpers, $3]. Published last Wednesday.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Joint winners of the 125th anniversary nonfiction award of $12,500 offered by Harper & Brothers, these two books of memoirs are oddly enough both by men whose physical roots are in the south, but whose intellectual bloomings were in one case completely, and in the other, slightly influenced by the graftings of another culture upon their root stock.

Julian Green was born in Paris of American parents and, until he was 19 years old and came here to attend the University of Virginia, he never set foot on American soil. Until he wrote "Memories of Happy Days" he had never written in English. In his "Personal Record, 1928-1939," his journal which was published three years ago, he says: "I cannot write that language [English] without feeling as tho I were trying on a garment which had not been made for me."

But now that he has written it, it is obvious that the garment of English is cut to his exact measure; that clothed in it, his writing has a no less precise and exquisite quality than his memorably beautiful French has always had. His English prose is burnished by the practice which his writing in French has given him.

This book is as truly named as any book of reminiscences, for to Julian Green, the man of 42, these happy days—which end with the publication of "The Closed Garden" when he was 27—have the poignant happiness of remembered joys and a heartful tribute to "the France I shall forever love and admire."

As a little boy he felt like a "born Frenchman," felt the thrill of Gaulist ancestors even more than his French classmates did, altho no drop of French blood coursed in his veins. It was as if the incidence of his birth in Paris and his childhood there had been a sort of subconscious conversion and baptism, giving him the zeal of a vocation plus the devotion of the born religious.

"Memories of Happy Days" is a true and tender tribute to France, "with a smile on her beautiful face," who, Julian Green says, "will not die, because a spirit does not die and she is, essentially, a spirit." But it is also a remarkably highlighted picture of the childhood of a writer.

To readers of Julian Green's always subtle, often eerie tales of strange psychological twistings, this book is full of astonishment. For, altho he admits that "to frighten others or to frighten myself seemed to be one of my chief delights as a child," his childhood was unusually happy.

He was the youngest of a gay, charming, happy family of five children, the others all girls, whose parents also were gay and charming and determined that their children should be happy.

He was 17—under the legal age—when he joined the American Field service and drove an ambulance in the first World war before he became an officer in the French field artillery at 18. But his war experiences apparently did not undermine his natural cheeriness of nature. And altho he was preternaturally shy when he came to the University of Virginia—and had to explain that his birthplace was not Paris, Tex., but the only Paris of which he knew—in his three years there he made friends, and when he had gone back to France felt that he had left a part of him in his parents' America.

It is his America now, and to that he has attested by using its language in a book which is a tribute to both of his cultures.

"I Came Out of the Eighteenth Century," by John A. Rice, is as penetrating a study of a state of mind as it is a vivid picture of a way of life. Mr. Rice is a native of South Carolina—one might say a dyed-in-the-cotton South Carolinian.

Like Julian Green, but for only a short period of time, his years as Rhodes scholar at Oxford, Mr. Rice was exposed to another culture. He was not, one judges from his references here and there in this provocative book, converted and baptized by his contact, but if his years at Oxford did not mold him as Mr. Rhodes might hope in the eloquence of his golden will, they did give him a perspective on his own, his native Carolina. Nowhere has any one written more devastatingly, more understandingly, more nostalgically, about one way of southern life.

"John Andrew," as his father always called him, was the son of a preacher, and "One Foot in Heaven" is child's play at satire compared to this preacher son's picture of his father. He spares no rod and spoils no tale.

After his mother died he went to live for a while in a boarding house, then in an orphanage, and finally with kinfolk who were gentry, too poor to be able to live "genteelly," too "genteel" to live with honest straightforwardness. His descriptions of their life are filled with more happy nostalgia than any other part of the book—memories of the autumns with their "rich living after the lean and desolate summer that left men gaunt and skinny." The richness was only by comparison, tho, and there was no soft ease altho there was reality and an awakening realization of life.

Essentially, "I Came Out of the Eighteenth Century" is a very serious book despite its surface lightness. In it the author honestly tries not only to recreate a scene and a state of mind, but also to probe into its reasons for being. That he uses an almost surgically asceptic probe, and writes with a pen that is often dipped in the sharp acid of satire, makes his book fresh and vital. He recognizes no sacred cows, either of material or of presentation. He says what he thinks—and thought—about anything and everybody in a way that has gayeties of expression as uninhibited and as frank as his ideas. The south gets a drubbing, as do his father and Oxford and his uncles and "female colleges" and everything else.

The latter part of the book—from the Oxford period on—does not seem to me to be as interesting as the first two-thirds, but perhaps that is only because the years of his adulthood—teaching at the University of Nebraska, at Rollins college and his ouster trial there, and at Black Mountain college are closer to him and therefore are more sensitively tender material about which it is not so easy to be detached and philosophically amusing.

Many Faceted Life Story Told of Victor Hugo

"Victor Hugo," by Matthew Josephson. [Doubleday-Doran, $3.50.]

Of the three excellent biographies of the great figures of French literature which Matthew Josephson has written—"Zola," "Jean-Jacques Rousseau," and "Victor Hugo"—this one is the most interesting.

There may be two reasons for that: one, that we have never had before in English a really unbiased and comprehensive picture of Victor Hugo since the discovery of new source material about him, the other, that Victor Hugo was more than a writer, more even than a man with a romantic life. "He was," Mr. Josephson reminds us, "in his colorful way, a pivotal figure among his people and his century."

Victor Hugo lived in a time much like our own, his biographer points out in his foreword, "and he lived thru it courageously;" he knew the French people, not only in the days of glory, "but in times of crushing military defeat, invasions, captivity, and famine that not only closely parallel the present, but were in some ways, more terrible. He said over and over again, 'A great people cannot die.'"

In this biography of a turbulent life there is a story to interest any reader, and Matthew Josephson neglects no side of his hero's monument. Hugo was 15 when he first won recognition as a poet. At 25 he had "gained a fairly complete ascendancy as the literary leader of 'Young France.'" When he was 28, with the production of his drama, "Hernani," he had reached his goal of an audience of what he called the "ocean" of the people—his work started riots in the streets of Paris. It had started something else, too, a movement toward romanticism in French literature.

Then perhaps thru the deeper plumbing of the "ocean" of people he became politically conscious and from a writer in his ivory tower—highly arabesqued with the gold of success and garlanded with public and social honors—he became a champion of the people, took a vital part in the politics of the day, fought not only with his pen but his own body against the dictator of the day, Louis Napoleon, and for 20 years was a political exile from his native land. "He returned in triumph" finally, Mr. Josephson says.

The stories of Victor Hugo as artist and of Victor Hugo as a champion of the people will be rivaled for many readers by the story of Victor Hugo as a lover. The picture of Juliette Drouet, his mistress for 50 years, lives in these pages vividly and tragically, but suffused with the aura of love. Victor Hugo's wife, Adele, emerges a less traduced figure than earlier French biographers made her. Mr. Josephson finds no evidence that she was more than indiscreet in the "Sainte-Beuve: The Traitor Friend" chapter.

Stanley Johnston's 'Queen of Flat-Tops' Is in Third Printing

A third printing of "Queen of the Flat-Tops," the epic eyewitness story of the battle of the Coral sea which Stanley Johnston of the Chicago Tribune staff made into a dramatic book, will be on the bookstands within a few days. The first two editions of the book were immediate sellouts.

"Queen of the Flat-Tops" is based on the stories originally written for THE TRIBUNE by Mr. Johnston, only newspaper man with the fleet that defeated the Japs in the Coral sea battle last May which focused the eyes of the world on the aircraft carrier Lexington and the first naval battle in the air.

Three motion picture companies are negotiating for film rights to the book, with bids starting at $50,000. United Features Syndicate has purchased the newspaper syndicate rights and, starting next Jan. 1, Mr. Johnston's book will appear serially in many American newspapers and also abroad. Seven publishers in England are bidding for publishing rights. In Sidney, Australia, the Sidney Sun has bought the Australian serial rights.

Arrangements are also being made to have the book printed in Spanish and Portuguese for circulation to fulfill a demand for it in Argentina, Brazil, and other South American countries.

Miss Rukeyser Writes Life of Physicist Gibbs

"Willard Gibbs: American Genius," by Muriel Rukeyser. [Doubleday-Doran, $3.50.] Published last Friday.

BY RUSSELL MacFALL.

Miss Rukeyser feels it necessary to explain why she, a poet, should be writing the biography of a mathematical physicist, but in reality what she has attempted is the most natural thing in the world. Miss Rukeyser and Prof. Gibbs are both imaginative creators—she explains nature with words; he explained it with mathematical symbols. Because he thus wrote in a language which few of us understand, he is still virtually unknown to his fellow Americans nearly 40 years after his death, and Miss Rukeyser has undertaken to translate into our terms the discoveries which won him recognition as one of America's most creative scientific minds.

In many ways only a poet could make exciting the austere and retiring life of this Yale professor, who was so indifferent to fame even in his own time that he published his great mathematical papers in obscure places and refused public honors. She has done this by analogy and contrast, as well as by occasionally and necessarily difficult pages of direct explanation of Gibbs' thought, which has been called the fundamental science of modern chemical industry—the basic tools by which changes in the physical states of matter can be predicted, managed, and understood.

Her analogies—fruitful and pleasant reading—are between the Gibbs family, of a long and eminent New England line, and those two other famous New England families, the Jameses and the Adamses, who were friends of Gibbs and shared the intellectual climate with him which nourished their splendid accomplishments in science, language, politics, psychology, and history.

She also groups together three seminal minds—Gibbs, Whitman, and Melville—to show the freedom of speculative thought of the time—in which Gibbs shared. Her contrast is with the other line of American scientific development—the one which has been over praised and publicized—that of an Edison, a Bell, or other inventor who reaps the harvest of the universal laws discerned by great generalizing minds. Such minds give us, a picture, as Gibbs did thru his formulas, of some aspect of fundamental nature which is too recondite for the senses.

Miss Rukeyser has undertaken a task from which fellow scientists of Gibbs shrank—to write his life and explain his contribution. The result is not exactly a great biography, for Gibbs did not have an outwardly striking life; it is not a great commentary on his science, for she is not Einstein, but it is close to being a great tribute to Gibbs, to the American scientific spirit, and to the life of the imagination of his time. It is of the same fine stuff as her poems.

"Blind Man's Bluff"

By Baynard Kendrick

Copyright: 1942: by Baynard Kendrick

INSTALMENT XXXIX.
READY TO PLUNGE.

Lights!

Turn the switch and touch the bulb to see that it gets warm. It's never dark to Duncan Maclain. Lights, professor! Lights for the killer who thinks he's creeping noiselessly along the hall.

Put the gun on the desk edge.

Start with the small buffet. It's not in the drawer. It's not in the cupboard. Take the drawers out and search behind them. Reach and feel. It's not in there at all.

Try the directors' table. Two drawers there. The blind man hunts well. Let him find it, and we'll know what he's looking for.

Now, the globe in the corner. Surely nothing there. Under the cushions of the divan. Lift the seats of every chair.

Hadfield's desk. Try the righthand drawers, then the middle. What's that rustling back of the middle drawer? Papers rustling. Pull them out and lay them down where all can see:

The statement of Blake Hadfield of "What James Sprague Confided to Me."

See if there are any others there, and blow your whistle!

It's time right now to reach for the gun, the gun that was on the desk edge, the gun that's gone—the gun that's in the killer's hand with Dreist's feet pattering up the stairs.

A flash of stars in a working brain as the butt of the gun cracks down on the captain's head. Duncan Maclain is out of the way, but the dog has Bentley as he steps thru the curtains behind the desk and vainly tries to fire at the snarling, dodging attacker leaping for his arm.

Down on the floor, Mr. Bentley, or Dreist will tear you to pieces. Down on the floor, Mr. Bentley! You can't show a gun around Dreist. Stay right still, Mr. Bentley.

It's dark for Duncan Maclain!

In a universe devoid of light, the only darkness is darkness of the brain. The blind awake to thinking, not to blinking sleep-heavy eyes against the dazzling light of a morning sun. Awakening was a period of bodily repose, not of motion, to Duncan Maclain.

First it was necessary to remember where you were. Lying inert and unmoving, you worked the restored receptivity of the mind. If you were in your bed, the texture of the sheets and covers was familiar; the smoothness of the pillow against your cheek was as comforting as the clasp of an old friend's hand.

Then you listened. If it were not yet morning, the lack of sound would warn you to settle down and sleep a little longer. Morning brought sounds and smell—the increased murmur of traffic filtering up thru an open window, the muted ring of a frying pan as Sarah Marsh went about her duties in the kitchen, the cheering aroma of eggs and coffee. You were in your home and day had come again.

As the use of his blotted out faculties returned to the captain, his first sensation was excruciating pain. The agony was centered in his head, an all-enveloping throbbing that for a moment clouded his memory. Automatically he moved to press one hand against his skull and found that restraining bonds of some kind were fettering his arm. Where most men would have struggled, a bright red signal light began to blink a mental warning in the captain's clearing consciousness.

He was awakening to unfamiliar surroundings, and his body was in an unfamiliar position. To move in such a situation was perilous. The only immediate safety for the moment lay in careful analysis, and the much more difficult task of remaining absolutely still.

Some hard, inflexible object was pressing painfully into his waistline, gouging his silver belt buckle forcefully into the pit of his stomach. Nausea seized him, and for a second or two life itself was obscured by a hazy film. One lone idea persisted, dominating everything.

He had to be still.

The idea seemed too strongly ingrained to be the outcome of a passing whim. He couldn't move his arms, anyhow. If he couldn't move, then why was it so vital not to try to move?

A creeping wave of dancing red dots engulfed him. He fought it off by exerting every atom of a powerful will. With the retreat of the dancing dots, he found that thought was starting to function—not very much, at first, but enough to remind him that something had gone wrong somewhere.

Somewhere, some well laid plan had slipped, and now it was necessary to be still.

More thoughts, growing more vivid now, like a dancer shedding her seven veils. A man in an office, and a dog downstairs. There wasn't any question any longer. This body with the pinioned arms, the aching midriff, and the pounding, splitting head, was his own. He even knew his identity now, and where he was. This man, hanging across a railing where two men had hung him, was unquestionably himself, Capt. Duncan Maclain.

Poetry now:

"The brain of a man in love is never clear!
He's stood the whole department on its ear!"

There was something wrong with the meter, as there had been with the plan. To a man who lived by numbers, only perfection would do.

Well, the police department wasn't the only one. Duncan Maclain was standing on his ear, slung over a balcony railing with his arms bound and his thrumming head hanging down.

How long could a man hang like that, keeping very still? And listening. Listening for what?

For somebody who was breathing.

Certainly. It had been going on for a long time now, the regular inhale and exhale, louder than it should be. Or was it? Maybe sounds were deceiving when anyone felt so ill.

And what was the use of keeping still? Movement was the answer after you knew where you were.

The captain tried it with one leg, testing it with circumspection. When he discovered that it moved without restraint, he tried the other. It, too, was free.

The answer was simple. If he were hanging head down over a railing in the M. T. & T., then by stretching out one foot he was bound to find the floor. Once his feet were on the floor he could try to unloosen his arms, and stand.

He stretched one leg to its full extent and discreetly pointed his toe, moving it around in a vacant circle. He was cold when he drew it back, attacked by an encroaching chill. His foot had touched no floor and the picture of how Blake Hadfield and Dan O'Hare had crashed to death was sickeningly lucid.

The captain groped with fingers, moving them without disturbing the set of his rigid arms. His fingers found the metal at the base of a post which supported the balcony railing, closed about the smooth steel bar in a death grip, and held on. Without releasing his viselike grip, the captain flexed his elbows back and forth.

The bonds began to slip. He moved his elbows again and the bonds uncoiled from about his arms with the silky speed of a slithering reptile and were gone. An instant later, the clammy stillness of the M. T. & T. was shattered by the report of a gun.

Duncan Maclain pulled himself up and over the railing. Seconds ticked as he stood erect on the balcony floor. Then with one hand resting on the railing, he began to move along. A few steps farther, and he touched the other man, the man whose breathing had been beating so steadily against his sensitive ears.

MILTON H. MYERS, VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR, DIES AT 101

Long a Familiar Figure in Park Ridge.

Milton H. Myers, 101 years old, Civil war veteran, died yesterday in Barrington Rest home after a long illness. Altho he had been forbidden any excitement, he insisted on helping celebrate his 101st birthday last Saturday.

Milton H. Myers.

He is survived by two sons, Arthur L. Myers, 1007 Harrison street, Park Ridge, with whom he lived, and Prof. Walter R. Myers of the University of Minnesota. He leaves also 15 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 127 North Northwest highway in Park Ridge to the Park Ridge Methodist church.

Bicycle Rider After 90.

A small, spry man with a white mustache and goatee, Mr. Myers had been a familiar figure in Park Ridge. Until he was well into his 90s, he rode a bicycle up and down Park Ridge streets. At the age of 98, worried about his failing eyesight, he decided to commit the New Testament to memory and succeeded in memorizing 15 or 16 chapters of the book of Matthew. In his 100th year he learned to use a typewriter.

He married Mary Cutler in 1873 and the couple celebrated their 67th wedding anniversary before her death a few years ago. They lived in Harvey, Wheaton, and Evanston before settling in Park Ridge in 1920.

Proud of Lincoln Vote.

Mr. Myers attended meetings and encampments of the Grand Army of the Republic faithfully. He was a former state junior department commander of the G. A. R., past commander of the George H. Thomas post, and was chaplain of that post until his death. He was proud of the fact that he cast his first vote for Abraham Lincoln when the latter was elected for his second term, and had always been a Republican.

BAN ON HOLIDAY GREETING WIRES IS EXPLAINED

There will be no domestic holiday greetings handled by the commercial telegraph companies this year, but regular rate cables and radiograms to foreign countries will be accepted. Both the Western Union Telegraph company and the Postal Telegraph company have announced they will discontinue all fixed text, special and regular rate services at home, and all but regular rate services abroad to prevent delay to government and war telegrams.

Both companies emphasized, however, that the cancellation of these services will not affect the many greetings available to and from members of the United States armed forces abroad thru the recently established 60 cent expeditionary force message [EFM] service.

The elimination of domestic fixed text and special rate greetings was announced some time ago. Regular rate greetings will be canceled as of Dec. 15. Elimination of fixed text and sender's own composition special rate holiday greetings by cable and radio to foreign countries will take place as soon as authority is received from the communications commission.

Son, Daughter Share Bulk of Mary B. Derby Estate

Bulk of the estate of Mary Ballard Derby, disclosed by an inheritance report filed in county court yesterday to be valued at $286,228, is left to her son, William Ballard Derby, 70 East Monroe street, and her daughter, Dorothy Derby Waldo, Gross Pointe, Mich. Mrs. Derby, who died last March at the age of 72, was the widow of William M. Derby Jr., Chicago real estate man, and the daughter of Addison Ballard, early settler of Chicago.

MAJ. GEN. CROZIER DIES; FAMOUS AS ORDNANCE CHIEF

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 [Special].—Map. Gen. William Crozier, 87 years old, World war chief of ordnance and a leading engineer and ordnance designer, died today after a brief illness. For more than 40 years he had influenced the development of the fighting equipment of the United States.

As a junior officer, Gen. Crozier served in the campaign against the Sioux in 1876-'77 and against the Bannocks in 1878, followed by active participation in the suppression of Philippine insurrection and as chief ordnance officer of the Peking relief expedition of 1900. In 1901 he was chosen by President Theodore Roosevelt to be chief of ordnance, holding this post for 17 years. He was appointed a member of the war council by President Wilson and sailed for Europe in January, 1918.

When the supreme war council was organized at Versailles, Gen. Crozier and Winston Churchill, then Great Britain's minister of munitions, developed the basis for effective pooling of all weapons and ordnance equipment for the allied armies. In June, 1918, Gen. Crozier was appointed a major general of the line and chosen to command the northeastern department with headquarters at Boston. He was born at Carrollton, O.

LEGION TRIBUTE IS PLANNED FOR BERT L. HALLIGAN

Many present and past national officers of the American Legion are expected to attend the funeral Saturday of Bert Lillis Halligan, veteran of the World war and for the last 10 years national director of field service for the Legion. He died suddenly of a heart attack in Philadelphia on Monday.

The service will be held from the chapel at 6311 North Clark street to Our Lady of the Lake church, 4200 Sheridan road, at 10 a. m. Mr. Halligan will be buried with military honors in All Saints cemetery.

Mr. Halligan, as director of the Legion's national field service, was personally known to many thousands of veterans of 1917-'18, whom he helped in getting pension rights, hospitalization, and other veteran benefits. In those efforts he journeyed nearly 55,000 miles a year.

His death ended plans for his entrance into the army with the rank of colonel.

In 1923 he was elected commander of the Iowa state Legion.

Mr. Halligan was born in Davenport, Ia., 53 years ago.

Mr. Halligan lived at 710 Gordon terrace. His widow, Mildred; three sisters, and two brothers, the latter all of Davenport, survive.

3 U. OF C. GIRLS OUST EDITOR OF STUDENT PAPER

The three-girl board of control of The Maroon, University of Chicago student newspaper, ousted the editor in chief, Phillip Rieff, 20 years old, yesterday and assumed control of the weekly publication with today's issue. Student supporters of Rieff, who lives at 6656 Glenwood avenue, held a meeting last night to which the girls were refused admittance and said they hoped to get 1,000 names on petitions to reinstate him. The girls' action was approved by Howard Mort, dean of student activities.

The girls excluded the only male member of the board of control before ousting Rieff. He is Werner Baum, sports editor, who expressed opposition to Rieff's discharge. The girls charged Rieff with "dominating" the paper and failing to emphasize social activities on the campus.

The girls, all associate editors of the paper, are Beata Mueller, senior, 6325 Sheridan road; Minna Sachs, junior, 5100 Ellis avenue, and Elizabeth Jane Watters, senior, 6717 Ardmore avenue. Rieff is a junior majoring in political science. He took charge of the paper last September.

WESTERN AVENUE BRIDGE PLAN NOW RESTS WITH ARMY

The city's plan to construct a fender system for protection of the new Western avenue bridge, now under construction, and thereby reduce the river channel at this point from 155.3 to 97 feet in width was taken under consideration yesterday by Col. Charles Keller, army district engineer, after a public hearing in the Merchandise Mart.

There were no protests from ship operators, but barge operators suggested the fender system include 12 pile clumps instead of the eight the city had planned. The bridge, of a fixed type, is being converted into a lift span to facilitate movement of large vessels to the Gulf of Mexico.

City engineers announced the bridge's northbound Western avenue street lane, closed to traffic since Oct. 1 while a section of the bridge was being rebuilt, would be opened at noon today. The southbound street lane will be closed within a few days. The northbound Western avenue boulevard lane will remain closed several days more.

Many Chicago Young Women Learning to Fly

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH so many young Chicago women flying high it is interesting to note that there is a woman instructor at each of two popular nearby airfields. Miss Virginia Waller is teaching at the Sky Harbor airport and Miss Maurine Miller is instructing at the Pal-Waukee. Business is so brisk it's difficult to get a plane on week-ends, and the Pal-Waukee limits its Saturday and Sunday flying time to 30 minutes for each student.

Parental objections usually are considered the first obstacle to overcome when a young woman decides to learn to fly. Miss Ada Blanche Wrigley had no such difficulty, however, for her father, Philip K. Wrigley, has been an airplane enthusiast since he was a little boy. He flew for the United States in the last war and present day flying must be considered simple compared to the daring trip Mr. Wrigley, John T. McCutcheon, and the late Lee Hammond made across Lake Michigan one August day in 1918. On the trip they were forced down by engine trouble and went miles off their course because their compass got out of order. The coast guard was called out to look for the adventurers as they became increasingly overdue, but all ended well.

Miss Wrigley is getting her hours at the Pal-Waukee airport, where a number of women have been taking instruction, among them Mrs. Peter G. Moon, Mrs. Eugene du Pont III., Miss Barbara McClurg, Miss Nancy Florsheim, Miss Kathleen Lord, and Miss Shirley Slade.

Several School Girls Are Learning to Fly.

Miss Julie Beich, who attends Ferry Hall, is learning to fly at Sky Harbor, where several other school girls also are taking instruction. Miss Doris Wheeler is another of them. She attends Lake Forest college, which has a ground school for flyers. Miss Irene Palmer, Miss Martha Rogers, and Miss Ellen Cole are other Sky Harbor students.

Miss Waller is a member of the civil air patrol. Her younger sister, Miss Lucia Waller, is at home this year, having finished at Garrison Forest in Maryland in June, but she will not make a formal debut. She is doing nurses' aid work at the Children's Memorial hospital.

Miss Wrigley and Miss Mary Laing, who is learning to fly at an Indiana airport, are aiming high, for each would like to become a member of the Woman's Auxiliary Ferrying squadron. However, it is a long grind from seven to eight hours' flying time to the WAFS's required 500 hours.

Miss Wrigley is engaged to be married to William J. Hagenah Jr. Her cousin's wife, Mrs. Wrigley Offield, who flew for the CAP before she and Mr. Offield moved to Santa Monica, Cal., is not flying now. Young Mr. Offield, who has had a pilot's license for several years, could not be accepted by our air corps because of his vision, so he is doing the next best thing and is working for an aircraft factory. "It's a lot harder to make a plane than to fly one," he has written his parents, the James R. Offields. The government has taken Mr. Offield's plane and young Mrs. Offield's has been sold.

Helen Marie McCarty to Make Bow Dec. 21.

Mrs. James J. McCarty and her daughter, Miss Helen Marie McCarty, who is of debutante age, are planning a luncheon party for Dec. 21 at the Woman's Athletic club which will serve as Miss McCarty's debut. This popular young woman, who is a student at Mount Holyoke, having finished at the Girls' Latin school, is to have other small parties during the holidays, too. On Dec. 28 she will entertain at luncheon at the Yar for Miss Betty McArthur and on New Year's day Miss McCarty and her brother, James J. III., will entertain at cocktails in the State parkway apartment of Dr. and Mrs. McCarty. James is a student at Yale.

One of Evanston's first WAVES has been wearing an engagement ring since leaving for the officers' candidate school in Northampton, Mass. Dr. and Mrs. William R. Whitley of Evanston are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Elizabeth, to Carter H. Leslie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeland H. Leslie of Glen Ellyn. Miss Whitley was graduated from Northwestern university and now is at the naval training station at Smith college. Her fiancé, a graduate of Harvard university, is attending the Harvard school of business administration and preparing to enter the army in January.

St. Luke's Style Show Yields $25,000 Profit.

The St. Luke's fashion show committee realized a profit of $25,000 on its 16th annual fashion show, held Oct. 28 at the Civic Opera house, it was announced yesterday. Mrs. John W. Gary is chairman of the committee.

Some of the $1,000 the Illinois Opera Guild earned with a fashion show recently will send 50 service men to the opera on Saturday night. The army air corps, the Glenview air base, the Midshipman's school at North-

Tribute Is Paid to Dr. Stock by His Orchestra

Frederick Stock memorial concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Hans Lange conductor. Presented at Orchestra hall Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 10, 1942. The program:
Passacaglia and Fugue, C minor..Bach-Stock
Symphonic variations on an original theme..........Stock
Tone Poem, "Ein Heldenleben"......Strauss

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

When the music ended the crowd sat there quietly for a moment, then automatically got up and made its way, a little blindly, into the street. So ended the first of three Frederick Stock memorial concerts, played at Orchestra hall yesterday by the Chicago Symphony orchestra under the direction of Hans Lange.

The setting, like the man it honored, was simplicity itself—a laurel wreath lying gently on an open score before an empty podium, the accent of tall, black urns filled with great white peonies added to the flags of wartime. The memorial, true to the man it honored, was a concert so rich, so honest, and so rewarding he might have conducted it himself.

Its culmination was the huge Strauss tone poem, "Ein Heldenleben," which Stock often chose to honor the memory of Theodore Thomas. That score is more than 40 years old, a risky age in music, and many look down on it as fustian. My own ears always have been too deeply entangled in its tonal luxuriance to quibble with the superman heroics of its story. What counted in Stock's performance, and what counted yesterday in Lange's, was that the orchestra hung suspended in supple balance, supported by flawless orchestration and projected by musical imagination run riot.

Music that can work such magic with orchestra is not to be scorned. Yesterday's performance was a living vital thing, with a sense of jungle growth both in its instrumental foliation and in the tenebrous depths of its numerous shadows. Yet the very violins were dark. For all its virility, its ardent reflection of remembered greatness, "Heldenleben" truly mourns its chosen hero.

There was no question but that the orchestra was playing its best, playing precisely and eloquently, with a sharp clarity of attack and a kind of emotional tautness that suited the score. Mr. Lange knew that score intimately, and cherished its teeming brilliance for exactly what it is worth. He wove it into a fabric, almost a web of tone from which the solo instruments, however stellar, were inextricable. Even John Weicher's violin, for all its mourning beauty, merely heightened and deepened what the whole orchestra had to say.

As prelude to Strauss, the concert offered two of Mr. Stock's own scores, his simple and noble transcription of the Bach Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor, and his symphonic variations, written in 1903 and later dedicated to the memory of Theodore Thomas.

The Bach transcription is widely known and generally admired as one of Mr. Stock's most successful arrangements for modern orchestra. It has organ tone, the compassionate richness, the true Bach purity of line. By comparison, the symphonic variations came almost as a novelty, as they had not been heard at the subscription concerts in almost 20 seasons. They are interesting, straightforward music, particularly skilled in the handling of brass and winds.

The concert will be repeated Thursday night and Friday afternoon.

Warrior Wives Given 10 Rules to Keep Happy

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—Mrs. Beatrice Patton, who is seeing her husband, Maj. Gen. George Smith Patton, thru his third war, today had ten bits of advice for wives of army and navy men fighting overseas.

The former Beatrice Ayer of Boston has developed a witty philosophy, tempered by 25 major changes in her home address as the helpmate for 32 years of a man who made soldiering his profession and who now is commanding the American forces on the west coast of Africa.

"I took the other two wars pretty hard," she said, referring to the Mexican campaign against Pancho Villa in which her husband was aide to Gen. Pershing, and the first World war in which he organized and commanded the first United States tank corps.

"One of the hardest things women have to bear in wartime is waiting," she said, recalling that when her husband came home from France in 1919 "having been grievously wounded and left for dead, and decorated for extraordinary heroism on the field of battle, he was in fine shape, but I was not."

"I had practically lost my health," she said, and that prompted her to draw up the following ten-point regimen:

1. Don't worry. Look on the bright side, smile—and if things are piling up and you can't see your way clear, try praying.
2. Keep healthy.
3. Write cheerful letters to your fighting men. You cannot ask advice from a man in Libya or Australia. The problems will be out of date by the time he gets your letters.
4. Never listen to rumors—and never, never repeat one.
5. Don't stop at the headlines when you read the paper. Buy a reliable newspaper and read the official communiques and consult a map.
6. Don't turn on the radio every time you come in the house. Set yourself a stated time to listen to it.
7. Get yourself a regular job of war work, outside the home, even if its only two hours a week.
8. Realize you are not the only one whose husband is away at war. Don't feel sorry for yourself.
9. When the fighting man is home on leave, make a holiday of it—not a family problem study.
10. Keep your family intact—after all that is what our men are fighting for—their homes.

Music Note

Because of Lily Pons' continued indisposition, the Chicago Opera company announces that Josephine Tuminia will replace her in tonight's "Lucia di Lammermoor," at the Civic Opera house. Miss Tuminia, who sang Gilda in "Rigoletto" with the company in 1940, will appear with James Melton, Richard Bonelli, and Virgilio Lazzari. Miss Pons is still scheduled to sing Saturday afternoon's "Lakmé," postponed from opening night because of her illness.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

While the bill to create the WARCOGS [women's auxiliary reserve of the coast guard] awaits passage in the senate, news of the probable leader of the newest service for women comes from Washington, D. C. She is Lieut. Dorothy C. Stratton of the WAVES. If she receives this appointment, Lieut. Stratton, who is now assigned to the WAVES school at the University of Wisconsin, will become a lieutenant commander. She is on leave from her duties as dean of women at Purdue university, a position she has held for nine years. Lieut. Stratton was graduated from Ottawa university, Ottawa, Kas., took her master's degree at the University of Chicago, and received her Ph. D. at Columbia university.

Lieut. Dorothy C. Stratton.

Sixteen women are among the 90 students who will receive certificates this evening at the University of Chicago's quadrangle club. The class will have completed a government sponsored course in elementary radio and electronics.

The women, who are now qualified to replace soldiers as instructors in schools of the army air corps, have had a 16 weeks' training period in one of the university's most advanced technical programs for women. Before enrolling for the course, they agreed to teach in army schools anywhere in the United States for a period of at least a year.

Subjects studied included mathematics, teaching methods, electronics, radio theory, and shop work. As part of the training, each woman was required to construct her own radio. They also were taught soldering, wiring, simple sheet metal work, and the uses of punches, reamers, taps, and drill presses.

Of the 16 women who will receive their certificates today, 15 had received bachelor degrees before entering the course, and another six had done graduate work in education, science, or mathematics.

The women graduates will have a week's vacation and on Nov. 23 will receive their assignments as instructors from the signal corps.

The personnel of the Chicago service men's centers will serve as a clearing house for the names of any individuals who wish to invite service men to their homes on Thanksgiving day. This announcement was made in a letter from Mayor Edward J. Kelly to the Advertising Managers club of Chicago, which has undertaken the program for Thanksgiving dinners in private homes for men and women in the armed forces.

Mayor Kelly's letter, stressing the fact that many of the young men in uniform now stationed in Chicago are away from home for the first time in their lives, also enlisted the aid of the clergy of all faiths. Special "invite a Yank" invitations have been distributed to 1,500 churches in the Chicago area. All invitations received by the service men's center will be forwarded by members of the clergy.

More than 200 women start to school today at the University of Chicago, National College of Education, and in room 1010 at 111 West Jackson boulevard. They are volunteers who registered at the Jackson boulevard address to take special training preparatory to giving at least six months of service in child care centers. These classes are arranged thru the Volunteer office, an organization functioning for the Council of Social Agencies and the OCD. The Volunteer office also is the downtown classroom.

Response to the first call for volunteers has been so excellent that new classes will start in January. Another announcement from the Volunteer office is that a day nursery training center is being considered for somewhere on the west side. Concentration of war plants in that area increases the need for day care of children whose mothers are employed.

Ensign Alberta Lewis of the WAVES, daughter of Mrs. Harry A. Lewis and the late Judge Lewis of the Cook county Superior court, has spent the last several days visiting her mother at the family home at 6629 Harvard avenue. Ensign Lewis reported yesterday at Northampton, Mass., where she has been assigned to the administrative offices of the Smith college officers' training school. For the last several years she has resided in Los Angeles and was enrolled in the 11th naval district.

Chicago chapter of Hadassah, women's Zionist organization, will hold a war bond luncheon at 1 o'clock today at the Drake hotel. Admission will be the purchase of a $500 war savings bond. The event will be preceded by a military ceremony and program beginning at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Margaret Culkin Banning will be principal speaker. Josephine Antoine, Chicago Opera company member, will sing, and her accompanist will be Robert Macdonald. Chicago Hadassah leaders say that the chapter has more than $850,000 in bond subscriptions now and that the total should reach a million dollars today. Mrs. James H. Olshan is president of the local group.

Armistice Day Speaker.

Philip R. Davis, chairman of the Illinois State Council of Defense speakers bureau, will speak on "War and Its Effect on Marriage," before the juniors of the Jewish Consumptive Relief society at an Armistice day meeting this afternoon in the Standard club.

Theater World in City to Honor Cohan Memory

Chicago's theatrical profession, from stagehands to stars and from ushers to bill posters, will honor the memory of the late George M. Cohan in a memorial program at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Erlanger theater. Ben Bernie will preside over the program, which will not be open to the general public. Others who will take part in the tribute are the Rev. Edward V. Daily of Holy Name cathedral, chaplain of the Catholic Actors' Guild of Chicago; Ashton Stevens, Chicago drama critic; Lou Holtz, Willie Howard, and Bert Wheeler of the "Priorities of 1942" company; Lois Wilson of "Junior Miss," and the Eva Jessye choir from "Porgy and Bess." All the various theatrical unions will be represented in the audience and on the stage.

An error in last Sunday's drama notes indicated that the final performance of "Alice's New Wonderland," Charlotte Chorpenning's children's play at the Goodman theater, would be given on Saturday afternoon. The play will continue every Saturday afternoon thru Dec. 12, and a supplementary morning performance will be offered on Nov. 28.

"Priorities of 1942," the variety show at the Erlanger theater, will henceforth give three Sunday performances, at 2:30, 5:30, and 8:30 o'clock. The Thursday matinée has been eliminated from the schedule, but Wednesday and Saturday afternoon showings will continue.

Maxwell Anderson's war play, "The Eve of St. Mark," may be expected in Chicago about Jan. 12, at either the Selwyn or the Erlanger theater, according to latest reports. The touring company, soon to start rehearsals, will open in Rochester, N. Y., on Christmas night, and play a week each in Buffalo and Detroit before coming to Chicago.

Dinner Is Being Given by Chicago Pilot Club

The Chicago Pilot club will have Miss Laura Albright of Davenport, Ia., as its special guest at a dinner meeting tomorrow evening in the Bismarck hotel. Miss Albright is a district governor of Pilot International. Presiding as hostess at the meeting will be Dr. Alice M. Phillips.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

In the Memory of Woman.

It was late afternoon, and out in the old white house behind the mock orange and box hedges the grandmother wandered uneasily back and forth. The air was close and sultry, heavy with impending storm, and the heaviness fell low upon the few shining pieces of furniture, upon the mind of the grandmother, upon the tongue of the child playing on the floor. The noises from the kitchen, set a hundred yards away at the end of a vine covered corridor, drifted in, each distinct and clear. Out there the women were brightly busy, for it was over now, over, and some day soon or distant the men would be home and hungry, and no one was there who could say who would come, or how they would come, or whether all 19 would come, or which would be more broken, body or spirit, but come they would.

Just then came a racing of feet, a rumble of wheels, the hacking of a mule dragging itself up a driveway proud with cedars that once had shadowed only carriage wheels. The grandmother looked out, out at the old wooden wagon drawn by the old bleary mule, at a figure lying on the wagon bed half covered by a jacket. And a voice was saying, "They got Mistuh Alec, Miss. He wahn't doin' nothin'. Just a-walkin' down the street holdin' his head high."

It was Alabama, April 10, 1865, the day after Lee's surrender, and the grandfather was home from the war.

It was April again, a dusty, dry April that shriveled the delicate fronds of the young cotton plants an inch out of the ground and turned the soft white of the early jessamine to a strained yellow and cloyed their fragrance with dust. Another grandmother was in the room, and another child played on the floor. The bearer of glad tidings was unctuous and triumphant. "Well," he said heartily, "it's over! Really over! And, after all, it was such a little war." The grandmother froze as she stood. "A dead boy," she said in a voice of iced crystal, "is a dead boy."

It was April 11, 1899, and the war with Spain was officially over.

It was November, and the headlines announcing it were black and three inches high. Maybe six. Maybe ten. In years to come only their blackness and the absence that day of all organized meals were to remain in memory. Still another grandmother was in the room, and still another child played on the floor. Neighbors rushed in to dance, to cry, to roar with joy. "Did you hear the way one officer announced it to his men?" one asked. "He said, 'Boys, you're all out of a job. She's finished! She's finished forever!'"

It was November 12, 1918, and the war to end war had ended the day before.

"Personally," said the sister of a man in Africa, "I think the whole subject of Armistice day is one to skip—in our time. I think the line for Armistice day should be: the world is just doing business as usual."

Nutrition to Be Topic for Women Doctors and Dentists Tonight

Women physicians and dentists of Chicago will meet this evening in the Stevens building restuarant for a program on nutrition, arranged jointly by branch 2 of the American Medical Women's association and the Dental Women of Chicago. Dr. Elsa Gerlach of the University of Illinois college of dentistry will talk on "Diet in Relation to Dental Care," Dr. Bertha Isaacs of the Northwestern university medical school will discuss "Vitamins in Relation to Nutrition," and Mrs. Helen Skinner McKenzie, nutritionist at the Illinois Institute of Technology, will speak on "Basic Diets in Balanced Nutrition."

Good Morning!

Mickey Rooney leaps out of Judge Hardy's bosom into that of a ritzy British stepfather and learns about Eton from an English stepbrother, in "A Yank at Eton."

When you've seen Mickey in one movie, you've seen him in them all. His flavor never changes, save for varying degrees of tang. . . . Fresh guy—with heart of gold—that's Mickey.

Opening scenes of this movie show Timothy Dennis as the white hope of an American high school football team.

After practice, as the boys flock to the showers, Tim's enfant terrible sister, Jane, appears with the announcement that "Mom's married again" and that she and Timmie are to leave immediately to join her in London—and indulge in a spell of English schooling.

Timothy believes that life is over for him. . . . He'd planned on bringing new radiance to bear on the memory of his deceased dad, who'd been a great Notre Dame gridiron star. . . . He's sure Mom has just been married for her money, that the country estate she writes about, with its "horses and dogs and everything," has just been rented for effect, and that—all in all—life is over for the Dennis brother and sister. . . . Jane sulks right along with him.

BUT—the new father turns out to be all wool and a yard wide, and at Eton Tim learns that the English students are, for all their silk toppers and cutaways, practically the same breed of cats as American school boys. . . . The finale shows the American visitor looking happily forward to finishing his prep work at Eton, the while Peter Carlton prepares to embark for America—and Notre Dame.

Hands across the sea stuff, thruout. The acting is all acceptable, but the story is rather dull. . . . Sets, scenery, and photography are excellent, and I understand that an Eton expert was employed to supervise the school scenes.

See you tomorrow.

Doris Advises Girl to Forget Boy with a Wavering Heart

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I have a boy friend whom I have known a long time. He has taken me out often. One week it so happened I could not see him at all. Then, when it was possible to see him again, he told me he wanted to quit because he loved another girl. She happens to be my best friend. But recently he gave me a bracelet as something to remember him by. With the bracelet he had a pin with his initials on it and also the initials of my rival. I feel like returning the bracelet and pin, but I want to keep the bracelet because I love him. Last week I asked my rival if she loved him and she said: "No!" Should I fight to get him back? Puzzled."

What a Lothario you have on your list, Puzzled! What a distorted sense of romance, or maybe humor, to give you a gift with a fair rival's initials thereon. Or, is he just too naive for anything?

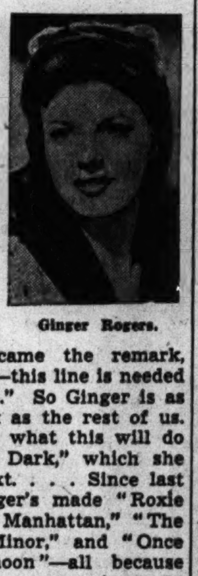
We suppose there's no power to stop you from fighting to get your man back. Except realization of one thing which might stay you. It's the plain, unadulterated fact that you've been tipped off there is another girl and a preferred one. Regardless of what she says, if the young man tells you he wants out because of another girl, that's the moment to withdraw gracefully. But withdraw from the scene. If you have a chance on earth of restoration as his preferred girl, it will be because you have the good sense to see a cue and take it. Some of us humans never appreciate a gift [sweetheart or otherwise] until it appears to be slipping away.

Try that psychology on your beloved, Puzzled, and we'll warrant better results than openly fighting for his good graces. At least you'll save face for yourself, if not the man. And that's something with which to face new and better opportunities in the early future. Perhaps when you diagnose this so-called love of yours, it might turn out to be nothing weightier than jealousy of the new girl. Try to analyze your emotions.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 10.—Ginger Rogers went up to Yucca Loma on the desert for a rest and when Ginger rests she skips both the radio and the newspapers. So she knew nothing about the new salary ceiling until she overheard some conversation about it. She tried three times to put in a call to Hollywood to get the dope on it, but each time came the remark, "Get off the wire—this line is needed for army business." So Ginger is as much in the dark as the rest of us. She doesn't know what this will do to "Lady in the Dark," which she was set to do next. . . . Since last Jan. 1, 1942, Ginger's made "Roxie Hart," "Tales of Manhattan," "The Major and the Minor," and "Once Upon a Honeymoon"—all because she wanted to pay more taxes to help Uncle Sam. If she doesn't do "Lady in the Dark" until next year, she'd like to do a sequence in Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army" for free. But if putting off "Lady" would mean laying off a lot of people at Paramount at Christmas time she'll go ahead with it now for their sakes. Pretty darned nice spirit, if you ask me. . . . A new arrival at the ranch one evening told Ginger she was booked for a South American broadcast next week—which was the first she'd heard about it. Who says an actress lives the life of Riley? Maybe—but it's that Riley who's nursemaid to a Missouri mule!



Ginger Rogers.

Between Scenes.

Found Betty Grable and Phil Silvers relaxing in Betty's dressing room on the "Coney Island" set. Suddenly George Montgomery appeared at the window, was invited in, and came right thru the window, which looked about half the size of a ship's porthole. When I asked him what's new he said: "Nothing, but I wish I had time to live up to all that romantic publicity I've been reading about myself." . . . Phil asked whether we knew how soldiers cut in on the girls dancing at the canteen. "No, how?" "They bang the fellow who's dancing on the back and say, 'Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition!'" . . . Outside a prop man, Skippy Delphino, was tacking pictures on the wall of a room that's supposed to be Cesar Romero's office. He looked a long time at one of them, shook his head and went away. Every few minutes he'd come back and look again. Finally it dawned on him who it was—Mildred Turner, silent star, and Skippy's mother.

Good News.

It's mighty nice to know first hand that Mary Pickford is on the mend. Had a sweet note from her in which she said: "I left the hospital yesterday and Pickfair certainly never looked so inviting. It is heaven to be back in my own bed in my own room with the gift of life given back to me. Buddy has two days' leave to be with me, so I am riding on the clouds today. . . . Jeanette MacDonald is offering her playhouse as a meeting place for the Neighbors' club, which the Bel Air residents are organizing with an eye to gasoline rationing and evenings at home. Jeanette's playhouse is well equipped for the good old get-togethers they are planning—with piano, ping pong tables, radio, wood burning fireplace, and electric range. Could be that the war will teach us to enjoy our homes so much that we won't want to leave when it's over.

This and That.

Samuel Bronston is trying to borrow Mary Anderson from 20th Century for the top feminine rôle in "Jack London," which he's producing for United Artists. . . . Paramount, after trying for 10 years, has finally gotten Richard Aldington, famous novelist who wrote "Death of a Hero," into its fold. He'll work on Somerset Maugham's "Hour Before Dawn." . . . Director Al Rogell is offering a $50 war bond for the corniest war song title he can get. It's for "Hit Parade," in which John Carroll plays a crooked songwriter. . . . Philip Ahn, Corean actor who played opposite Anna May Wong in so many of her pictures, has the leading Chinese rôle in "China." Ahn's intense hatred for the Japanese comes from a personal as well as patriotic reason. His father was poisoned while captive in a Japanese prison.

Animal Kingdom.

Did you ever stop to wonder what your pet thinks of you? Well, Dave Fleischer's making a cartoon at Columbia which will tell a very interesting story about what our four legged friends think of us—and we're probably in for some shocks! . . . Bonita Granville is testing the good neighbor policy by circulating a petition among her Toluca lake neighbors to let her keep two goats which Tim Holt gave her. . . . Joel McCrea has gotten 15 of his hens into exclusive Bel Air. He gave them to Alfred Hitchcock, who's built a new hen house and runway. Joel's also given chickens to Columbia Starlets Ann Savage and Shirley Patterson, and now that meat rationing is almost here, everybody else on the "Merry Go Round" set is playing up to Joel—and hoping he'll have enough chickens to go around!

On the Ball.

Gretl Dupont [who played Miss Shackleford, head mistress of the boarding school girls with the Veronica Lake hairdos in "The Major and the Minor"] won another tennis championship Sunday—the southwestern, at Tucson, Ariz., for women's singles. Bob Falkenburg, Jinx's brother, won the men's singles. . . . Jackie Westrope and wife Nan Gray are in town waiting the arrival of their baby, due shortly after the first of the year. . . . It comes out now that Freddie Brisson narrowly escaped death on the plane that carried Ralph Rainger. He was all booked for the trip when a higher ranking army officer took his place. . . . After roaming all over the desert last week entertaining soldiers, Kay Kyser went back for a couple days' rest—taking off late Saturday night when he'd finished playing at the Hollywood canteen. . . . Jane Frazee, whose maid was on a two weeks' vacation, proudly announced that she's lost four pounds during that time, when a friend cracked, "No wonder—with your cooking!

When you're "stretching" meat, remember the cereals. These grains contain the right vitamins to supplement and extend meats. Cornmeal, breakfast oatmeal, brown rice, cooked barley are good extenders of meat flavor. Macaroni, noodles, and the other pastes carry over the flavor but don't add anything in the way of vitamins.

Remember, too, your dog has no meat allowance. Either you feed him unrestricted meats [such as liver, brains, kidneys, tripe, bacon squares, heart, tongue, pig's feet, ox tails] or what he eats comes out of your 2½ pounds per week. So far meat rationing is on a voluntary basis, but no patriot will eat more of the restricted beef, veal, pork and lamb than 2½ pounds. That includes meals eaten out, too. Yes, the bones and fat are included in that 2½ pounds of meat. Use the bones for flavoring soups, the fat for cooking purposes.

The "share the meat" program applies to farmers who butcher their own meat as well as to city dwellers who buy all of theirs at the market. It's a plan calculated to insure a fair distribution of the meat available for civilian use. There's enough for everybody if everybody coöperates and no one becomes greedy.

To get all of the good out of the meat you buy, serve smaller portions, so that none is wasted. Cook the meat at moderate temperature, vary the kinds of meat you serve and the ways in which you serve it.

The total supply of meat in this country is the greatest in history—24 billion pounds. But there is unprecedented demand for it. Besides army, navy, and lend-lease requirements, there's a new heavy demand for meat because of a new ability to spend money among people who never had much before. War jobs pay well and increase the ability of thousands to buy goods which formerly they couldn't afford.

Of the 24 billion pounds of meat, army, navy, and lend-lease will take 6½ billion pounds, leaving about 17½ billion pounds for civilian use. A fair ration at present works out to 2½ pounds of meat per person per week. The nonrestricted meats such as organs, and poultry and fish aren't to be counted as part of this total.

The disgraceful behavior of coffee hoarders can't be repeated in the case of perishable meat, fortunately. But it is possible for an unpatriotic family to buy more meat than they need, as long as meat rationing is on a voluntary basis. Let none of us be guilty of taking more than a fair share of any food, whether it is meat, coffee, or any other commodity. We have been the losers so far in this war, and reversing that situation will take the earnest coöperation of every civilian. One of the important contributions the person on the home front can make is to take just what he requires in the way of food, no more.

Three Edgings to Crochet

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted edgings for handkerchiefs are delightful gifts and especially when a collar is made and edged with the same design. These three patterns offer a choice of quick and simple needlework and a practical and good looking gift suggestion. The same designs may be used on sheets and pillow cases. White and pastel threads may be used with white or colored linens.

For instructions in crocheting in three edgings, No. 1183, send 10 cents in stamps or coin plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Both Ends of the Candle.

The talk turned to accomplishment and whether it was possible to work at the peak of efficiency during the day and dash around in the evening. One of Chicago's super-successes, whose avocations are almost as strenuous as her vocation, recalled talking with her father about her grandmother—a remarkable woman. Six children grandmother fed, clothed, and reared. How in the world did she do it? The father smiled knowingly. "I imagine, my dear," he commented dryly, "that she had to miss a movie now and then."

Feminine Firsts.

Mae E. Daly—the girl from Missouri—became the first woman to hold titular executive rank in the New York Cotton exchange when she was elected assistant secretary of the commodity market last week. Miss Daly wears a white collar in the attractive picture which came to this desk. Her boss, Robert J. Murray, president of the exchange, says the promotion is not due "to the exigencies of war." ... Ruth Lawson is the first feminine technician to conduct soil-cement field tests and, according to a clipping forwarded by a reader, does not find the work too difficult. "On a soil-cement airport project in eastern Washington," it states, "Miss Lawson handled her job efficiently and rapidly." . . . "The first female sheriff recorded in history," writes Anne S., "was Anne, countess of Dorset, Pembroke and Montgomery. She was sheriff of Westmorland, England, during the 17th century and exercised plenty of power. Lilliam Hood was the first female sheriff in the state of Arizona. She brought in some mighty tough hombres, among them one 'Texas Joe.' This was only 45 years ago."

From Office to Opera.

The file clerk who was guest star at Treasury center the other evening is Gladys Zeiher, 19 years old, who, in addition to holding an office job, has been given a contract with the Chicago Opera to sing at one performance this season. The other white collar girl appearing on the same program was Letritia Kandle, who plays a 29 piece fretted instrument of her own design.

Lady Be Fit.

"You are a woman at war and your most effective weapon is good health; you will have to do more than keep the home fires burning. Every branch of the service and every phase of civilian safety needs your help. . . . It takes a margin of energy beyond whatever your physical endurance has been to undertake new, more strenuous and more vital duties. The one way to help instead of hinder your country, your family, and your work is to provide that margin."

With these opening lines Dorothy Nye's "Lady Be Fit" [published by Harpers and selling for $1.75] goes to work. Amusingly written and laughably illustrated, it makes you stiffen your spine as you read. You exercise and you love it! You run around asking your friends, "Know this one?"

The book reflects Miss Nye's industrial experience by including such practical points as how to relieve the stenographic kink at the back of your neck; how to climb stairs; how to walk; how to lift; how to carry a bundle, and how to relax on the job without the boss catching you. A good book full of do-able exercises.

Casual Coats: High Fashion at Low Price!

BY REA SEEGER.

Real buys, the finds that click with a double measure of high fashion plus easy-on-the-budget price marks still manage to thrill the cruising shopper. And if these finds also assure all kinds of figure flattery together with the promise of day by day wear or the added importance that they can go out at night, then they are finds of a decade. Such are the newest gems of little price. . . . Some stunning all-purpose coats lined with fabric and some glitter coats studded with winking coal black nail heads or with large flashing black sequins.

The fabric lined finds are positively breath taking . . . not only because of the amazingly low price marks, but because of the swank of the models. There's one beauty of dull black smooth wool, lined thruout with a fabric copied from tightly curled Persian lamb fur. This stuff would fool an expert. The lines of the casual coat are flawless, and it can be worn with either the wool or the fur fabric outside, for it's one of the smartest convertible coats of the season.

Another casual model is of black with a dramatic lining of white fabric resembling white ermine. A third is lined with a soft thick plush fabric of a leopard pattern. The most expensive coat is under 50, the others much lower in price. And every one of them looks three times the money!

Even less expensive are the "glitter" coats, swanky dull black wool affairs handsomely lined with quilted and padded satin and then spattered with glinting black nail heads or flat shiny black sequins. Nothing could answer the demand for dress parade, superwarm coats for afternoon and evening or party wear as smartly as these grand finds.

Phi Omega Pi Alumnae Giving Dinner Tonight

An informal dinner party will be given by the Chicago Alumnae Association of Phi Omega Pi at 6:30 o'clock this evening in the Top of the Town restaurant, 185 North Wabash avenue, in compliment to Miss Frances Chatburn of Springfield, national president of the sorority. Miss Chatburn will be here to attend the National Panhellenic congress Saturday and Sunday in the Medinah club. Miss Frances Kleinert heads the arrangements committee and will be the toastmistress.

Presbyterian Nurses Having Homecoming

The Alumnæ Association of the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing will hold its annual homecoming today, having as its special guests Charles B. Goodspeed, Dr. Carl W. Apfelbach, and Herman Hansel, administrative officers of the hospital. More than 500 guests will attend a luncheon, a musical program, and tea. The class of '41 will give a dance in the evening in the Graemere hotel.

'Feast of the Haggis' Scheduled for Nov. 21

The Illinois Saint Andrew society will observe its 97th annual dinner, "Feast of the Haggis," on Nov. 21 at the Palmer House. The society is the oldest philanthropic institution in Illinois, and has more than 600 men of Scottish descent on its membership rolls. The proceeds of the dinner will go to the Scottish Old Peoples' Home. Alex G. Shennan is president of the society.

The Housewife

Now that those huge, long burning candles have proved so popular that one sees them on every hand and in just about every color and style, it's nice to know that you can get a bronzelike metal saucer holder made especially to fit. These containers cost only 50 cents and are practical and artistic. EDITH WEIGLE.

Understanding Needed to Cure the Bad Habits

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

To myself as well as to some of the readers of this column, I have been promising a series of articles on a certain group of undesirable habits which cause parents great distress of mind, almost always confusion as to what to do, and frequently a sense of shame. But other planned articles must come before these. However, many parents need help, and with that in mind I am going to quote briefly from a good booklet devoted to this subject.

Dr. Jessie H. Taft, director of child study of the Children's Aid society of Pennsylvania has outlined in her booklet the sane and deeply understanding attitude which parents must acquire toward such habits, if they are to be corrected without harm to a child's necessary self-esteem and naturalness. Dr. Taft closes her interesting talk with these brief directions:

First: Prevention.

Remember that the child who is really happy and active and interested all day long, the child who is genuinely loved and approved of, who has companions and interesting work and play, who gets satisfying food and enough sleep, whose physical handicaps are corrected, seldom if ever develops or retains bad habits.

Second: Treatment.

1. Have a thoro physical examination to be sure that there are no casual factors here.
2. See that the physical hygiene is all it should be, the right food, sleep, fresh air, play, clothing and so forth.
3. Have a mental examination if possible to determine the child's native intelligence.
4. Get the right attitude yourself, see that the child gets no sense of condemnation or inferiority from you.
5. Do nothing to fix attention on the habit or put the child under emotional strain regarding it. If you talk, talk in a matter of fact way and add to his information regarding the physiology involved.
6. Realizing that cure is indirect. Don't rely on fear, punishments or rewards. Try to find out why the child is not developing. Seek for causes for dissatisfaction or lack of outlet in the environment.
7. Be alert and ready to alter environment instead of trying to alter the child.
8. Never use punishments which mean that the child has long periods of inactivity in which to day dream or seek pleasure in his own body. Never send the child to bed in daytime.
9. Emphasize outdoor play, constructive play with blocks, tools, boxes, sand, group play, organized games. Develop interest in child's own garden, chickens, or other project which he manages himself and from which he gets return.
10. Visit his school, see if something is wrong there, engage the teacher's sympathetic interest, but don't "tell on the child" unless the teacher is an unusual person.
11. Never talk over the child's habits or faults with others in his hearing. Never use them to humiliate him before other children or grown-ups. Treat him with the same consideration you would show for the feeling of an adult.
12. Last and most important, don't stop loving the child, or if you can't love him, realize that he is vitally handicapped until someone does love him ,and make allowances.

This booklet is called: Some Undesirable Habits and Suggestions as to Treatment by Jessie Taft, Ph. D. It may be obtained from the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, Inc., of 1790 Broadway, New York. The price is 15 cents.

Thru the Looking Glass

One of the loveliest of the foundations in cake form, companion piece to a flock of delightful products that we have always thought especially good for the dry, dry skin, is one so creamy of base that it can be spread evenly with the fingers. It does away with the necessity of toting a sponge or puff that must be moistened.

This is, or at least we think so, a little heavier in texture than most of the foundations that come in that wonderfully handy cake form. You must, unless a somewhat heavy makeup is becoming to you, apply it ever so lightly.

You'll be charmed with the beautiful flattering veil it gives the skin to which powder clings unobtrusively but with the firmness that keeps you looking fresh for hours on end. And that same flattering filmy veil of foundation is a protection against biting winds, a point all dry skinned women should keep in mind when they choose a powder base. This must be used rather sparingly for best results. The thinest possible film of it seems to us to make the most satisfactory base.

After it's on, dust your powder over it quite generously, then smooth down the powder coat with a soft brush or puff. You'll find that this technique, the same as that used in the theater, gives you the smoothest, suavest kind of a makeup.

There are five quite luscious shades in this creamy cake base, including two good ones that tone in beautifully with the lighter skin tints and three in darker shades. The lightest of these last is particularly good for the woman who looks best with fairly golden toned base, winter or summer.

Models for School Wear

THREE SCHOOLROOM FASHIONS.

There's no law limiting these fashions to the schoolroom, of course, but they're especially appropriate for that purpose. One model is for teacher, and it's a tailored frock with lots of feminine appeal. The other two dress Cissy for her rôle as scholar.

Style No. 2774 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8. Size 4 requires 1⅜ yards of 35 inch fabric with ¼ yard contrasting and ⅜ yard ruffling for dress; ⅜ yard of 35 inch material for panties.

Style No. 2650 is designed for sizes, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 and 36, 38 and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 3⅜ yards of 39 inch fabric.

Style No. 2595 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14, and 16. Size 12 requires 3 yards of 35 inch material with ¼ yard contrasting.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Metal is vital to the war effort. Help build a bomber by tossing your broken sewing implements into the scrap drive.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	1 spade	Pass	2 no trump
Pass	3 spades	Pass	3 no trump
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

West had a very difficult choice of opening leads and finally selected his fourth best club. Dummy's ten won and the spade king was laid down. West held off and a low spade was led to the jack. West won and, after a long huddle, made the bold play of the king of hearts. Declarer feared that winning with the heart ace would permit East later to gain the lead with a heart honor, hence held up. The heart jack was continued and was also permitted to hold. The third heart was taken with the ace and the spade suit then was run off. Declarer discarded two diamonds and a club on the three long spades, leaving himself with the A-Q of diamonds and the club king. West had more trouble in discarding. He finally had to blank his club ace in order to hold the K-10 of diamonds. [If he had blanked the diamond king, declarer easily could have read the situation and cashed two diamond tricks.] Now the club jack was led and West took his ace,, but had to return a diamond from the K-10 to declarer's major tenace, and the nine trick contract became a laydown.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION.

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	4 spades	Pass

You are South and hold:
♠ A K 7 4 3 ♥ A K Q ♦ 8 4 ♣ Q. 9 4
What call do you make?

Answer: Pass. Your partner's four spade bid was not strength-showing, but on the contrary was a shutout raise. Thus, despite the fact that you have 4½ honor tricks, it is highly unlikely that a slam is possible, and a mere slam try by you might be fatal. You have no controls in the minor suits, and if partners' raise was correct the combined hands can easily have two immediate losers in either diamonds or clubs. [Twenty points demerit for 5 spades or four no trump; 30 points demerit for 5 hearts; 40 points demerit for any other call.]

To Relieve Bad Cough, Mix This Recipe, at Home

Big Saving. No Cooking. So Easy.

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, when you try this splendid recipe. It gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money, and you'll find it truly wonderful.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup and you have a full pint of medicine that will amaze you by its quick action. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

This simple mixture takes right hold of a cough. For real results, you've never seen anything better. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Dr. Charles Foelsch Installed as Head of Lutheran Seminary

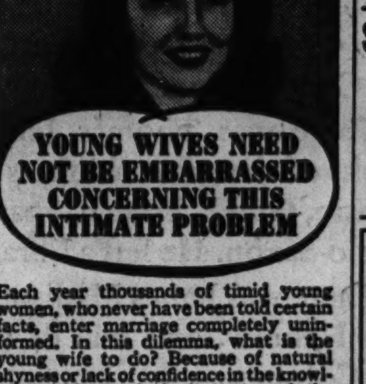
"Theological professors must guide students in thinking conclusively by understanding the old, having minds open to the new, and interpreting both in modern terms," the Rev. Dr. Gould Wickey of Washington, D. C., executive secretary of the board of education of the United Lutheran church, said yesterday at the installation of Dr. Charles B. Foelsch as president of Chicago Lutheran Theological seminary, Maywood.

Dr. Wickey, former president of Carthage college, warned educators against building theological seminaries that parallel a Latin definition of the word "seminary" as a nursery plot where plants for transplantation are raised from seed. "Seminaries should be graduate professional schools," he said.

New members of the Lutheran Theological seminary faculty also were seated formally at the convocation yesterday. The Rev. Dr. Paul H. Krauss of Fort Wayne, Ind., was installing officer.

Apartment Residents to Entertain Coast Guard

One hundred fifty residents of the Wilshire apartments, 6450 Kenwood avenue, are collaborating in giving a victory and Armistice day party this evening for 50 young men in training at the United States Coast Guard center in Jackson park. Several boys who live in the building and who have joined the armed forces, also will be present.



YOUNG WIVES NEED NOT BE EMBARRASSED CONCERNING THIS INTIMATE PROBLEM

Each year thousands of timid young women, who never have been told certain facts, enter marriage completely uninformed. In this dilemma, what is the young wife to do? Because of natural shyness or lack of confidence in the knowledge of friends, she hesitates to seek the advice of others. Too often she either places her dependence on weak, ineffective "home-made" mixtures; or resorts to over-strong solutions of acids for the douche which can actually burn, scar and even desensitize delicate tissue.

Today such risks are needless. Science has given womankind a safe—yet amazingly powerful liquid for the douche, Zonite. So powerful is Zonite, that it kills immediately all germs and bacteria with which it comes in contact. Deodorizes—by actually destroying odors, leaving no tell-tale odor of its own. Protects personal daintiness. Yet! Zonite is non-caustic, non-poisonous, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles already bought. For modern hygienic protection you may never have known before, get Zonite at your druggist today.

Welfare Association's Annual Meeting Will Open in Peoria Today

The Illinois Welfare association, formerly known as the Illinois Conference of Social Workers, is opening its 47th annual meeting today in the Pere Marquette hotel in Peoria. The session will continue for three days, with the first two given to study courses and the last to lectures and discussions of problems growing out of the war.

Among the speakers Friday will be Francis Scully, Chicago attorney; Dr. Ernest Burgess of the University of Chicago; Rodney Brandon, public health director in Illinois; Dr. Richard Boyd, and Dr. David Slight. The conference will be conducted by Leo M. Lyon, superintendent of St. Luke's hospital and president of the association. Emphasized at the meeting this year will be the work of the volunteer groups coöperating with the professional social agencies.

Clubs' Press Chairman to Have Quiz Program

Press and publicity chairmen will meet at 10:30 o'clock today at the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs for a quiz program arranged by Mrs. H. M. Daughtrey. The quiz will be conducted by Mrs. Perley Gunton and Mrs. Harry Lepinske, district press chairmen.

they lit the flame of freedom

Never, perhaps, has a great task been given to a group of men so learned, so well read as those who wrote the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

There was Thomas Jefferson, who read the books of the great thinkers in their own tongues —Latin, Greek, French, Spanish, Italian, and even Anglo-Saxon. He left a library of 10,000 volumes.

There was James Madison, student of theology and Hebrew, and one of the best read men in the Colonies.

And Ben Franklin who, remembering his own boyish hunger for books, started the first circulating library in America.

And so with all the other Founding Fathers. They brought to their mighty task the culled wisdom of the ages . . . And out of their reading they lit the flame of freedom.

READING is still the truest education for democracy . . . the reading not of scholars only, but of men and women in all conditions of life, all ages, all tastes and interests . . . the reading of the people.

Such is the influence exercised today by The American Weekly—the magazine distributed from coast to coast through 20 great Sunday newspapers—in the homes of more than 7,500,000 families.

Its true stories, taken from real life—tales of love and adventure, mystery and intrigue, tragedy and crime —satisfy the hunger of great multitudes of human beings for color and glamor in their everyday lives.

Its service pages provide such authoritative and practical advice and information on nutrition, cooking, beauty care, clothes and housekeeping that women readers express their interest and gratitude with thousands of letters every month.

Its thrilling articles on the new advances in science, the little known or recently discovered facts of history, biography, medicine, art, religion, are told in simple, vivid language that all can understand; yet so complete is their authenticity that copies are used by instructors in schools and scientific institutions throughout the United States.

Thus this great magazine, with an appeal as varied and far-ranging as human nature itself, brings refreshing entertainment to countless millions—opens new paths of discovery and knowledge—widens the whole of their experience. Its influence reaches beyond all actual measurement—goes deep into American life.

The national advertiser who associates his product with such an institution is tying it up with the greatest force known in advertising. He is making his advertising message, like the rest of The American Weekly, the reading habit of more than 7,500,000 American families.

NOTRE DAME WORKS ON CHECKING MICHIGAN'S POWER

PETE ASHBAUGH, COWHIG HURT, BUT WILL PLAY

All Tickets (56,000) Sold for Game.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 10.—Russell [Pete] Ashbaugh, Notre Dame regular right half back, and Jerry Cowhig, husky understudy for Full Back Corwin Clatt, were on the hospital list this afternoon as the Irish prepared for the invasion of Michigan's Wolverines Saturday afternoon. Ashbaugh was in the university infirmary for treatment of a charley horse and bruised hip muscle. Cowhig, altho able to report, was suffering from a groin strain similar to one he suffered in the preseason drills.

Both men are expected to be in uniform against Michigan and Ashbaugh will be ready to start, according to Trainer Eugene [Scrap Iron] Young, but neither one will be able to take part in the defensive drills this week by which the Irish hope to check Michigan's attack.

He Won't Wear Hip Pads.

Ashbaugh's physical ailments are due to his refusal to wear hip pads—he wishes to get the last bit of speed possible—and his injury during the game with Army last Saturday actually is compounded.

Wally Ziemba, veteran center, is not in the best of condition altho he was able to start at center against the Cadets. Ziemba never has fully recovered from his knee injury, but the fact that he can play part of the time relieves the pressure on Sophomore Herb Coleman.

The Irish varsity will not scrimmage this week, Coach Frank Leahy said today. The team drilled indoors yesterday because of the rain and began practice in the fieldhouse today, but went to Cartier field to conclude the workout.

Fear Michigan's Ground Game.

"We are primarily concerned with setting up a defense for Michigan's running attack," Leahy said. "We consider Michigan has one of the finest groups of backs in the country and the number of replacements means our efforts must be redoubled."

Leahy would not admit that he and his staff were satisfied with Notre Dame's attack, altho the statistical record of the 13 to 0 conquest of Army shows that Notre Dame gained 250 yards by rushing to Army's 68. Actually, by this same comparison, the Irish defense against rushing plays would seem to be excellent except for the important fact that Army's assault from a single wingback formation bears no resemblance to Michigan's attack. Neither does Army have the personnel that the Wolverines possess, nor the type of play that has most bothered the Irish defenders this season.

Puts Emphasis On Defense.

Leahy is concentrating on defense because this is the immediate problem rather than rehearsing the T formation that now has accounted for five consecutive victories. Incidentally, it should be noted that in this span Illinois has been the only team to score.

All tickets for Saturday's game have been sold and 56,000 will fill the Irish stadium for the first time this season. There is no doubt but that the Michigan battle is regarded as the primary objective by the Irish, who are celebrating the university's centennial year. It also probably follows that if Notre Dame can win from the Wolverines it should reasonably expect to continue successfully against Northwestern, Southern California, and Great Lakes, remaining opponents.

Bertelli's Average Low.

Service Teams to Go All Out Today

These Bluejacket linemen will see plenty of action today when Great Lakes meets the Camp Grant Warriors in Bell Bowl, on the base, near Rockford, Ill. Left to right, the Great Lakes charging linemen are: Urban Odson, former Minnesota tackle; Jim Daniell, ex-Ohio State tackle, and Jim Barber, who saw service with San Francisco and the Cardinals at tackle. Great Lakes Eleven to Battle Camp Grant Warriors Today

The two big navy and army centers of Chicagoland will come to grips on the football field today when Great Lakes plays Camp Grant in Bell bowl, a natural ampitheater situated on the camp's grounds near Rockford. The game will start at 2 o'clock and there will be no admission charge for service men. Civilians will be admitted at a charge of $2.

Great Lakes, because of two smashing shutout victories in the last two weeks, is the favorite. The sailors whipped Missouri, 17 to 0, then followed with a 42 to 0 triumph over Purdue last Saturday.

Camp Grant hasn't met the type of opposition which Great Lakes has encountered, but the soldiers have been pointing for today's game since the season started. A warrior athletic team, during this war and the last one, never has beaten a Great Lakes rival. In 1917 the Great Lakes eleven defeated Camp Grant, 9 to 6. The teams did not meet in 1918.

Beats Fort Knox, 20 to 0.

Camp Grant's last game, a week ago Saturday, resulted in a 20 to 0 victory over Fort Knox. This wasn't considered significant until the Kentuckians last week held the strong Iowa Preflight eleven to a 13 to 7 score.

Place—Camp Grant.
Time—2 p. m.

The soldiers are at their best on a dry field, which gives Reino Nori, their passing ace, a chance to fling the football. But last night it appeared the footing would be a bit treacherous because of recent rain. This would be an advantage for the bulkier Bluejackets.

Great Lakes has piled up 98 points to 42 while winning four and losing three. Camp Grant has made 105 points to 47 in winning three out of five. The sailors have broken even in Big Nine competition, losing to Michigan and Wisconsin and winning from Iowa and Purdue. Camp Grant lost to Iowa, 33 to 16 and to Wisconsin, 7 to 0.

Nori and Goldman Coöperate.

Against Fort Knox in Dyche stadium, Nori gave a flashy passing exhibition, aided by the fine pass receiving of Sam Goldman, one time Washington Redskins' end. The Kentuckians had outplayed the Warriors in the first half. Then Nori sparked his team to a touchdown in the third quarter and two in the fourth period. In an exhibition game last August with the Chicago Bears, Nori, who once played with that pro team, ran almost the length of the field and finally was downed on the 1 yard line. James Cary, former Purdue player, then went over for a touchdown.

Camp Grant is coached by Lieut. Glen Rose, former basketball coach and assistant in football at the University of Arkansas. Lieut. Tony Hinkle is the Great Lakes' head coach. Each of the teams has several one-time National Football league players. Rivals' records for season:

WALDEN STAKES TO COUNT FLEET BY 20 LENGTHS

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 10 (AP).—Mrs. John D. Hertz's Count Fleet romped off with the $9,700 Walden stakes today, beating three nondescript colts by 20 lengths or better before a crowd of 7,500 at Pimlico.

The Reigh Count colt, winner of the Pimlico futurity, ran a front running race under Jockey Johnny Longden, steadily increasing his margin thruout.

At the wire he held a 20 length lead over C. E. Nelson's Uncle Billies, which in turn was 12 lengths in front of J. Y. Christmas' Rough Doc.

Count Fleet covered the mile and one sixteenth in 1:44 4-5, which missed the stake record by a fifth of a second.

The shortest priced favorite of the Pimlico meeting, Count Fleet returned $2.20 and $2.10 in the mutuels. There was no show wagering.

Northwestern and Purdue Cancel Freshman Game

The Northwestern-Purdue freshman football game, which was scheduled for Dyche stadium Friday, has been cancelled because of transportation difficulties. This was announced yesterday by Northwestern's athletic director, Kenneth L. Wilson.

Corp. Donald Klinetop, tackle from Wayne university, has been outstanding in the Camp Grant line. He will start today.

Gabby Finds Out He's Lost Job as Pilot

Gabby Hartnett, former manager of the Cubs and 1942 leader of the Indianapolis club, was hunting pheasants near Wauconda, Ill., yesterday when informed that he had been removed from the latter post by President Donie Bush. Bush, the report said, will take over the management of the team.

Altho Bush said Hartnett was taking a major league job, Gabby declared "there's nothing to Donie's statement about a big league job awaiting me. I haven't anything lined up and I don't know where I can line something up."

BUSH TO RUN CLUB.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 10 (AP).—Owen J. [Donie] Bush, president of the Indianapolis American association baseball club, said today he would return to active field duty and serve as manager of the club next season. Bush added that Leo [Gabby] Hartnett, who managed the club last season, would take a major league job.

Bush said he would employ a competent baseball man to assist in coaching the club and it was indicated Fred Haney, formerly with the Toledo club, might be selected for this post.

GOLF'S PLACE IN WAR EFFORT IS TOLD TO P. G. A.

J. B. Kelly Emphasizes Need for Physical Fitness.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

John B. Kelly, assistant director of the Office of Defense, Health, and Welfare, teed off yesterday on the necessity for continued activity in American sports during an address to the delegates of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, meeting in annual convention in the Medinah Club of Chicago.

Kelly emphasized the definite need for national physical fitness in every field, and gave reassurance to the PGA members that golf is one of the most important factors in attaining and preserving such fitness. He indicated that, altho tournament golf for the duration is stymied, the government will encourage the game as long as it does not impede the war effort.

Play Part in War Effort.

"There are more than 5,200 clubs in this country today, and aside from the financial and real estate angles involved in them, they can play a real part in the war effort. It has been estimated that 17 men and women are required to send a soldier to the front. Those men and women are soldiers also, fighting on the home front, and the loss of one of them thru illness or fatigue brought on by work is as disastrous as the loss of a soldier on a foreign front.

"Golf's value as a refresher is a genuine one, not only for middle aged men who hold key positions in war industries, but also for the men and women who work in these industries. These often work unusually long hours, and while they are undoubtedly getting plenty of exercise in the performance of their duties, they need relaxation in their spare time, and golf is one of the best methods of supplying that relaxation. The walking involved in the game is a prime factor in the body's power maintenance.

Distribute Clubs to Service Men.

"In Philadelphia, my home town, we rounded up several hundred clubs and golf balls and distributed them for use by service men on certain days at the several private clubs in the district. We also encouraged the daily fee courses to do likewise for defense workers, to eliminate the need of their bringing clubs out."

Before addressing the PGA delegates, Kelly also outlined in brief a program which his division is setting up for physical toughening in high schools, colleges, and even elementary schools. Kelly and his associates are now launching this program by a teachers' teaching course in which men in various sections would be instructed in the fundamentals of such a program.

Adaptability a Top Requisite.

Physical adaptability will be a top requisite in this program, and no effort will be made to embarrass or force the student who is physically unsuited to the work. In the case of younger boys and girls, nutrition and medical examination will precede any program of exercise.

As a champion Olympic oarsman, Kelly said he has watched the physical training programs of the Japanese since 1920 and the Germans since 1921. He has consistently pointed out the need of a similar program in the United States since that time. He believes the American army today is the best conditioned in the world,

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

THE office of the Chicago Blackhawks, and the desk of Joe Farrell, the Hawks' press agent, are in the front end of the first floor of a large wholesale firm. . . . Aware of this, many coffee guzzling pals of Mr. F. have besought him to get them quantities of the coveted bean, little suspecting that the way he gets coffee for himself is to trail delivery wagons on a bicycle and buy it from a grocer as soon as deliveries are made. . . . When Joe Scriba, Northwestern's diminutive sophomore half back, reported for high school football at Owosso, Mich., he was given a pair of overalls because he was too small for the regulation uniforms. . . . Two weeks after it was ruled that New York Sun sports writers might smoke at their desks, thus lifting a ban effected in 1916, the price of cigarets, cigars, and pipe tobacco went up. . . . Ernie Bonham of the Yankees bought a home in Sacramento with his world series earnings. . . . The miserable condition of the field at Cleveland stadium, which ruined the Notre Dame-Navy game, is a result of the war show. . . . Tanks, trucks, and big guns chewed up the sod, which hasn't had a chance to take root. . . . Bernie Moore, affable coach of Louisiana State's football forces, got a chuckle out of his team's recent game with Tennessee despite its 26 to 0 defeat. . . . "Before the game my relatives in Tennessee flocked into the hotel to see me and get passes. They thought I was a big shot. After we lost not one of them showed up," he said.

The Chicago chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America, which annually awards the J. Louis Comiskey "Most Valuable Rookie" trophy, does not expect to get in the same jam as the committees which named "the Most Valuable Player" in the National and American leagues. . . . The rookie balloting takes into consideration the performances in the world series. . . . The other voting did not, with the result that Mort Cooper, the nearest approach the Cardinals had to a world series flop, was named the National's most valuable and Joe Gordon, the unanimous choice for the world series goatship, was named the American league's most valuable. . . . Wonder where Harry Kelly, Michigan's new governor, will sit at the Notre Dame-Michigan game Saturday. . . . In addition to being the governor elect of Michigan he is national president of the Notre Dame Alumni association. . . . He can't lose, no matter which team wins, which always is a happy state of affairs. . . . Football fans can't lose, either, no matter the outcome of the contest, because they are certain to be entertained by two of the nation's greatest elevens keyed for maximum effort. . . . An annual Michigan-Notre Dame game would be a high spot of the season, regardless of the competitive standing of either team, just as the Notre Dame-Army and Michigan-Ohio State games are seasonal headliners.

A Letter Home.

Dear Mom: We're shoving off tomorrow afternoon and we're as thrilled as we can be . . . for we did not expect the chance so soon of meeting Hirohito's men at sea. . . . But we are well prepared in every way and tho we realize the Japs are sly . . . we feel that two, as well as one, can play at any game they might propose to try. . . . I've learned that war is worse than Sherman said . . . but learning that the Lord is standing near all trace of doubt has, tho by magic fled, and with it every qualm of earthly fear. . . . So don't you worry, Mom, and don't you fret, for tho the battle rages thru the day and deep into the night, as black as jet, the Lord will lead me safely all the way. . . . I miss you more than you will ever know . . . and when the war is thru and peace is won, in my awkward way I'll try to show my gratitude for everything you've done. . . . Please give my love to Jane and Mary Lou and say hello for me to Bill and Tom . . . and here's a kiss for no one else but you—my wonderful and understanding mom.

Your son,
Jim.

Armistice Day, 1942.

Again the earth reverberates
With bursting bombs and guns!
Again the soil is crimson with
The blood of our loyal sons!

Once more the greedy god of war
Proclaims himself a king.
He cracks the whip and all men feel
Its bitter, biting sting.

Unceasingly Death stalks the earth,
Snatching innocent prey.
She never wearies tho she walks
A thousand miles each day.

Where is the pact of peace men signed
That first Armistice day?
With sneers and jeers they've scrapped
the pact
And tossed world peace away.

Is there no hope for Lidice?
No hope for the oppressed?
Are we seeking peace in vain?
Is ours a hopeless quest?

Ah, no! Let's think of Calvary
Where Christ, the warrior, died.
His cause seemed lost; He knew defeat,
When He was crucified!

But three days hence He rose again
Triumphant over Death,
And walked among those who believed
Fore'er they stilled His breath.

So, turn to Him, all you oppressed,
On this Armistice day.
He'll lead you on to victory!
Trust Him! He knows the way!

New York, Nov. 10 (AP).—The Chicago Blackhawks' invasion of the domain of the supposedly defenseless New York Rangers ended in the Chicagoans' first defeat of the National Hockey league season tonight. The New Yorkers won, 5 to 3, in overtime, before a crowd of 8,559 in Madison Square Garden.

Despite the loss of Babe Pratt, veteran defense man who suffered a shoulder separation in a collision in Montreal Sunday, the Rangers mustered a line good enough to checkmate the Hawks thru the regulation time, then scored twice in the extra period.

The Rangers took advantage of a holdover penalty from the third period to score their winning goal after a minute and two seconds of overtime and added another one six minutes later as the Hawks went all out in an effort to tie the score for the fourth time.

New York's veteran line of Lynn Patrick, Bryan Hextall, and Phil Watson accounted for three goals, including both the extra period tallies, and played a major part in the defense that kept Chicago from doing more scoring.

Hextall drove in the winning tally from a scrimmage in front of the Chicago net while Joe Matte still was serving time on a third period penalty. Patrick added the clincher on a fine pass from Watson, and in addition scored New York's second tally while Earl Seibert was in the penalty box during the second period. Rookies Gord Davidson and Lin Bend were the other Ranger goal-getters.

Chicago was ahead only once, when Red Hamill scored the opening goal. Davidson tied it up before the first period ended and New York went ahead twice in the second only to have Doug Bentley knot the count each time.

Hawks Go to Montreal.

After tonight's defeat the Hawks left on an invasion of Canada to tackle the Canadiens in Montreal Thursday and the Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday. The Hawks will be back in Chicago to meet the Maple Leafs again on Sunday.

BOWLERS FROM 17 CITIES CAPTURE ALL-STAR BERTHS

Tulsa, San Francisco to Send Champions.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

A week ago it was announced that bowlers from 15 cities in 11 states already had paid their entry fees into the National All-Star tournament, which is to produce the 1943 individual match game champion and will open in the Auditorium Theater Service Men's center on Dec. 5. In these last seven days the actual entry and applications for entry have been put on a coast to coast and lakes to gulf basis.

The early entry snowed names from such states along the northern border as Earl Gramer of Fargo, N. D.; Connie Schwoegler, Madison, Wis., and Joe Norris of Detroit. From the east came Andy Varipapa of Brooklyn and Charles Butera, Ardmore, Pa. At the week's end the territory embraced by the entry was broadened to include Miami, Fla.

Tulsa to Send Champion.

Then yesterday word came that Tulsa, Okla., was completing a preliminary and would send its winner, and that San Francisco would wind up a 24 man competition this weekend. In the far west field is Jim Toomey, who represented the bay area last year. He bowled 3,764 for 20 games, finishing one pin behind Jules Sowa of Chicago and Junie McMahon of Lodi, N. J.

Seventeen cities now are represented in the field of entrants whose fees are in the hands of Eddie Linsz, secretary of the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America, and secretary of the tournament. The B. P. A. A. is cooperating with the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in sponsorship of the event.

Crimmins Versus Norris!

With the exception of a few men to be selected in tournaments still underway and not scheduled to be over until Nov. 22, the contestants will be chosen a week from today when the All-Star general committee meets. In that field probably will be 23 Chicagoans. Detroit's entry will be headed by Johnny Crimmins and Joe Norris, the bitter rivals who are scheduled to bowl the 90 game special match which will feature the preliminaries.

The field that Andy Varipapa, teacher of THE TRIBUNE's second bowling school, is to cover was extended to the loop yesterday when Max Grossman, Andy's manager, arranged to have the exhibition star appear at two Bensinger establishments on Sunday, Nov. 29. Andy will give his lecture and teach at the Adams-Wabash center, 131 South Wabash avenue, from 5 to 8 p. m. on that date. He will bowl his special match against an opponent named by the house and do his trick shot routine at 11:30 at the 20 West Randolph street center.

Washington Shirts, Classic leaders by two games, meet the powerful Monarch Beers at Hyde Park recreation in tonight's leading Classic league match. Other matches:

Prima Pilsners vs. Thompson Restaurants at Stack & Ryan Bowl; Schlitz vs. Joseph L. Gills at Park Manor; United States Beers vs. Budweisers at Archer-Kedzie; Ambrosia Beer vs. Meister Brau at Conboy's Lanes.

That 20 game match which is to be rolled between Nina Van Camp and Indianapolis' Tillie Kagel at Pla-Mor Saturday night and Bowling Lanes Sunday afternoon will carry a $100 side bet. . . . The three team race for leadership in the South End Traveling league tightened when Archer-Kedzie blanked Highland and gained a tie for second with the Rheingolds, both teams a game behind Chicago Recreation. Ed Carlson of Harry's Owl club shot a 267 game and 692 series, high in the league. . . . Just four squads, totaling 96 men, will be accepted in Schalk's holiday sweepstakes on Jan. 2 and 3. The prize list will total $4,800.

The National Printcraft tournament on April 9-13 will be a sectional event because of travel restriction. After the war it will be returned to its old basis. . . . The Brosius boys, Earl and Ed, did a lot of the shooting as Isbell's won two from Congress Linen Supply in the Hyde Park Major. Earl fired a 679 series and Ed was just nine pins shy of that total. And over in the South Shore Major, Earl rolled a 631 series, while Ed came up with a 230 game.

A 253 individual game, 1,063 team game, 635 individual series and 2,843 team series were some of the figures appearing in the box score of the Edgewater Pepsi-Cola girls as they won two from Mitchell's Tavern at Bowling Lanes. Betty Brugman's 253 was high in the Pepsi-Colas' final game which totaled 1,063. Lee Beisler tallied the 635 series. Entry blanks are out for the Chicago Women's tournament, which opens Jan. 9 at Bowling Lanes. It is a handicap affair. Entries close Dec. 5. Betty Ramsey, 1042 Waveland avenue, is secretary. Logan Square Bucks meet the Budweisers in the top match of tonight's Congress Ladies Classic league competition. Other matches:

Olson Rug vs. Gransons, Victory Ace Arcade vs. Clark Shoes, Tyl-Cicero vs. Gus' Restaurant, Bee-Vac vs. Congress Recreation, Durkee's Margarine vs. Brucks, Meister Brau vs. Thompson Strings, Acme Furnace vs. Marigold Arcade, Playdium vs. Double Cola.

KELLY SOCCER TEAM DEFEATS HYDE PARK, 2-0

Kelly moved into first place in the Chicago Public High school league south section soccer league by turning back Hyde Park, 2 to 0, yesterday at Gage park. The victors now have three victories and four ties, while Hyde Park is in second place with three victories, one loss, and three ties.

Chicago Roller Derby Team Beats New York, 10 to 7

Chicago defeated New York, 10 to 7, last night in the intercity roller skating derby in the Armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue. The eastern squad leads in total points with 234. The Chicago team has scored 228.

GUARDS AGAINST PASSES.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 10 (AP).—Villanova stressed pass defense today in preparation for its invasion of Detroit Sunday.

TILDEN'S COACH WORRIED; IT'S ALL ABOUT FENGER

Mr. Harvey Recalls Title Game of Year Ago.

Fenger High's long reign as Chicago's prep champion came to an end in Soldiers' field yesterday afternoon . . . as Tilden revealed its strength in all departments of the game and triumphed, 20 to 18, in the presence of 25,000.—From THE TRIBUNE of Nov. 23, 1941.

Coach Charles Harvey of Tilden studied the above clipping for a moment in his office yesterday, then shook his head ruefully.

"To win that game last year we had to beat a great team," he said. "It was a battle every minute because the Fenger players were of the highest caliber. And today—altho it didn't seem possible on that November day in Soldiers' field—Fenger seems even stronger."

Coach Harvey's interest in the Roseland eleven yesterday was prompted by the fact his team will have to beat Fenger, which won the south section championship, in a semi-final Public High school league game next Saturday to merit a chance to retain the title it captured last season. The winner of this contest, scheduled for Soldiers' field at 2:15, will play the winner of the other semi-final contest which matches Taft, north section representative, and Austin of the west division.

Fenger Reserves Plentiful.

What Harvey stressed yesterday as he evaluated the power which has made Fenger's football team one of the most feared high school elevens in Chicagoland competition was the unlimited reserves which Coach Charles Palmer seems to have.

"Apparently there is no end to the number of good backs at Fenger," he averred. "This quality, coupled with the exceptional ability which its line has shown, is among its greatest threats. I have been told by experienced observers that Fenger has several teams of almost uniform quality."

To counter the south siders' offensive, Harvey indicated that the Yellow Jackets would continue to utilize the form of attack they have followed thruout the season. Eddie Uvodich, a candidate to retain the all-City recognition he obtained last year, and Ray Schumacher, youngster who is being mentioned for a similar honor, will probably do much of the ball-carrying. They will be assisted by a comparative newcomer to the Tilden scoring ranks, Frank Maratea. Maratea replaced the graduated Len Mazzazo, who worked with Uvodich and Schumacher in fashioning the last Tilden triumph over Fenger.

Tilden Line Is Powerful.

The Tilden line, which averages something over 180 pounds, will continue the pattern of play established by Coach Harvey when he came to the central section nearly two decades back. Led by Center Norm Krueger, the Yellow Jacket line has held its sectional opposition to 18 points in 6 games. It will attempt to duplicate the type of play which held Fenger to 4 first downs in last November's meeting.

Pheasants Sit Tight; Watch Hunters Work

BY BOB BECKER.

The sloughs and marshes were flooded, cornfields were muddy and the pheasants sat tight yesterday morning when northern Illinois hunters went on their first hunts of the season for rabbits and ringnecks. In looking over our records we find many seasons that were more favorable on opening day. Yesterday's conditions made it a better day for sitting in a duck blind than slogging thru a marsh trying to rout the crafty ringnecks.

On our trip thru part of Lake county, Volo, and beyond McHenry to see how the shooters were combing the fields we finally unlimbered our 20 gauge not far from Richmond. A little hunting cocker spaniel named Cy [who picked up about five pounds of cockleburrs] and our Labrador retriever, Dawn, formed the advance guard of our hunting unit which found the ringnecks trying to dig down deep into the vegetation and not ranging the cornfields.

Drops in Open Pasture.

A little pocket of heavy weeds on the lee side of a hill gave us our first shot of the morning. One of hemembers of our party crashed into this cover while we were working the dog in a similar stand of weeds near by. Out popped a ringneck. He turned quickly to work up speed and crossed our firing line at right angles. We were lucky to drop him in an open pasture from which the Labrador made the retrieve.

Considering conditions, we weren't surprised to find pheasants none too plentiful in the cornfields. Paul Davis and one of his hunting partners dropped a couple of ringnecks in a strip of corn, but those were the only shots we had in cornfields. Most of the birds were in weeds. In one field which we hiked thru the jacksnipe had almost taken over the property. The ground was in excellent condition for these birds which like to feed in mucky, black loam that has been softened up by water.

Fewer Shooters Out.

Judging from the hunters we saw along the highway in Lake and McHenry counties, there were fewer shooters out yesterday for the opening than in former years. In the largest hunting group we saw near Volo there were 10 gunners in one field.

He Has Talent

Ed Uvodich, all-city half back in 1941, will be one of Tilden High school's offensive threats in its semi-final battle of the Public High School league race with Fenger High Saturday.

ALSAB FACES 7 RIVALS IN $10,000 HANDICAP TODAY

New York, Nov. 10 (AP).—Alsab gets another chance to close in on Shut Out in their battle for money winning honors of the year tomorrow when he meets seven older horses in the $10,000 Victory handicap at Belmont Park.

Mrs. Albert Sabath's 3 year old has earned $227,715 this year compared to Shut Out's $238,972. Tomorrow's purse for the mile and a quarter test is not large enough to permit Alsab to pass his rival from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable but it will put him close enough so he can do it the next outing since Shut Out is on the sidelines for the remainder of the year. Mrs. Whitney is donating a silver trophy to the winner of the race.

Alsab has been assigned top weight of 126 pounds but off his past performances he should have no trouble giving plenty of poundage to such rivals as Mrs. Whitney's The Rhymer, A. J. Sackett's Tola Rose, and T. H. Heard Jr.'s Boysy. Bright Gallant, Marriage, Bon Jour, and Trierarch complete the field.

NORTHWESTERN WORKS UP ITS RUNNING ATTACK

Aims to Support Passes Against Wisconsin.

Altho Otto Graham's passing looms as Northwestern's principal offensive threat against Wisconsin in Dyche stadium Saturday, the Wildcats hope to muster a running attack that will help offset the Badger duo of Elroy Hirsch and Pat Harder.

The Wildcats have been seeking all season to equalize their offense which is now topheavy on the forward passing side. However, they have had little success on this score as the statistics reveal. In seven games Northwestern has completed 65 passes out of 139 for a gain of 857 yards, against 594 yards by rushing.

In addition to Graham and Buckets Hirsch the Purple will count heavily Saturday on Don Buffmire, who has developed rapidly as a triple threat performer this season. After Graham was sidelined with a leg injury in the Ohio State game three weeks ago Buffmire took over much of the offensive burden, including passing, running, and kicking. He turned in first rate performances in all three departments against both Minnesota and Illinois.

BADGERS SCRIMMAGE.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 10 [Special].—The University of Wisconsin football team turned to scrimmage work today for the first time in over a month as Coach Harry Stuhldreher gave the Badgers a long drill in an attempt to tune their attack in preparation for meeting Northwestern.

The Badger coach was not satisfied with the way in which the Cardinal attack functioned while the Wisconsin eleven was losing its first contest of the year to Iowa and held that scrimmage against the freshmen was the best method of regaining their timing.

The Badgers also received their first look at the Wildcat offensive maneuvers as personified by the "B" team in a dummy workout. A long period was spent in rehearsal of blocking.

OHIO STRESSES DEFENSE.

Columbus, O., Nov. 10 [Special].—Ohio State's battered and bruised Buckeyes spent a long session on defense again today and worked against a freshmen eleven which simulated the Illinois attacks. The first string team, which will start the game against Illinois in Cleveland Saturday, appeared unchanged today with all the regulars who started the Pittsburgh game at their regular posts.

Offense came in for plenty of time today, altho the stress was placed on defense. George Slusser, who had played left half back thru the season and is one of the best passers on the team, has been moved to right half back to take the place of the injured George Frye, who received a leg fracture in the Pitt game. Slusser will back up Paul Sarringhaus, starting right half.

ILLINI SUFFER AGAIN.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 10 (AP).—Illinois' football team, already weakened by the loss of its star passer, Dick Good, received another jolt today with the announcement Art Dufelmeier, a sophomore who had taken over the passing assignment, may not be available for the Ohio State game Saturday.

Dufelmeier received a leg injury in the Northwestern game. Good has been sidelined since the Notre Dame game.

PURDUE SCRIMMAGES.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 11.—Henry Stram and Walter Cook, who despite their small size turned in impressive performances for Purdue against the ponderous Great Lakes eleven last Saturday, were given considerable attention by the Boilermaker coaches in a light scrimmage session this afternoon in preparation for the game with Michigan State at East Lansing Saturday.

YOUEL TO LEAD IOWA.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 10 [Special].—Offense was the major item on the Iowa practice schedule today. Coach Eddie Anderson sent the Hawkeyes thru dummy and signal drills stressing both running and passing attacks for Saturday's game at Minnesota.

Jim Youel, senior half back from Fort Madison, was named game captain for Saturday. He also captained the team against Indiana.

Anderson indicated he would work chiefly with the men he used in last week's game and probably will leave the starting lineup intact.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 10 (AP).—Joe Lauterbach, of Redwood Falls, who has been on the Minnesota bench for almost three years, reported for football practice as usual today and found himself on the first team.

Lauterbach replaced Vic Kulbitski at full back, while Bob Solheim took over at center as the Gophers began practice for the Iowa game here Saturday.

MARQUETTE STAR WATCHES.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 10 [Special].—Johnny Strzykalski, Marquette university's brilliant sophomore half back is favoring a slight injury incurred in Sunday's game with Manhattan. He watched from the sidelines today as his mates began heavy drill for next Sunday afternoon's game with Great Lakes here.

Coach Tom Stidham believes Strzykalski's injury will respond to treatment and that he will be ready for the game with the Bluejackets, but he was grooming another sophomore, Wayne [Rusty] Johnston, at the left half back position today.

Another minor casualty in the Marquette camp is Carl Schuette, sophomore full back, but he too is expected to be ready for Sunday's game.

Men Who Whistle While They Work

Gopher Fans' Fervor Made Dilweg Uncomfortable

THE fervor of a Minnesota crowd during the Gophers' battle with Iowa a few years ago didn't upset LaVern [Lavvie] Dilweg, but it did make him a bit uncomfortable. Lavvie tells it like this: "It is the last quarter, with five minutes to go and Iowa's ahead, 6 to 0. . . The Gophers are down in Iowa territory. . . . The spectators had been rabid all day long and I had been forced to call time out until they quieted down. . . . It was third down, 2 yards to go when one of the Minnesota men missed his signal and more than 30 seconds was taken to put the ball in play. . . . The crowd again was cheering, but I was positive the delay had been caused by a missed signal. . . . I called a 5 yard penalty and Minnesota failed to gain, subsequently losing the ball. . . . The Gophers were rolling at the time and I felt they were on their way to a score. . . . But the game ended, 6 to 0 against them." His biggest thrill was walking on the field in Cleveland stadium to officiate in the Notre Dame-Navy game his second year in the conference. . . . Always had nervous tension just before playing, now has same feeling until blowing his whistle the first time. . . . After Marquette, played end with Packers from 1927 thru 1934. . . . Dilweg, an attorney for 15 years and a resident of Green Bay, was elected as representative to congress from the 8th district last week. . . . He is 39 years old.

Navy Boxers Again Star in CYO Tourney

Second round fighting in the 12th annual Catholic Youth organization amateur tournament was held in CYO center gymnasium last night, with 18 exciting bouts in the novice and beginners' classes.

Tomorrow the finals will be presented in the beginners' division and semi-finals in the open and novice classes. The 32 survivors in the latter two divisions—16 in the open and 16 in the novice—will return for competition in the championship round in Ashland auditorium next Wednesday.

Pier Boxers Again Star.

Bluejacket boxers from Navy pier again featured last night's fights, representatives of this station winning their first five encounters. Those advancing included Dick Saburn, middleweight; George Bray, welterweight, and Sergio Bonetti, lightweight, all novices, and Bob Young, middleweight, and Tom Le Clair, welterweight, both beginners. They were seconded by Chief Petty Officer Jack Peebles and Storekeeper Jack Call, who had charge of the pier team.

Le Clair Stops Campbell.

Saburn beat Frank Keohoe, St. Andrew parish; Bray conquered Evaristo Armas, St. Jude; Bonetti defeated Don Besander, St. James; Young, vanquished Eddie Pounds, St. Elizabeth, and Le Clair stopped Earl Campbell, Holy Name. Results:

BOLDEN DISPLAYS HARD PUNCH IN SPARRING DRILL

Prepares for Colan Bout in Stadium Friday.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Boxing fans yesterday received their last chance to compare the abilities of Johnny Colan and Nate Bolden prior to a 10 round bout between these fighters in Chicago Stadium Friday.

Colan concluded his sparring by going six rounds, three each with Altus Allen and Vince Calzaretto, while Bolden boxed five rounds with Tito Taylor.

The New York heavyweight slugger will return to Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon for his final workout, which will consist of a series of light loosening up exercises. Bolden, however, will continue the boxing phase of his program in another drill with Taylor.

Shows Hitting Power.

In yesterday's activities, Bolden, who has a reputation for being a sharpshooter, was a trifle late with his right counters, but when he landed, the blows shook up his partner. This appearance of punching power caused spectators to forecast the match would end in a knockout.

Since Colan indicates he will carry the contest to Bolden, he may be the one to win in that manner. Otherwise he may be outpointed, chiefly because of his willingness to catch a punch in order to score in close.

Yesterday Colan entered the ring wearing a bandage over his left eye, but this was only a precautionary measure, used to protect an injury he received a year ago at the hands of Tommy Tucker. The cut was reopened when the eastern fighter was training for a conquest of Ernie Vigh in the Stadium outdoor arena last year and Trainer Al Ramo doesn't want to take any chance of having a recurrence.

Damski's Farewell, Too.

Paul Damski, Colan's manager, let it be known that Friday's contest, which will be the last for John for the duration, also will be his final appearance as a fight manager until the war is over. Damski, who can speak nine languages, has been hired by the government to serve as an interpreter. Colan will join the United States coast guard next month.

Sergt. Joe Muscato, Buffalo heavyweight, and Joey Pirrone, Cleveland lightweight, will arrive tomorrow for supporting matches on the Stadium program, the former against Allen and Pirrone against Alvin Gomez.

DRAFT OPENS FOR MINORS; THREE ARE PROMOTED

Durham, N. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—Baseball's minor league draft began today with the American association and the International league selecting a total of three players for promotion.

Kansas City of the American association drew First Baseman Roy Zimmerman from Greenville, S. C., of the South Atlantic league. He batted .338 last season.

Toronto of the International league chose Catcher Herbert Crompton, who batted .273 for Shreveport of the Texas league.

Recruiting Chart

The above chart illustrates the race between the Chicago Bears and Cardinals who are attempting to recruit naval aviation cadets.

The Chicago Cardinals are leading the Bears in their quest of navy aviation cadets. Last night's figures showed the Cards had recruited seven to the pro champions' five. Members of both football teams are making personal appearances at meetings in Chicagoland and giving talks to youngsters on the advantages of entering this branch of the service. The friendly recruiting contest will end Dec. 6.

Cardinal rookies to date are: Melvin Waldman, William Carroll, Walter Bekta, Arthur Jonas, Elmer Westwood, George Kerstein, and Harry Neilson. All but Jonas are from Chicago. He is from Berwyn.

Hutson Owns 13 Marks; Has Share of 14th

This is a Hutson story to end all Hutson stories until after the reports are in Sunday when Don and the Green Bay Packers meet the Bears in Wrigley field.

After exhaustive research a round-up has been made of the National Football league records now clutched by the Packers' mechanical man. He owns 13 and is co-owner of a 14th, more than any pro player in history, and has a chance to collect six more.

Closest approach to Hutson as a record maker was Jack Manders, the Bears' former goal kicking specialist, who managed to corral eight. Some of Don's are slightly technical, but here's the up to date list:

1. Most passes caught during career, 271.
2. Most passes caught one season, 58. [Tied with Don Looney.]
3. Most touchdown passes caught during career, 68.
4. Most touchdown passes caught one season, 13.
5. Most yards gained catching passes during career, 5,221.
6. Most yards gained on passes one season, 917.
7. Most yards gained one game on passes, 209.
8. Shortest completed pass caught, 4 inches.
9. Shortest completed touchdown pass, 4 inches.
10. Most points scored in career, 489.
11. Most points scored one season, 103.
12. Most touchdowns in career, 70.
13. Most touchdowns one season, 13.
14. Most extra points after touchdowns one game, 6.

Hutson has rubbed out two exclusive Manders records and one Jack held with two other players. Manders, until the 1941 season, held the all-time scoring record with 368 points. His 79 points were high for one season until Don broke it last year with 95.

OUR BEARS READY TO STOP THOSE PACKER TRICKS

Bill Osmanski May Play in Sunday's Game.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Sometimes the things you see are not as important as those which do not meet the eye. Yesterday morning, for instance, the Chicago Bears looked businesslike as they went thru chapter 1 of their preparedness for Sunday's big game with the Green Bay Packers in Wrigley field.

At the finish of the drill the Bears went home—but the coaches went into the loop. Heartly [Hunk] Anderson toted the movie machine and Paddy Driscoll came right along with a burlap bag which held the champions' play cards. Luke Johnsos had in his possession scout reports of Green Bay's six victories which followed its loss to the Bears in September. All this paraphernalia was taken to the world champions' Burgundy room on South Wabash avenue for strategy purposes.

Tonight They'll Know.

The scout reports of each Packer game were closely studied. The coaches got a clear picture of the plays which worked for their rivals and those which didn't. Tonight there will be a big powwow of the coaches and players, and after it's over they'll have an idea how they're going to proceed Sunday against the stalwarts of Curly Lambeau.

The coaches admitted that the Bears might have been too finely drawn for the second game with Green Bay last year, which ended in a 16 to 14 setback for the champions and threw the western division race into a playoff. Last year the Bears went to work on Monday instead of taking the customary day's rest following a game. That Monday furnished weather which would have excited comment in Greenland. George McAfee came down with a cold and was hospitalized three days.

They Know What's Ahead.

The coaching trio is agreed that the athletes need no pressure to get keyed up for Sunday's game. They don't have to be sold on the fact that this is their most important game of the year.

Most interesting development on the field was the appearance of Bill Osmanski, No. 1 full back, who has been out of uniform since suffering a knee injury early in the first Green Bay game. Any official announcement of Bill's chances of playing will be delayed until Friday. Osmanski says he definitely will be able to play. Trainer Andy Lotshaw, who has spent hours with the big full back, said:

"I promised I'd have Bill ready for Green Bay, and this still goes." Andy seldom is wrong.

Baker Has Slight Concussion.

Conway Baker, veteran guard of the Chicago Cardinals, is in Garfield Park hospital suffering from a slight concussion incurred in the 28 to 0 loss in Washington Sunday. Gil Duggan, tackle, has a pulled muscle. The Cards will play the Aero Commandos in Wichita, Kas., Sunday. Two former Bears, Pete Bausch, center, and Gene Ronzani, coach and quarter back, play with the Kansans. The Cards will leave Saturday morning.

due to its athletic background. He said our biggest fault has been the creation of an aristocracy of sport in which the bulk of the populace would watch a few talented competitors. The job now, Kelly states, is to bring those spectators down out of the stands and make them physically fit, too.

The PGA held its annual national election yesterday morning. Ed Dudley, the popular Georgian who now resides in Philadelphia, was reëlected president, as were Treasurer Willie Maguire of Houston, Tex., and Secretary Frank Sprogell of Grand Rapids, Mich.

In addition to Dudley, Maguire, and Sprogell, the following vice presidents will comprise the executive committee for 1943:

Tom Mahan, district No. 1, United Shoe Golf club, Beverly, Mass., for two years; John Budd, district No. 2, White Beeches Golf club, Haworth, N. J., two years; James Beirne, district No. 3, Lexington C. C., Lexington, N. J., one year; Leo O'Grady, District No. 4, Transit Valley C. C., East Amherst, N. NOTRE DAME'S BIG JOB—TO CHECK MICHIGAN POWER

Drills on Defense; Two Back Field Men Hurt.

was impressive, particularly the play of Bob Dove and Lou Rymkus at left end and left tackle, respectively, the Cadets did not have the deception we saw when Michigan overwhelmed Northwestern. Except for an infrequent sprint by Carl Anderson or an occasional plunge by Hank, Army was bottled up until it got into scoring position in the second half by passing.

This break in the Irish pass defense undoubtedly has worried Leahy and his assistants, who expect to see more passing this Saturday. Army's rushing attack failed to net a first down in the first half and accomplished only three during the afternoon.

Notre Dame also has another problem which wasn't discussed by any of the staff today. This concerns the passing attack. Despite Angelo Bertelli's excellence in passing, he completed only five in 20 attempts against Army and his record for the last two games is 7 completions in 30 attempts.

Weather Hampered Angelo.

Weather conditions prevented Bertelli from passing consistently against the midshipmen. In each game, however, a pass has scored or set up a score. It was a 10 yard pass to Dove on Navy's 1 yard line that produced the touchdown in Cleveland. Bertelli's pass to Capt. George Murphy scored Notre Dame's second touchdown against Army. Since Bertelli called his pass play in the last 20 seconds of the game, when Notre Dame was leading, 7 to 0, the strategy obviously is subject to criticism.

Notre Dame students are planning a gigantic rally Friday night in the fieldhouse, a pep meeting to surpass all that have preceded, if this is possible. The importance of Saturday's engagement also is reflected in the requests for direct wire service from the press box. Publicitor Joe Petritz announced that all press accommodations would be required to handle the newspaper coverage.

KUZMA TO BE READY.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 10 (AP).—Tom Kuzma, Michigan's star half back, returned to practice today and brought with him the word of team doctors that his wrenched ankle would be healed sufficiently to permit to see action Saturday against Notre Dame.

Coach Fritz Crisler gave the squad a glimpse of Notre Dame plays as portrayed by a freshman eleven and the Wolverines set about to improve their none-too-good pass defense in expectation the Irish will depend largely upon the accurate passing arm of Angelo Bertilli.

Little Worlds.

We must talk of work and war,
Of metal, might, and speed;
We must live in troubled worlds
Of labor, strife, and greed.

While children live in kingdoms small
Of birds, and clouds, and flowers—
And we, grown old, have learned their world
Is grander far than ours. . . .

So we must fight to hold our soil
Where we have worked and grown,
For helpless hearts need us to save
Their worlds within our own.

A Fellow Can't Be Too Careful.

Noticed that my neighbor, Uncle Al, was having considerable trouble last election day with his ballot. So I suggested he take off his gloves. "No siree, by cracky," he replied. "Think I'm gonna have them Washin'ton burycrats checkin' my finger prints findin' out how I voted."

—NWXT-390.

Ten Years Ago Today—Barney Ross advanced nearer a lightweight title match with Tony Canzoneri by pounding out a 10 round decision over Goldie Hess in the Chicago Stadium. . . . Texas Christian took the lead in the Southwest football conference by defeating Texas, 14 to 0.

NAME OFFICIALS TO WORK AUSTIN, TAFT CONTEST

Officials who will work the Taft-Austin semi-final game in the Chicago Public High school league Saturday afternoon in Hanson Park stadium, Fullerton and Central avenues, were selected yesterday by Coaches Bill Heiland and Walter Oberlander.

Sam Pecarora [Dallas] will be referee and Louis Tortorelli [De Paul] the umpire. Earl P. Carey [Loyola] will be head linesman, and Howard Groeninger [Sacred Heart] the field judge.

Made its home town famous. When you taste that famous flavor found only in Schlitz, you'll understand why it made a city famous. A reputation like that doesn't come just by chance. People who imagine that all beer is bitter get a pleasant surprise when they drink America's most distinguished beer. SCHLITZ gives you just the kiss of the hops—all of the delicate flavor, none of the bitterness.

FULL QUART Guest Bottle

Now Schlitz is available in a new 32-ounce bottle—as well as in the familiar 12-ounce bottle. Same Schlitz, same fine quality, same famous flavor. Ask for the full-quart SCHLITZ GUEST BOTTLE for those occasions when you serve more than one person. It contains almost three times as much Schlitz, is easy to carry, fits nicely into the refrigerator.

On tap, too!

THE BEER THAT MADE MILWAUKEE FAMOUS

The El Producto Army is Growing

As war effort grows, more smokers turn to El Producto. Its real enjoyment is a great "refresher" when the going is hard. So mild you can smoke it all day long. A sparkling taste that keeps a man cheerful in the toughest moments. No wonder the army is growing!

EL PRODUCTO CIGARS

for real enjoyment

Steady smokers know El Producto is outstanding in high-grade quality. Only an uncopyable blend of choicest tobaccos can give that keen taste coupled with mildness that lets you smoke all day long.

As a tonic for cheerfulness, El Producto is hard to beat. It's "thumbs up" when you start the day with a pocketful of El Producto.

STOCKS RETREAT SLIGHTLY; PEACE BUYING SHRINKS

Trading Remains Broad, but Volume Drops.

New York, Nov. 10 (AP).—Stocks generally retreated today, with many market leaders losing fractions to a point or more.

Some buying of "peace" issues persisted, but there was enough profit cashing in this group to turn trends downward at the start. Selling of "war" issues dried up, but few registered substantial recoveries.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 0.2 at 40.6. Transfers of 772,220 shares compared with 1,207,643 yesterday which was the largest day's turnover this year.

The market remained relatively broad, with 833 individual issues traded. Of these 399 were down, 215 up, and 219 unchanged.

SIX CHICAGO HIGHS SET.

Altho prices were irregularly lower, six issues advanced to new 1942 highs on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. They were Binks Manufacturing, Montgomery Ward, Pure Oil, Standard Oil [New Jersey], United States Rubber, and Mickelberry's Food Products. All showed fractional gains and none was among the volume leaders.

BOND PRICES LOWER.

New York, Nov. 10 (AP).—Except for firm spots among industrial and foreign issues, bond market prices were lower today.

Rails again were under modest pressure and gave up fractions to about a point for a decline of 0.3 of a point in the Associated Press carrier average. The 10 foreign bonds used in the index attained a new 1942 high.

Large gains were recorded for various foreign dollar bonds standing to gain much by allied victory in the war. Denmark, Oslo, Poland, New South Wales, Jugoslav, and Carlsbad bonds rose 1 to 5 points.

GRAIN FUTURES DROP FRACTIONS IN SLOW TRADING

Grain futures trading was slow on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday and prices moved fractionally lower. Market interest was lacking as traders reverted to waiting for price control developments, particularly flour ceilings.

Wheat closed ⅛ cent a bushel higher to ⅛ cent lower. Corn and rye were down ¼ cent. Oats were off ⅛ cent. Soy beans were ½ cent lower to ¼ cent higher in a nominal market.

Wheat traders were concerned over the possible release of loan wheat under the new Commodity Credit corporation plan in instances where millers are unable to obtain wheat at prices that will allow flour sales within ceiling limits.

The government plan permits farmers to redeem wheat from the loan and sell it in the open market, with CCC taking the loss thru payment of a subsidy to the farmer. Some southwestern mills were reported to have appealed to the CCC to sell wheat because they cannot buy grain at a price low enough to allow them to stay profitably within the ceiling on flour.

Other reports indicated, however, that this condition is not general.

DRAFT CONTROL BY MAN POWER UNIT PROPOSED

Centralization Vital, President Told.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—Transfer of selective service to the War Man Power commission was urged today by the management-labor policy committee of the commission in recommending that 14 separate actions be taken to solve the man power problem.

The group's interim report, made after five months of study, was transmitted to President Roosevelt. Paul V. McNutt is chairman of the man power commission.

Important among the steps the board set forth are:

1. The selective service transfer.
2. Cessation of voluntary enlistments.
3. Centralization of authority and responsibility for determination of the over-all man power program.

Job Transfers Essential.

The group stated in an outline of man power needs that it understood at least 62½ million people will be required by the end of 1943 in direct war activities, including the armed forces.

"The unemployed reserve, which has been decreasing since June, 1940, cannot be reduced much further," the committee stated. "Increasing reliance must be placed on transference to more essential activities.

"Even if the utmost in this regard is done, it is believed the nation will still be faced with the necessity of recruiting and training 5 million new workers in addition to the normal entrance of young people in the labor force. The great majority of these new workers of necessity will be women."

Ask End to Migration.

The report indicated that the labor shortage problem can be met only by prompt action along several related lines. It declared that:

1. Losses of man power from essential industries thru needless migration and turnover must be stopped.
2. Transference of labor from less essential to more essential activities must be accelerated.
3. Additional labor supplies must be mobilized, trained, and placed in employment.
4. All workers must be fully employed at work requiring their highest skills.

The committee expressed opposition to immediate enactment of compulsory national service legislation, reporting:

"The committee doubts that conversion of the moral obligation to serve in the war effort into a legal obligation to serve will of itself solve the man power situation. The problems of administering the man power program, as outlined in part II. of this report, must be solved and enactment of a law will not solve them.

[Part II. is the outline of immediate requirements.]

Hold Change Possible Later.

". . . Experiences in the months which lie ahead may reveal that the executive branch of the government requires supplementary authority from the congress in order to carry forward the man power program in an effective manner."

It recommended that the apportionment of man power between the armed forces and essential civilian activities be left to a centralized authority, composed of the chiefs of staff of the army and navy, the lend lease administrator, the War Production board chairman, and the man power commission chairman.

It asserted that this committee and the man power commission must possess authority sufficient to insure compliance with its policies, declaring lack of authority is a critical weakness of the man power commission.

"As the rate of induction is stepped up and employment increases, the supply of skilled and semiskilled men must be most carefully distributed between the armed forces and industry in such a way that each individual may be placed where he can be of maximum use to the war effort," it stated.

Call for Draft Change.

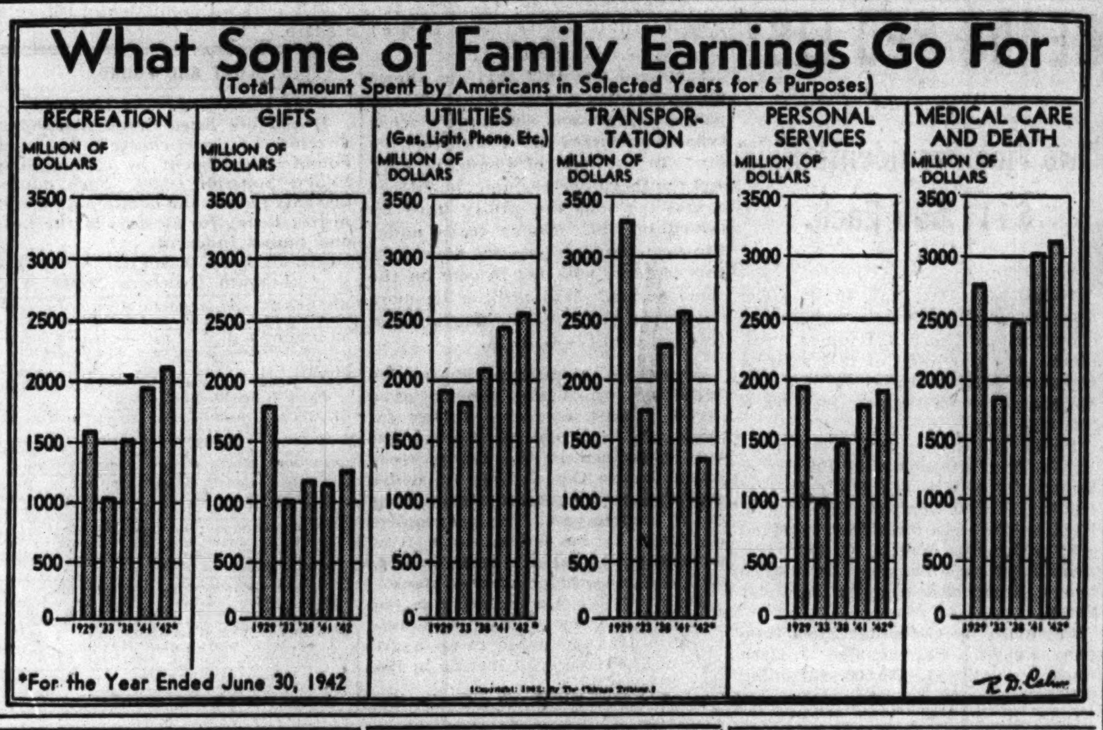
"The committee believes this will require a greater degree of integration with respect to deferment and replacement policies than is possible if the selective service system operates independently of the War Man Power commission. It is desirable that the selective service system be made an integral part of the War Man Power commission, and the committee so recommends.

"Centralization of authority over man power must encompass the cessation of voluntary enlistment, which results in an uncontrolled flow of man power from civilian employment into the armed forces."

Among other recommendations for power were:

1. Provision for special calls by the army and navy thru the selective service system for men with specialized skills.
2. Coördination by the man power commission of civilian training programs in colleges and other establishments with military programs to produce vitally needed technical men.
3. Extension of the man power commission's authority to regulate hiring, rehiring, solicitation, and recruitment of man power in labor shortage areas.

It recommended that management and labor uniformly accept the WMC directives and policies; eliminate wasteful labor turnover; accelerate the rate of transfer from nonessential to essential activities; and accelerate the release of men of military age in essential activities into the armed forces.



Auto Industry Schools Teach War on Wheels

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 10.—Training American youth to take care of the equipment vital to this highly mechanized war is being handled by the automobile industry with the same successful mass production technique that it formerly used to turn out motor cars by the millions.

This was demonstrated in Detroit and Lansing today during a tour thru technical schools operated by the Chevrolet and Oldsmobile divisions of the General Motors corporation for men in the army, navy, and air force. In these schools are young men mastering the makeup of complicated aircraft engines and various automatic guns. There is no lost motion.

"America's young soldiers are good—they have to be," commented C. L. McCuen, vice president of General Motors in charge of engineering, who is in charge of the schools.

Fight Horsepower War.

"They will fight in a mechanized war of horsepower—of horsepower multiplied 110 times compared with World War I. Out of every 100 men serving with our armed forces about 65 will come in contact with mechanically operated devices of some kind."

The soldiers attending these schools must be able to repair and keep in good condition tanks, guns, and other equipment under most difficult circumstances all over the world.

McCuen said General Motors has established 16 schools from which it has graduated about 500 men a week. About 9,000 men have completed courses and 13,000 will have been trained by the end of the year. By next year the schools will be in position to train 40,000 men to "tear down, replace, and rebuild."

Chevrolet's school is a post graduate three week course for mechanics who will handle Pratt & Whitney aircraft engines. The mechanics in this school already have had a thoro background of training in army schools. After finishing here they will qualify as experts in repair and maintenance, mainly in permanent and semi-permanent bases behind the lines.

Assemble Guns Blindfolded.

At the Oldsmobile school men are mastering the intricacies of machine guns and cannon used in American aircraft and tanks.

Two young sergeants, Maynard Radke of Kenosha, Wis., and Donald C. Hoover of Columbiana, O., thrilled the civilian tourists by a demonstration in which they took apart and then reassembled two complicated guns while blindfolded. One gun has 210 parts and the other 265. The soldiers had been in the school only six days.

About 450 men are attending the Oldsmobile school. Before completing the course they will have torn down and rebuilt their guns 15 times. And to pass they must be able to do the job blindfolded to be able to handle the parts by touch in blackouts or other difficult conditions.

Instructors praise the spirit of the young soldiers. None has been reported absent without leave. Only a few fail to pass.

Banks and security and commodity exchanges, with the exception of live stock markets, will be closed today in observance of Armistice day. All chartered banks, security markets, and the Winnipeg grain exchange in Canada will be open.

RESTAURANTS, HOTELS ARE EXEMPTED FROM PRODUCE PRICE TOPS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—The Office of Price Administration today announced that temporary price ceilings on butter, eggs, poultry, and citrus fruits do not apply to sales by restaurants, hotels, or other establishments where food is prepared for sale and consumption on the premises.

Prices of these commodities were frozen on a temporary basis under an order issued Oct. 3. OPA announced today that pending formulation of permanent regulations for these commodities a number of the ordinary regulations applying to other commodities and foods would be applied to the foods under temporary decrees.

For instance, the temporary ceiling applies to sales made by farm coöperatives when the coöperatives are acting for themselves or as agents for farmers. However, direct sales by a farmer of commodities produced on his own farm are not subject to ceilings unless the purchaser is a consumer. Sales to war and other governmental agencies are exempted.

USED AUTO RATIONING POWER GIVEN TO OPA; NOT FOR EARLY USE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—Authority to ration used automobiles was given today to the OPA, which declared it had no present intention to use the power.

Officials explained that the purpose of the order at this time was merely to enable OPA to enforce its tire rationing program by blocking the sale of any used cars which may be found to be equipped with bootleg tires. It was issued by the WPB with the approval of Rubber Director William M. Jeffers.

The OPA authorized rationing of new automobiles to taxicab companies which rent or lease cabs to their drivers and which have certificates of war necessity from the Office of Defense Transportation.

WPB authorized increased production of coal and woodburning domestic heating stoves between now and Jan. 1 by diverting materials from the manufacture of cooking stoves.

Lift Corn Crop Estimate Again to New Record

The largest corn crop on record was forecast yesterday by the department of agriculture in its November estimate of the nation's agricultural production for 1942. The crop was placed at 3,185,141,000 bushels, a gain of 2 per cent over the October estimate of 3,132,002,000 bushels, and comparing with the 2,672,452,000 produced last year and the 10 year [1930-'39] average of 2,307,452,000.

The federal crop reporting board said farmers made fair progress in harvesting this year's crops despite growing shortages of man power, equipment, and storage space. Actual losses of crops were small and attributable in most cases to weather conditions.

Most Crops Set Records.

The board said late reports confirmed earlier indications of a record output of food and feed grains, hay and forage crops, fruits and commercial vegetables, oil seeds, sugar and sirup crops, beans and peas, and a slightly better than average production of potatoes, cotton, and tobacco.

This year's wheat crop, a preliminary estimate of which was made last month and is unchanged, totals 984,046,000 bushels, second only to the billion bushel crop of 1915. Oat and rye crop estimates were not given for November in keeping with the usual practice, but will be included in the final estimate for the year.

Soy Bean Crop Larger.

The board said that despite extensive damage by September frosts, soy bean production was raised 5 per cent to 210 million bushels, or nearly twice the output in any previous season. Many of the damaged beans were reported being harvested.

The potato crop was placed at 379,624,000 bushels, against 376,309,000 indicated a month ago and 357,783,000 last year. The largest rice crop in history—70,086,000 bushels—was forecast.

The Illinois corn crop is expected to yield 54 bushels to the acre and total 433,458,000 bushels.

TRUCE IN STRIKE ENDS ARMY RULE OF OHIO RAIL LINE

Painesville, O., Nov. 10 (AP).—The army's three day operation of the Fairport, Painesville and Eastern railroad ended today under a truce in the strike called by district 50 of the CIO United Mine Workers in protest against employment of nonunion operating men.

James D. Ewing, War Labor board mediator, said the parties agreed to resumption of operations by nonunion train crews pending mediation. L. L. Dixon, general manager of the road, said the engineers were back at their throttles today.

Since the shop and maintenance employés struck Friday soldiers had operated the railroad's six locomotives shuttling materials to war plants and guarded the right of way.

Bill to Permit Minting of Plastic Penny Offered

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—Pennies might be made of plastics under a bill introduced by Sen. Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.]. To conserve copper for the war effort, the bill would authorize minting of pennies from a number of materials, including plastics or zinc-plated steel.

Court Ruling Near on Utility 'Death Clause'

New York, Nov. 10 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals reserved decision today on the constitutionality of the "death sentence" section of the holding company act under which the Securities and Exchange commission ordered the North American company to divest itself on all except one of its utility systems.

The constitutionality of the clause was challenged by North American in an appeal seeking reversal of the SEC order last April 14 to sever control of all related properties other than the Union Electric company of Missouri.

Assistant Solicitor Milton V. Freeman of the SEC argued that the "type of regulation selected by the commission is reasonably related to the congressional power."

Asks "Destruction of Evil."

"The act is aimed at the destruction of an evil," he asserted, adding that "congress had held that the nation-wide holding company device is an evil and must be eliminated."

Charles E. Hughes Jr., North American counsel, told the court the SEC order would result in complete destruction of the company's property rights.

Hughes asked the court to rule on whether the commission's order was supported by the record, whether the act authorized the commission to issue the type of order now under review, and to determine the constitutionality of the "death sentence."

North American, which comprises 80 companies, said in its reply brief that the forced sale or other disposal of property held by holding companies is not within federal control.

"Nullifies Basic Concepts."

Such an extension of federal power, it asserted, would nullify "the basic constitutional conception that the federal government possesses only delegated and limited powers." It said ownership of property referred to in the "death sentence" action is characteristically an intrastate matter.

Contending that the death sentence also is a violation of the fifth amendment to the Constitution, North American charged that provisions for forced sale involved "destruction of valuation thru compelling divestment at valuations determined, not between willing buyers and sellers, but between forced sellers and unwilling buyers."

Such deprivation of property, it said, "amounts in substance to denial of any constitutional safeguard against arbitrary congressional confiscation of property."

HANCOCK MUTUAL CUTS DIVIDENDS ON ITS POLICIES

Boston, Mass., Nov. 10 (AP).—The John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company announced today the interest factor for the new dividend formula has been reduced to 3½ from 3¾ per cent, the figures maintained without change by the company during the last six years.

The effect of the new formula is a decrease of approximately 11½ per cent in the amount of dividended payments on ordinary policies for 1943, President Guy W. Cox said.

The new formula, he said, was due to increased taxation, and to a decrease in interest rates on available investments, except government bonds, whose current low interest rates are insufficient to maintain the former dividend.

MUCH WAR WORK TO BE EXEMPT IN COST REVIEW

Effect of Change in Profit Law Told.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Describing cost control as the primary objective of the renegotiation act, Col. Albert J. Browning of the war department services of supply, predicted yesterday that many future war contracts will be let with specific guarantees that the terms will not be altered later.

Authority to exempt future contracts from the renegotiation act was granted by the amendments to the act adopted last month by congress, Col. Browning said. Exempt contracts will be negotiated when the manufacturers' costs can be accurately gauged at the time the terms of the contract are written, he said.

This procedure will eliminate entirely the present renegotiation method. This is the objective sought by the war department in its administration of the act, he asserted.

Former United Wall Paper Head.

Col. Browning, who is director of the purchases division of the services of supply, spoke at a luncheon meeting in the Blackstone hotel arranged by the Illinois Manufacturers association. Two hundred manufacturers and business men attended the meeting. Before going to Washington Col. Browning was president of United Wall Paper Factories, Inc., of Chicago. He resigned that position last January.

Col. Browning said that the first price adjustment act adopted last April had many shortcomings. These were largely corrected, he said, by the amendments adopted last month at the instigation of the war department.

The most frequent criticism of the act as it now stands, he said, is that there is no guarantee that all war contractors will be treated alike under renegotiation. It is true, he said, that some contractors may get a better break than others under renegotiation.

Fair Profit Not Same for All.

"But that situation exists too in the writing of original contracts," he said. "Some contractors may get more favorable terms than others, depending on a number of factors that cannot be completely controled."

It was impossible, he added, to write a formula defining "excessive profits" that could be applied to all war contractors.

"I know of one case," he said, "where a profit of 2 per cent on sales can be considered a fair return. On another a return of 20 per cent is reasonable.

"The problem of the manufacturer who is producing a large volume of a comparatively simple product is entirely different from that of the manufacturer who is turning out a complex apparatus, the output of which is comparatively small. A percentage profit that would be entirely reasonably in one case might be exceedingly unfair in another."

Tax Rate Not a Cost Control.

It has been asserted, Col. Browning said, that the existing tax laws by themselves would prevent war contractors from making excessive profits.

"While the tax law limits profits," he asserted, "it does not control costs. That is our job. A high tax rate might encourage inflation of costs and the purpose of this act would not be attained. We are striving to keep costs down and promote the greatest efficiency possible."

Col. Browning advised contractors to initiate renegotiation proceedings rather than to wait for the government to start them. This advice was echoed by James F. Oates, chief of the contract service of the Chicago ordnance department.

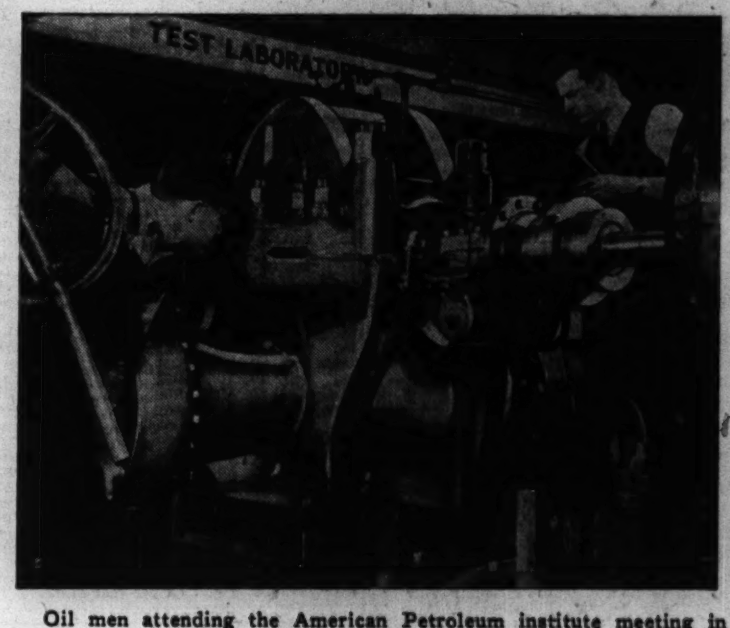
Many Orders Based on Guesses.

There is no presumption on the part of the government agencies, Oates said, that any contractor is a profiteer. It is recognized, however, that many hastily drawn contracts were based on guesses in absence of dependable cost figures. It is now essential that these contracts be rewritten in the light of present information and experience.

Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, chief of the Chicago ordnance district, spoke briefly, describing the work of the department.

"The country's No. 1 job at present," he said, "is to kill Japs and Nazis en masse. The ordnance job is to see that the weapons are produced to accomplish the first task. We are doing just that in the most businesslike way we know."

First Pump for New 'Big Inch' Oil Line



Oil men attending the American Petroleum institute meeting in Chicago learned yesterday that Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, Milwaukee, has completed tests on the first pump which will be used on the 551 mile 24 inch pipe line that is being built to help relieve the eastern oil shortage. The line will reach from Longview, Tex., to Norris City, Ill. Oil men call it the "Big Inch" because it is twice the size of any existing line.

NAVY TO END UNIFORM 'MONOPOLY,' LET SMALL FIRMS SHARE ORDERS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—The senate small business committee announced today that the navy has decided to cancel an order under which two manufacturers have a "virtual monopoly" in the production of ready-made uniforms for naval officers. The exclusive contracts are with Cohen Goldman & Co., New York City, and Joseph & Weiss, Cleveland, O.

"Navy officials are now at work on a new plan which will spread orders for officers' uniforms among many of the smaller concerns that were squeezed out by the drastic terms of the original arrangement," a committee statement said. The nature of the new plan was not disclosed.

Capt. F. P. Delahanty told the committee recently that the original order was placed June 8 after navy officers complained that many stores were charging high prices for inferior uniforms. Stanley J. Cummings, executive secretary of the National Association of Uniform Manufacturers, complained to the committee that the navy order was proving disastrous to members of his association.

CHING MADE FULL TIME INDUSTRY MEMBER OF WLB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—Cyrus Ching, vice president of the United States Rubber company and an alternate member of the War Labor board, today was appointed a regular industry member of the WLB by President Roosevelt. He succeeds E. J. McMillan, who resigned to devote full time to his business. Reuben B. Robertson, executive vice president of the Champion Fiber and Paper company, and Frederick S. Fales, a director of Carrier corporation and formerly a Socony-Vacuum corporation vice president, were appointed alternate members, succeeding Ching and R. R. Deupree, who resigned.

Harry Shulman, Yale university law professor, was appointed administrative associate member in charge of the mediation division, succeeding Ralf T. Seward, and Carroll R. Daugherty, Hunter college, New York City, professor of economics, was named director of the newly established division of review, research and analysis.

MORE HOURS, END OF OVERTIME PAY HELD WAR NEED

Elimination of the 40 hour week and overtime pay as a means of increasing production in normal economic lines would be a more effective inflationary brake than the "woefully inadequate" 1942 tax law, Dr. Paul Haensel, professor of economics at Northwestern university, said yesterday.

Addressing a meeting of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages in the Morrison hotel, Haensel said the new tax bill would reach some 50 million persons but that only about one day's war costs would be collected from incomes below $2,000 a year. Consequently, the bulk of the new tax load will fall on less than 1 million taxpayers, he said.

Haensel said that a federal sales tax and a form of compulsory savings would have achieved much better results than a 5 per cent "victory tax" without the necessity of a costly burocratic record keeping system.

BIG PAPER FIRM REPORTS SEVERE PROFIT DECREASE

The International Paper company, one of the largest paper mill operators, yesterday reported a severe shrinkage in net earnings, largely because of mounting taxes.

September quarter net profit was $1,427,045, equal to 15 cents a share on common stock, compared with $4,321,890, or $1.73 a share in the corresponding 1941 period.

Profit for the first nine months of 1942 was $7,244,070, against $11,512,519 last year, equal to $2.07 and $4.41 a share, respectively. Figures for both 1942 periods are after assuming post-war tax credits.

Oil Drilling Pie for an Expert Slinger of Mud

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Men who know a lot about mud get paid big salaries for making it in the oil drilling business. They talked about their art yesterday at the annual meeting of the American Petroleum institute.

Like many other professions, the mudmaking business is split by two schools of thought. There is the practical, on-the-job mudmaker, who works right at the well and tries to get his work done without too many of the niceties of scientific and chemical computations. All he is interested in is concocting the kind of mud, with whatever facilities are at hand, that will go down the drill pipe, clean the drill bit, control gas pressure, and flow back up outside the drill pipe, carrying out with it the particles loosened by the bit.

Get Set to Dodge This One.

Then there is the theoretical, ultrascientific sort of mudmaker, who makes complicated studies, in an ivory tower as likely as not, and sallies forth once in a while with his findings.

Sometimes these two types of mudmakers don't quite see eye to eye. Then they throw mud at each other.

When a theoretical mudmaker throws mud, it looks like this:

3 Ca [OH] 2 plus 2 NAH2PO4
CA3 [P04] 2 plus 2NaOH plus H20

NaOH plus NaH2P04
Na2HP04 plus H20

That way nobody gets smeared up.

But, Getting Down to Earth.

But it's all done with the best of intentions and sometimes the theoretical mud chemist can help the mud chemist on the job a great deal by showing him how to overcome problems that arise when substances encountered in various kinds of earth in drilling make it difficult to keep the mud functioning properly.

Preston E. Chaney of the Sun Oil company, Beaumont, Tex., told all about recent advances in drilling mud control in a technical paper presented at a group meeting of institute members in the Palmer House yesterday.

NAME HOFFMAN REFRIGERATOR RAIL CAR CHIEF

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce commission today appointed Robert B. Hoffman of Chicago its agent, effective today, over the nation's refrigerator cars.

Hoffman, who is manager of the refrigerator car section, power service division, Association of American Railroads, was authorized to "supervise, coördinate, and direct the distribution of all refrigerator cars according to the needs of the various loading areas and with due regard to economy and their use and mileage."

The ICC advised him that when necessary he should order the distribution of the cars "without regard to ownership or assignment" to give them preference over other traffic for the transportation of materials and supplies of war, to eliminate unnecessary hauls, and to reduce the use of refrigerator cars for goods which do not need that type of equipment.

ICE MAKERS TOLD THEY WILL GET MATERIAL NEEDS

The ice producing and distributing industry will probably be able to obtain much of the material needed to carry on business because of the essential nature of its product, Guy W. Jacobs, OPA official, said yesterday at the war conference being held by the National Association of Ice Industries in the Sherman hotel.

Jacobs said the industry was in an enviable position and will qualify for oil, gasoline, and tires.

In an earlier address, E. F. Stegan, regional rationing executive, said the OPA had no wish to hamper the ice industry, but the business must conserve materials and use only what it absolutely needs.

OIL MEN ASK 48 HOUR WEEK TO AID WAR EFFORT

Council Says Output Would Increase.

The nation's petroleum industry, acting thru its officially appointed war council, recommended at a meeting in Chicago yesterday that the regular work week for industries generally be increased to 48 hours, from the present 40, to speed the war effort.

The council acted as 1,600 or more oil men from all parts of the country gathered for the second day of the four day annual meeting of the American Petroleum institute in the Palmer House and held numerous group sessions for discussions of technical subjects connected with drilling, refining, and transportation.

Cites Man Power Shortages.

The Petroleum Industry War council, appointed early in the armament effort by Petroleum Coördinator Harold Ickes to advise him in behalf of the industry, adopted a resolution containing its plea for a 48 hour week.

Asserting that a shortage of man power exists in the petroleum and other industries producing goods essential to victory in the war, the council added:

"The work week can be enlarged and remain well within the maximum hours of efficient output without injury to health or safety, and, with a more efficient use of the existing labor supply which will result, the output of goods will be increased. As a step in solving the man power problem, the regular work week should be extended from 40 hours to 48, and industry thereby more closely geared to war demands without depriving the armed forces of needed man power."

Ask Less Record Keeping.

William R. Boyd Jr., chairman of the council, announced the action. He said the council also voted to ask the coördinator to urge certain government agencies to relieve the oil industry of some of the book work connected with unemployment compensation. Boyd said some agencies request voluminous unemployment compensation reports on a county basis. In the oil industry, employes constantly are moving across county lines, and a vast amount of labor and time is required to keep the records involved, Boyd said.

The council also urged that the government permit re-drilling or reconditioning of existing wells and amend priorities regulation No. 13 to allow transfers of equipment among coöperators of oil and gas leases without obtaining specific authorizations.

Suggest Higher Truck Speed.

Earlier the PIWC had proposed that the speed limit of 35 miles an hour be amended so that trucks may go 45 miles an hour, and had urged rationing boards be instructed to see that tires are available for oil trucks.

One of the technical reports presented at the institute group meetings disclosed that in certain fields where oil or gas is found at more than one level the amount of steel required has been cut 46 per cent thru use of a method of tapping two or more levels in the same well. The system eliminates the necessity of drilling a well into each level. One well tapping two levels can save as much as 105 tons of steel that would be required for a second drilling, the report's authors—I. W. Alcorn of Pure Oil company and W. A. Alexander of Shell Oil Co., Inc., both of Houston, Tex.—said.

Today Ickes, Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, and Col. David G. Lingle, of the army air forces, will speak at general sessions of the institute. Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum coördinator, will address the institute tomorrow.

N. Y. CENTRAL'S NEW SCHEDULES EFFECTIVE DEC. 6

Wartime passenger train schedule changes of the New York Central system have been completed and will become effective Sunday, Dec. 6, the company announced yesterday.

The sale of Pullman space which had been withdrawn beyond Dec. 5 pending determination of these schedules has been resumed in New York, Chicago, and Boston. Passengers contemplating trips after Dec. 5 may purchase rail and Pullman tickets at all offices in these cities, said F. H. Baird, general passenger traffic manager. Sales in intermediate cities will be resumed later, he said.

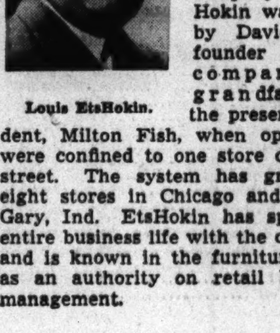
PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Louis EtsHokin, secretary of the L. Fish Furniture company, will be the guest of friends and business associates at a dinner and reception Sunday in the Standard club to mark his 50th year with the company. EtsHokin was hired by David Fish, founder of the company and grandfather of the present president, Milton Fish, when operations were confined to one store on State street. The system has grown to eight stores in Chicago and one in Gary, Ind. EtsHokin has spent his entire business life with the company and is known in the furniture trade as an authority on retail business management.



Louis EtsHokin.

Recognition of 51 years of service in the packing industry was accorded Frank D. McKeag, manager of the Chicago employment office of Armour & Co., at a meeting of the Armour Plant Executives' club last night. McKeag, who has been associated with Armour for 40 years, was presented with a watch by Warren H. Sapp, general manager of the Chicago plant.

William H. Sahud has become associated with Sills, Troxell & Minton, Inc., investment securities firm, in its sales organization. He formerly was vice president of Charles K. Morris & Co., Inc.

Edward A. Berndt, assistant trust officer of the American National Bank and Trust company, has been commissioned a lieutenant [j. g.] in the navy. He is serving in the bureau of supplies and accounts, Washington, D. C.

MIDLAND UTILITY CLAIM HEARING SIFTS BANK LOAN

Adds More Pages to Long Insull Case Record.

A few hundred more pages of testimony were added yesterday to a court record which since 1938 already has consumed 36,000 pages without producing a settlement of the claims and counter claims of the Midland United and Midland Utilities companies and their creditors. These involve millions of dollars.

Daniel O. Hastings, federal court master at Wilmington, Del., heard additional testimony of a half dozen lawyers for consideration in arriving at a final recommendation for settlement of the dispute.

The master, who conducted the hearing at 1 North La Salle street, expressed a determination to file his report before the end of the year with the Federal court at Wilmington, corporate headquarters of the companies, and with the Securities and Exchange commission. Both must pass on the merits of the settlement.

Continental's Loans at Issue.

Yesterday's hearing was confined to the part played by the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company in loans advanced by various Chicago banks 11 years ago as the late Samuel Insull was attempting to stave off the collapse of his utility empire.

Specifically involved was the question of the bank's good faith in advancing $3,400,000 on securities which, according to the testimony, were borrowed from the Utilities treasury by another Insull unit—Insull Utility Investments—and pledged with the bank as collateral.

Attorneys for the Midland companies' trustees contend the bank knew or should have known that the securities were the property of Utilities and not I. U. I. They seek to cut the bank's claim against the bankrupt estate by $1,200,000 to a total of $2,200,000 on this loan.

Good Faith Asserted.

Bank lawyers asserted the collateral was accepted in good faith on the assumption the securities were the actual property of I. U. I. They are to complete their arguments this morning.

Hastings dismissed as immaterial any discussion as to whether directors of any of the utility companies had approved a reported switch in securities to bolster the loan collateral.

"If anything is clear from a study of this long record," he commented, "it is that the directors would have done anything Samuel Insull wanted. It was strictly a one-man show."

It had been argued that I. U. I., which was running short of good collateral to support an 18 million dollar Continental loan 11 years ago, borrowed from Utilities the securities in question in return for stocks which later proved of far less value.

No Indication Given.

At the time, however, the substituted securities had a higher total market value than those they replaced, the bank's attorneys said.

Hastings declined to indicate the probable nature of his recommendations. The Securities and Exchange commission in May, 1941, recommended settlement of the conflicting claims on a basis that would have favored Utilities. United, under this recommendation, would have subordinated a 24 million dollar claim against Utilities in a step toward reorganization of the companies.

Since then, however, market valuations of the companies' assets have changed to such an extent that at least some lawyers expect the final recommendation to reverse this situation—giving United the more advantageous treatment.

Interest Accumulates.

Interest on the disputed claims is accumulating at the rate of about $700,000 a year, according to lawyers, totaling about $5,500,000 since the receivership began in 1934, thus reducing the equity of shareholders.

Stocks which finally were reduced to possession by the bank were those of the Commonwealth Edison company, Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, and Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. Insull Utility Investments was said to have borrowed these shares from Midland Utilities, because stocks of Middle West Utilities and other companies available to I. U. I. at the time were not considered suitable as collateral.

Principal arguments were made by Max Swiren, attorney for the Midland United trustee, and Frank D. Mayer, and Donald M. Graham, representing the Continental bank.

POTATO FUTURES INTEREST CUT 15% BY LIQUIDATION

Slightly more than 15 per cent of the open interest in November potato futures was liquidated on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday as trading reopened under a new temporary ceiling of $2.9[illegible] for 100 pounds established by the exchange. Traders delivered six carlots in settlement of contracts prior to the opening and 73 contracts subsequently were closed out.

All transactions were at the maximum, which is 2 cents under the old temporary ceiling established early last month. The new limit was set following announcement of permanent ceilings by the OPA to replace the former temporary tops. January potato and onion futures trading has been suspended indefinitely pending clarification of the federal price regulations, while November trading is limited to liquidation of open positions.

TAX CREDIT.

I noticed the 1942 tax law allows public utilities a credit for dividends paid on preferred shares. To what type of preferred stock does this apply? In the case of Commonwealth and Southern, for example, how large a credit would the utility have received on 1941 income taxes under the new revenue act, and how does this compare with net income for the same period? Will utilities be more apt to pay preferred dividends to get this tax credit?—G. L. K.

Answer: The preferred stock, dividends on which are allowed as a credit against corporate surtax for public utilities under the 1942 revenue law, is defined in the act as stock issued before Oct. 1, 1942, on which dividends were cumulative during the entire taxable year. The act requires dividends to be limited to a fixed amount and payable in preference to dividends on other classes of stock.

Dividends on Commonwealth and Southern $6 cumulative preferred stock in 1941 amounted to an aggregate of $4,498,938. Net income in 1941 was $12,141,227.

Since generally there are no provisions in the preferred stock or corporate charter requiring specific payment of preferred dividends where earnings are sufficient to cover the annual rate, the directors of a utility can use their discretion in such matters.

With a credit against surtax available for payment of preferred dividends, it is probable that directors of utilities might take a more liberal attitude in the payment of these dividends.

INVESTORS' HOLDINGS.

How much of United States Steel corporation common stock is in the hands of investors?—F. D. W.

Answer: Investors' holdings of United States Steel common on Sept. 30 amounted to 6,537,735 shares, or 75 per cent of the total outstanding.

DIVIDEND INCREASED.

How much was the last dividend declared by Eagle-Picher Lead company and how did it compare with the preceding payment?—J. E.

Answer: The company declared a dividend of 30 cents on the common stock payable Dec. 15, compared with a preceding disbursement of 10 cents in October.

TOP PRICE.

How much was the highest price reach for Douglas Aircraft stock on the New York Stock exchange?—G. B.

Answer: 94⅞ in 1940.

AND ADMINISTRATIVE ACCOUNTANTS
A large business engineering firm needs several college graduates or equivalent, over 40 years of age.
PLANT EXECUTIVES should possess mechanical engineering degree or have specific comprehensive experience in the creation and application of plant layout, production and factory management, time and motion study, methods, standards, wage incentives, and organization.
ADMINISTRATIVE ACCOUNTANTS must have wide experience in the creation and application of standard cost systems, general accounting, cash controls, flexible budgetry controls, cost accounting, and other management controls.
Give complete abstract of business experience, plus full personal data, such as age, college attended, and degree earned, number of dependents, and how soon available, and draft status. Also give phone number and enclose recent snapshot of yourself [not returnable].
Must be a United States citizen and be willing to travel extensively and stand rigid investigation for bond which we furnish.
Starting rate over $3,000 per year, with quick advancement for qualified men to executive positions paying $5,000 per year and up. Our business is unaffected by priorities, is rapidly expanding, and offers an unlimited opportunity for the right man to enter professional work now as a business consultant and be securely established with a sound income after the war. If you are in a nonessential business or one hampered by material shortage, this is your opportunity!

EXECUTIVE TRAINING

THE WAR and its demands for production and more production has thinned the ranks of executives to the danger point. The country needs men with executive training just as it needs production workers and men for the armed forces.

THE ALEXANDER HAMILTON INSTITUTE is daily receiving more inquiries regarding its intensive course of executive training than it has field force to handle.

MATURE MEN between 40 and 60 with good education and background of successful business accomplishment capable of interviewing and advising such inquiries are needed.

THERE ARE VACANCIES in the Chicago area, and also in central and Eastern Michigan. Complete and adequate training as to our procedure given to the men selected.

COMPENSATION by commission and monthly bonus offers satisfactory income.

Write fully, giving telephone number, to Alexander Hamilton Institute. ADDRESS X X 86, TRIBUNE.

DON'T BORROW
Borrowing is not always the proper solution to a money shortage. But there are times when a loan is both provident and wise. For instance you might borrow to move into a more economical house, nearer to work . . . to pay cash for medical and dental attention before your favorite doctor is called into the armed forces . . . to buy winter fuel and clothing . . . to clean up past due charge accounts and other bills . . . to buy tools, to pay union dues, or to take special courses for a new job on war production . . . and for many other purposes equally worthy. Loans $10 to $300. "While you wait" service to those who phone ahead or come prepared to present proper identification and evidence of employment.
